European Action on Spain Awaited.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 17.—[Special.]—Although the government of the Spanish republic has announced that it will discharge all international obligations, including the $38,000,000 Morgan loan recently made to the monarchist government, the Hoover administration, it was learned tonight, is going to be in no hurry in recognizing the new régime.

AMBASSADOR IRWIN B. LAUGHLIN. [(C) Harris & Ewing.]

The present disposition of President Hoover is to withhold action pending the decision of European governments on the question of recognizing the new government. The theory underlying this attitude is that the recognition of the Spanish republic is primarily the concern of Europe in which it would be improper for the United States to intrude at this stage of the matter. According to the state department there is a tacit diplomatic understanding whereby European nations defer to the United States in the recognition of new governments in the western hemisphere and the United States defers to the principal states of Europe when it is a new government on that continent that is involved.

Cite of Brazil Cited.

In the cases of the revolutions in Brazil and Argentina, it is stated, Great Britain recognized the new governments only after being advised by Washington that the United States would extend recognition.

Although members of the senate foreign relations committee declined to discuss the matter for publication, it became known that the administration will subject itself to criticism from this quarter if it should refuse recognition on what may be pronounced a flimsy pretext.

There is also evident a tendency among such critics of the administration to suspect an overweening willingness on the part of the President and Secretary Stimson to defer to Britain, a monarchical country whose sovereign is related by marriage to Alfonso and who may be expected to exert his influence against recognition of the republican régime. For the foremost republic of the world to be deferring to a monarchy on the question of recognition of a republic is regarded by such critics as nothing short of scandalous.

See Monarchical Spell.

From these sources emanates the view that the state department is under the spell of monarchical social influence, exerted not only through the medium of American diplomats abroad, but of the foreign diplomatic colony in Washington. Irwin B. Laughlin, American ambassador to Spain, for example, is said to have been so completely under the influence of the court of Alfonso that he regarded the triumph of the republican movement the remotest of contingencies. It is well known that the preference of the social lions in the state department is for service at the courts of monarchies. They find their occupation at a republican capital without glamour.

In quarters not too friendly to the administration it is also remarked that a distinctly monarchical complex on the part of the state department is disclosed by the importance which it attaches to the fact that Alfonso did not actually abdicate, but left the country at the advice of his ministers to avert civil war. Due to this fact, Alfonso, according to the state department view, is merely temporarily absent from his country pending the election of parliament. The intimation is that it would be improper to recognize the republican government in such circumstances.

Church Attitude Awaited.

Whether the republicans of Spain will be able to establish a stable government and maintain order is one of the most important considerations, according to the state department. And an important phase of this question is the attitude of the Roman Catholic church, which is more powerful in Spain than in any other country. The Catholic church in Spain is

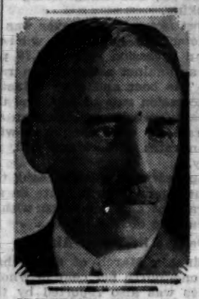
CITIZENS OF U. S. FLEE NICARAGUA INTERIOR TOWNS

Warning by Stimson Leads to Evacuation

PUERTO CABEZAS, Nicaragua, April 17.—(AP)—R. J. Salassi, local manager of the Standard Fruit company here, tonight reported that all Americans in this district were evacuating their homes and businesses in consequence of Secretary of State Stimson's warning the American government could not undertake their general protection.



SECRETARY STIMSON. [(C.) Harris & Ewing.]

Salassi said he had received the following telegram from Alvin T. Rowe, American consul at Bluefields:

"Advise Americans this government cannot undertake their general protection in Nicaragua with American forces. The state department recommends that Americans who feel insecure withdraw from the country or seek protection in coast towns, where they may be evacuated if necessary. Americans remain in Nicaragua at their own risk and must not expect protection from American forces."

Fears Complications.

Salassi said there were British subjects and other foreigners still in the region and that this might cause grave complications.

Refugees from outside the town said the outlaws appeared particularly interested in killing Americans and Jamaicans and destroying American property.

All was quiet in Puerto Cabezas today and it was believed no attack would be made as long as naval protection was in port here. Fear was expressed, however, that as soon as the naval protection was withdrawn the outlaws and their sympathizers would attempt to overwhelm the local Nicaraguan national guard force, kill Americans and destroy all American property.

Reinforcements Sent Out.

BLUEFIELDS, Nicaragua, April 17.—(AP)—A detachment of twenty national guardsmen was sent today to reinforce those under Col. J. Marston in the Puerto Cabezas area, who are hunting outlaws that killed at least nine Americans within the last few days.

Col. Marston's forces today captured eighteen looters. The slaying of Karl Bergener, a Moravian missionary, of Watertown, Wis., by outlaws, was confirmed today. His wife and children are safe.

Augusto Tejada, a Nicaraguan engineer and a United States world war veteran, was accidentally killed by an American marine in Puerto Cabezas today.

Stimson Issues Warning.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 17.—[Special.]—Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson today warned Americans in Nicaragua that the United States will no longer undertake to accord general protection to all its citizens in that bandit infested republic. Americans in the coast cities will be protected, he said, but those who remain in the interior must do so "at their own risk."

Carrying out the decision to protect Americans and their property in eastern coastal ports, but not in the interior, Secretary Stimson ordered the cruiser Rochester to proceed as rapidly as possible from Balboa to Bluefields. The orders sent to Rear Admiral Arthur St. C. Smith, commander of the special service squadron, for his transmission to all naval vessels in the trouble area called for use of all necessary force in the protection of life and property if the ports under guard were attacked. Commanders of vessels were ordered to offer asylum to refugees.

Barred from Interior.

The commanders were denied the "right of extending their operations into the interior and beyond the limits of the towns" they were assigned to guard. Previously commanders of naval vessels in danger zones have had authority to go into the interior if necessary for the protection of life and property.

The modified Hoover policy toward Nicaragua was made public in telegraphed instructions sent by Secretary Stimson to American diplomatic officials in Nicaragua. In this com-

New York Club of Fraternity Raided by Drys

New York, April 17.—[Special.]—Thirteen places in Manhattan and the Bronx, including the quarters of Delta Kappa Epsilon, national college fraternity, in East 51st street, opposite St. Patrick's cathedral, were raided today by agents on the staff of Andrew McCampbell, prohibition administrator.

Seventeen prisoners, including an employé and two members of the fraternity, were arrested and quantities of alleged liquors were seized. According to Mr. McCampbell 60 bottles of liquor were taken from the lockers in the Delta Kappa Epsilon building.

The three men arrested in the fraternity house were described as Peter J. Smith, assistant manager; Nelson E. Seubert, an engineer, and James H. Hooks, a salesman. They were held on charges of possessing liquor in violation of the law.

Marshal Comes Back.

Mr. McCampbell said the complaint on which the search warrant was issued was made by a deputy United States marshal who visited the club some days ago to serve a personal injunction. The marshal was escorted from the place, but not before he had witnessed what he believed was a violation of the prohibition law, according to the authorities.

Today he came back with two prohibition agents, and they started a search through the members' lockers, where they said they found the sixty bottles of liquor. Why Hooks and Seubert were taken along with the assistant manager, was not made clear. No one at the club would discuss the matter later. Several persons on the premises even denied there had been a raid.

Second Raid on Club.

Several months ago the Delta Kappa Epsilon building was visited by other prohibition agents, and at that time it was reported a bar was found. The agents who conducted the raid today reported, however, that they found no bar.

Fraternity houses in the city have been raided on other occasions. There was a sensational one last May on the Fraternities club building, conducted by agents who maintained that they got the evidence for the warrants by posing as club members.

Sentenced to Keep Out of Trouble Until He's 101

Los Angeles, Cal., April 17.—(AP)—Gaudalupe Duran of Downey, must keep out of trouble until he is 101 years old, otherwise to jail he must go for two years. So warned Superior Judge Charles W. Fricke after hearing Duran's case of selling beer to minors.

GUNMEN WAYLAY, SHOOT REPUTED HANDBOOK MAN

George Turner, 39 years old, a real estate dealer and reputed handbook operator, was shot in the head early this morning by four gunmen who waylaid him and Walter Rhodes of 4018 Cottage Grove avenue, a Negro garage attendant, at Whipple street and Schubert avenue. Turner, it was said, will not die. Police declared that Turner has been connected with several handbooks and other gaming places.

Turner and Rhodes were driving from the garage at 2518 Willetts court to his home at 2648 North Whipple street when four men forced them to the curb and announced they were police officers. As Turner opened his automobile door the men fired several shots and he slumped to the floor.

Shakespeare police took the wounded man to the Alexian Brothers hospital and began an inquiry. They learned that the would-be killers had waited at the garage for Turner for more than an hour. Earlier they had stopped Martin Rise, 2737 North Monticello avenue, a chauffeur, as he left the garage. They identified themselves as police and, after scanning him, told him to go along.

Constable's Star Stolen; His Baby's Bank Looted

East St. Louis, Ill., April 17.—(AP)—Charles Artinger, constable of Fairmont City, northeast of here, has appealed to police of neighboring municipalities to aid him in recovering his badge of office.

Artinger discovered upon arising today that the badge had been removed from his clothing while he slept.

The burglars also took $26 from a baby's bank.

Soup Fortune of Dorrance $114,850,733

Mount Holly, N. J., April 17.—(AP)—An inventory of the estate of Dr. John T. Dorrance, head of the Campbell Soup company, who died last September, shows that he was probably the richest resident of New Jersey and one of the wealthiest in the east.

The inventory, filed today, appraised the personal property at $114,850,733. It was unofficially estimated that the estate will have to pay inheritance taxes amounting to at least $21,500,000. New Jersey is expected to profit from this source as well as the national government.

The state and federal taxes will be paid from income, so that the estate will remain intact. To accomplish this Dr. Dorrance provided that the final distribution of the estate shall not be made until the tax money has been returned to the estate through income over a period of not more than sixteen years after his death, or 1946.

Widow Gets Quarter Income.

Until the estate has been reimbursed for the tax money, the widow, who before her marriage was Ethel Mallinckrodt of Baltimore, will receive one-quarter of the net income from the estate in monthly payments. The son, John T. Dorrance, 11 years old, will receive $20,000 monthly, and each of the four daughters $10,000 monthly.

Meanwhile the income from the remainder of the estate is expected to make up the amount paid for taxes. If this is made up in less than the 16 year period the final settlement will be immediately made. If the tax money is not recovered in the 16 year period the division shall be made anyway.

Three Daughters Unmarried.

The four daughters are Mrs. Nathaniel P. Hill, who before her marriage in 1927 was Miss Eleanor Dorrance; Miss Ethel Mallinckrodt Dorrance, whose engagement to Tristrim C. Colket of Haverford, near Philadelphia, was recently announced; Miss Margaret Winifred Dorrance, and Miss Charlotte Kelsey Dorrance.

The largest item in the inventory is Dr. Dorrance's interest in the soup company, and it is valued at at $79,033,969. He had large amounts invested in Liberty bonds and bonds of cities and states. There were also large holdings in stocks, which were appraised as of Sept. 21, 1930, the date of Dr. Dorrance's death.

Dr. Dorrance entered commercial life on a salary of $7.50 a week. He stressed the value of advertising and credited his success largely to this method of making his products known to the world.

Eating Grows in Popularity as Cost Drops

Restaurants and cafeterias in Chicago are showing a steadily increasing volume of business based upon a readjustment of menus and a distribution of prices which fills the stomach, satisfies the appetite, and flatters the purse.

This conclusion is drawn from a survey of the popular eating places. But it was also noted that prices in high priced cafes apparently have not been reduced materially, if at all, despite a decrease of 10 to 12 per cent in the cost of food commodities.

"Conditions are becoming normal all over the country," explained one manager of a cafeteria system in the loop yesterday. "Our drop in prices has averaged at least 20 per cent in the last eight or nine months, and we have observed an increase in our number of customers. The lower prices are attractive to small salaried people who previously felt they could not afford to go to a good restaurant to get the proper amount of food."

Offers Lunch at 25 Cents.

At a restaurant in South Wabash avenue a sign advertising "special lunch, 25 cents" seemed to be drawing passersby. The sign advertised an Idaho baked potato, scrambled eggs, peas, toast, and plenty of butter.

The manager of this restaurant declared that with a 25 per cent reduction in prices, the patrons had multiplied.

"By watching our economics we were able to reduce the price of meals to our customers," he said. "People used to eat according to their appetites before the depression. Now they eat according to their pocketbooks. They look at the special in the window then saunter in. Most generally they study the right hand column, find a price within their means, then see what the food is. We find that special combination meals each day bring more customers. And the volume thus obtained allows us to offer food cheaper."

Gain Despite Depression.

"But we've weathered the strain and gained customers in spite of it. We haven't a thing on the menu over fifteen cents, and that goes for lamb chops, chicken, and steaks. We haven't a vegetable or salad over ten cents, and some salads in smaller portions can be purchased for five cents."

At this place a nourishing meal of meat, vegetable, salad, dessert, roll butter, and coffee can be bought for 50 cents, all the foodstuffs of good quality.

It was generally noted in the cafeterias that several articles are being offered now for 5 cents, such as salads, coffee, mashed potatoes, and bismarcks. On "special" days halves of chicken are sold for 15 cents.

Breakfasts Are Cheaper.

Breakfasts appear to be cheaper, offering country ham and two eggs for 19 cents. A menu of one wheat cake, one fried egg, one strip of bacon, buttered toast and coffee is available for 25 cents. A small restaurant on the near north side has a breakfast menu of orange juice, sliced peaches, two strips of bacon, one egg fried in butter, and toast and coffee for 25 cents. At some places toast and coffee may be obtained for 10 cents.

The decrease in the price of foodstuffs, some of the managers said, is responsible for their passing on to the customers cheaper prices. Breakfast and salad fruits cost half as much as a year ago. Many places serve the juice of two oranges for 10 cents and grapefruit for less.

Such items as butter, eggs and chicken are selling for the lowest prices, wholesale, in 15 to 20 years, while bacon and hams are also 10 to 15 per cent cheaper. United States government experts predict that this will continue for some months.

YEAR IN PRISON, PENALTY FIXED FOR SAM GUZIK

Another gangster was sentenced to Leavenworth penitentiary yesterday as a result of United States Attorney George E. Q. Johnson's income tax assault on members of Chicago's politico-criminal alliance. Sam Guzik, whose brother, Jack, is business manager of Al Capone's enterprises, pleaded guilty to charges of tax dodging. Federal Judge Wilkerson sentenced him to a year and a day in prison and fined him $2,500.

Guzik became the ninth defendant and the seventh gangster whose case has been brought to a successful conclusion by the federal prosecutor. Another gangster is facing deportation. All the gangsters except Sam Guzik are public enemies listed last year by the Chicago Crime commission.

List Gangsters Convicted.

The federal prosecutions have struck the following figures in the public enemy ranks besides Sam Guzik:

Al Capone, head man, sentenced to six months in jail for contempt of federal court.

Ralph Capone, brother of Al, convicted and sentenced to three years and fined $10,000 for tax dodging.

Frank Nitti, Capone captain, now serving an eighteen month term on a plea of guilty to tax evasion.

Frankie Lake, Druggan's former partner, also pleaded guilty, awaiting sentence.

Two Politicians Convicted.

In addition to the public enemies two politicians, County Assessor Gene Oliver and State Representative Lawrence C. O'Brien, have been convicted and sentenced to eighteen months each in prison for income tax dodging. Both are appealing. Former Building Commissioner Christian P. Paschen is under indictment on this charge.

Aroused public sentiment against the gangs also has been reflected in the prosecutions in state courts. Three notorious hoodlums have felt the force of these blows. They are:

William J. [Three Fingered Jack] White, convicted of murdering a Forest Park policeman and his punishment fixed at 14 years in prison.

James [Fur] Sammons, rapist and murderer, sent back to Joliet penitentiary to serve out thirty years of a term for murder.

Tells of Guzik Income.

The pleas of guilty in the federal income tax cases are regarded as significant. District Attorney Johnson has a record of 100 per cent in prosecutions and the gangsters, it is believed, are beginning to realize the inevitable and to think of "copping pleas."

Assistant United States Attorney Dwight H. Green informed Judge Wilkerson yesterday that Sam Guzik's income, totaling more than $380,000 for 1927, 1928, and 1929, was derived primarily from slot machine and stock market operations. He said the defendant had the slot machine concession for the district bounded by Lake Michigan on the east, 35th street on the south, Halsted street on the west, and Harrison street on the north.

Guzik also had a substantial income from a saloon at 2243 Cottage Grove avenue, Mr. Green said. The evidence would have shown, said the prosecutor, that Guzik maintained a brokerage account with B. E. Rice & Co. and four bank accounts, two under his own name and two under aliases, Sam Miller and Sam Lee, at the Equitable Trust company. Guzik allegedly owed the government a total of $63,375 in taxes.

Doesn't Fear Felony Counts.

Capt. William F. Waugh, Guzik's attorney, declared that his client had no fear of three felony counts, charging attempts to defeat and evade taxes, but that as to three misdemeanor counts, charging willful failure to file returns, there was no defense.

Attorney Waugh also declared that Guzik's stock market speculations resulted in a net loss of $112,000 over and above all gains, and that as a consequence the gangster was left without funds with which to defray the costs of an expensive trial.

Judge Wilkerson granted Gunik a stay of execution of the sentence to June 1 to permit time for the straightening out of his affairs.

William E. Nichols, salesman for the Wisconsin Lime and Cement company, and alleged tax fixing friend of Gene Oliver, pleaded not guilty to his income tax charges before Judge Wilkerson yesterday. The trial was set for June 22.

WHITE ASKS WRIT

William J. (Three Fingered Jack) White, convicted of the murder of Policeman Edward Pflaume of Forest Park and facing 14 years in prison, filed a petition for a writ of habeas corpus yesterday in the Illinois Supreme court. The writ alleges that White is illegally restrained of his liberty because the state had no authority to reindict him for the murder of the policeman after he was once tried on another indictment for the same offense.

White was tried and convicted the year following the murder, which occurred Dec. 13, 1925. The Supreme court, however, reversed the verdict of the jury sentencing him to life imprisonment. The case was then stricken from the docket with leave to reinstate. No action was taken for several years.

State's Attorney Swanson ordered the old murder charge against White revived at the time the drive started last fall against gunmen, hoodlums, and racketeers. A new indictment was returned and White was convicted. His motion for a new trial has not yet been disposed of.

SEIZE WOMAN ON CHARGE OF KIDNAPING CHILD

Charged with kidnaping, Mrs. Josephine Hogan Deiden Ross, 43 years old, was arrested late yesterday in her home at 1111 North Wells street. The arrest was made on a warrant by Detectives Thomas Lynch and William McCowan, who had sought Mrs. Ross for months.

According to police Mrs. Ross formerly operated a baby boarding home and the charge arises from her custody of Daisy Smith, 3 years old, daughter of Mrs. Ruth Bonticue, also known as Smith. The present address of Mrs. Bonticue is not known to police.

The girl and her brother, Frank, were boarded with Mrs. Ross last year. She kept the two for eight months, running up a bill of more than $300 against Mrs. Bonticue. Some time ago Mrs. Bonticue called for her children. Frank was surrendered. The girl was held and is now with a family on a farm near Terre Haute, Ind.

INVESTIGATION COMMITTEE AT IOWA DISCHARGED

Des Moines, Ia., April 17.—(AP)—Although finding no basis for criminal prosecution, the University of Iowa investigating committee today recommended changes in handling construction and purchasing at the school.

Majority and minority reports were received in both house and senate.

Allegations against President Walter A. Jessup were not mentioned in the majority statement, while the minority report absolved him entirely of any criticism. The committee warned that Paul E. Belting, ousted athletic director, should not unfairly be held responsible for the university's suspension from the Big Ten, but found that there was cause for Jessup's request for his resignation. It reported that 14 athletes were sacrificed to obtain reinstatement to the conference, but the minority members added that Jessup was not responsible for this action.

Two Get Six Months in Jail for Toting Pistols

Vito Palumbo, 28 years old, 1825 Grand avenue, and Joseph Canino, 26, of 616 North Elizabeth street, were sentenced to six months in the county jail and fined $100 each on gun toting charges by Judge Joseph Graber yesterday. Their companion, Andrew Cannozaro, 28 years old, 1227 Ohio street, was fined $200 for disorderly conduct. All three were arrested Feb. 21 riding in an automobile driven by Cannozaro.

C. L. Rice Succeeds Sprague as Head of Anti-Crime Group

Charles Leslie Rice, vice president in charge of the Hawthorne works, Western Electric company, has been chosen chairman of the Association of Commerce committee for the prevention and punishment of crime. This is the parent organization of the "Secret Six." Mr. Rice succeeds Col. A. A. Sprague, commissioner of public works in the Cermak administration. Mr. Sprague will continue, however, as a member of the committee.

Chicago Officer Thwarts Kidnapers.

(By a Staff Correspondent.)

Monroe, Wis., April 17.—[Special.]—Worn to exhaustion after being held blindfolded and in shackles for seven days and nights by kidnapers, Fred J. Blumer, 51, president of the Blumer Products company, a brewing concern, was under the care of a physician here tonight.

He returned to his home at noon following his release without ransom at Decatur, Ill., when his abductors became panic stricken by the threat of a police chase directed by Lieut. William Cusack of Chicago.

Lieut. Cusack was assigned to the case by Mayor Anton J. Cermak of Chicago. Operating secretly on information gained through tapped wires, he was on the heels of the kidnapers during the week. Twice police under his command forced them to shift hideouts.

Release Follows Gun Battle.

The release followed a gun battle last night near Wenona, Ill., where the captors were intercepted on their way to collect $6,000 after making an original demand of $150,000 from Jacob Blumer, brother of the brewer. The kidnapers, believed to be members of an Iowa gang of bank robbers and beer runners who successfully held their territory against the attempted encroachments of George [Bugs] Moran, deposed Chicago gang leader, escaped.

Lieut. Cusack is continuing a search which he is confident will lead to their capture. He has already placed three members of the gang in a Wisconsin penitentiary for the kidnaping of Thomas Gaynor, Chicago automobile dealer, at Fork Lake, Wis., in the spring of 1928. Descriptions of two of the Blumer kidnapers and the license numbers of their two cars are withheld by the police.

Victim Tells of Abduction.

Propped by two pillows in a room flooded with floral gifts from his friends, Blumer tonight told the story of his abduction Thursday evening, April 9. His wife, Mrs. Bessie Blumer, and his daughter, Marion, 20, clasped a hand on either side of the bed as his voice quavered in weariness. From time to time he interrupted his narrative to smile in assuring them he had been treated well by his captors.

Blumer told of receiving a call in his home at 5 o'clock Thursday evening, making an appointment for him to meet two men in the Eugene hotel here. He expected they were to confer on the possibility of retailing his beverage, "Golden Glow," through the Walgreen Drug company.

"My car was parked facing east," he said. "As I stepped in a man pushed himself in on the other side. Another man followed, telling me to push over. I thought it was some one I knew. The first man put a revolver at my head and said, 'This is a kidnaping.'

Blindfolded at Rendezvous.

"I told them they were crazy, thinking it was all a joke. They convinced me it was not. We drove to the Rote farm, 4 miles south of Monroe on the road to Freeport, Ill. There I saw two cars waiting. I was taken into one of the cars and blindfolded with bandages and adhesive tape and tied with chains. One of the men went through my pockets and took a diamond ring, my watch, and some change.

At Freeport the kidnapers abandoned Blumer's car and phoned to Archie Wells, secretary, treasurer and principal stockholder of the brewery. In the message they demanded $150,000 ransom without setting further terms.

"We drove a long time," Blumer continued. "I had no idea what direction we took. We stopped once and I was given some sandwiches. At last I was taken to a room. My bonds were still kept on me. From the fact that food was brought to me from nearby, I was sure we were in some city and not in a shack. I was fed twice a day. I could hear the kidnapers talking about their chances of getting money. There were eight in the band. I told them I had very little and was not the wealthy man they thought. I am sure they believed the plant was selling real beer and thought I was making a fortune.

Not Treated Roughly.

"They were decent in conversation and accorded no rough treatment they could avoid. At night one man slept with me. Even then I was blindfolded. They brought me papers and lifted the bandages so I could read, but not so I could get a good look at them. They showed me only articles which would cause me to worry. Some of the articles were cut completely out of the paper."

During the period of Blumer's captivity the abductors sent letters and phoned Wells, cutting ransom demands each time. Through tapped wires Lieut. Cusack traced the calls through various towns in Illinois.

At pay stations he learned that all calls had been made by men in two automobiles with Iowa license plates. None of these messages was released by Wells, giving Cusack a free hand in the case. Several messages to A. H. Eisenhower, Freeport distributor for the Blumer company, urging him to act as go-between were also intercepted by the police.

Kidnapers Shift Hideout Twice.

Lieut. Cusack traced calls to Collinsville, Ill., near East St. Louis. For three days he combed the area, ultimately forcing the kidnapers to shift their hideout. Blumer said he was driven about fifty miles Tuesday evening, which Cusack interpreted as a shift to St. Louis or East St. Louis. Again the detailed search began. Wednesday Blumer was again driven away from a hideout. This time the ride was one of several hours.

"On Wednesday the men began fighting among themselves," Blumer said. "All but one of them wanted to let me go. This one said they might as well stick and try to realize what they could. The others were convinced I was not wealthy. Still they offered me no harm. In fact, they were most friendly."

Thursday morning one of Lieut. Cusack's men intercepted a message of the kidnapers to Jacob Blumer, in which they came down to $6,000. Throughout the secret negotiations Wells and Blumer's associates had insisted that was the highest possible figure Blumer could raise and that only by mortgaging his home.

Brother Goes to Rendezvous.

The brother left alone on the instructions of the kidnapers, driving on route 51 to Streator, Ill., where he waited in a hotel designated for a contact. Meanwhile Cusack and a squad of Illinois state police raced from southern Illinois to the rendezvous.

Near Winona, Ill., the kidnapers' cars were sighted at 6 p. m. The state police in a car leading, the lieutenant opened fire with machine guns. The bandits returned the fire with revolvers. The gangsters escaped in the darkness. Blumer was not in either of the cars under fire. He was being held under guard in another hideout. The kidnapers made no effort to get in touch with Jacob Blumer in Streator. Following the encounter the police returned to southern Illinois, believing Blumer was still being held in that vicinity.

"The men returned evidently very excited," he said. "I gathered that police were close on them. They converged on the lone holdout against my release. Finally one of them told me they were going to let me go.

Released Near Hotel.

"They gave back my watch and ring and also gave me $20. My bandages were taken off and so were the chains. They put on a pair of smoked glasses, though. My eyes were so tired by the blindfold that I was unable to get much of a look at the men. We drove a short distance with the men cursing their luck.

"Finally the car stopped. One of the men told me to walk straight ahead half a block and I would be in a hotel. I did so. I could hardly make it, I was so weak. I entered and registered under an assumed name. I wanted to get my bearings. Finally I told the hotel people who I was, and they told me I was in the Orlando hotel at Decatur.

"I called home and Wells, and here I am."

Blumer walked into the hotel half an hour after the kidnapers met with the police near Winona, which indicated their panic after the brush, Lieut. Cusack said.

Blumer was unable to make the journey home last night. No word of his release was announced by Luchsinger and West until this morning. They drove Blumer home today.

F. J. Karten, friend of Blumer, placed an American flag on the lawn of the home as a signal of his return.

Cusack entered the case at the order of Mayor Cermak through the intercession of Charles Vopicka, Chicago brewer and former United States ambassador to the Balkan states. Mr. Vopicka's aid was enlisted by E. A. Siebel, president of the Associated Producers of Cereal Beverages, of which the Blumer plant is a member. In working on the case Cusack avoided Monroe, fearing that he might be seen by a lookout of the kidnapers.

"From the start I was convinced the kidnaping was the work on the Iowa band," he said. "They are a smart lot, all well educated, but tough, as is witnessed by their victory in a clash with the Bugs Moran gang several years ago."

Has Met Gang Before.

"I was sure, too, they were in the gang responsible for the kidnaping of Gaynor, Chicago auto salesman, in 1928 and also the kidnaping of a gambler in Peoria last year and an attempted kidnaping of another Peoria gambler which failed after the killing of the gambler's wife last fall. They are also bank robbers and booze runners. From the secrecy with which negotiations were handled I had a clear hand. The two cars were under suspicion from the first. Some of my men got a glimpse of two of the band. We are now working on a capture and have every reason to believe we will be successful."

Cusack captured three members of the Iowa gang and freed Gaynor after he and his squad ripped the door off a hideout in Fox Lake, Wis. The gang has headquarters in the bluffs and island fastnesses of the Iowa side of the Mississippi. Cusack praised the family, Blumer's associates and local authorities for their coöperation in the case.

In appreciation of the efforts of the force under Lieut. Cusack, Mrs. Blumer tonight wired Mayor A. J. Cermak of Chicago and Gov. Emmerson of Illinois, thanking them for the aid they gave in running down the abductors and obtaining Blumer's release.

SEEK TWO SUSPECTS HERE.

Chief of Detectives John Norton last night ordered the arrest for questioning of Martin O'Leary, gambler guard and bootlegger, and Leroy Marschalk, alleged hoodlum, in connection with the kidnaping of Fred J. Blumer, brewer of Monroe, Wis., who was released yesterday.

According to police, both of the men were seen several days ago in Carr's saloon in Joliet, and in the Norton Bros.' roadhouse near Joliet. The connection, detectives say, is in the belief that Blumer was held captive in Joliet.

O'Leary was once sought for the abduction in May, 1929, of Philip Blumenthal, wealthy ex-bootlegger, which resulted in the slaying of Policeman Raymond Martin. Martin was shot when he arranged a trap for the kidnapers and was recognized. Marschalk was arrested two years earlier for the kidnaping of Frank Lawro and Jakie Adler, café owners.

MORE MEN HIRED THAN FIRED IN MONTH OF MARCH

U. S. Labor Department Produces Figures.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 17.—[Special.]—More persons found jobs in manufacturing industries during March than were discharged or laid off, according to statistics on the labor turnover made public today by the bureau of labor statistics.

Reports to the bureau from representative establishments in 75 manufacturing industries employing approximately 1,250,000 persons showed a larger rate of accession than separation in manufactures as a group and in four of the eight manufacturing industries for which figures were given.

A total separation rate per 100 persons on the pay roll in March of 2.95 was shown by the bureau's compilation, including persons who quit, were discharged, or laid off. This compared with a total accession rate of 3.67.

Industries Noted.

Of the eight manufacturing industries included in the bureau's tabulation accessions exceeded separations in automobiles, boots and shoes, cotton, and sawmills. The reverse of this favorable turnover was true of foundries and machine shops, furniture, iron and steel, and slaughtering and meat packing.

The most favorable turnover was in the automobile industry, which showed an accession rate of 7.76 per hundred as against a separation rate of 3.19. The boot and shoe industry had an accession rate of 4.92, and the cotton manufacturing industry an accession rate of 4.47, compared with separation rates of 3.24 and 3.72, respectively.

If computed on a yearly basis, the March turnover would indicate an accession rate of 43.3 compared with a separation rate of 34.8.

Decline in Prices Also.

A decline in March of more than one and one-fourth per cent in wholesale prices was also reported by the department statisticians. Farm prices increased three-fourths of one per cent from the previous month. Foods were one-half of one per cent lower than in February with declines for most fresh and cured meats, fish, flour, canned fruits and vegetables, cheese, coffee and sugar.

RAIL SEPARATION TO SPEED WEST SUBURB TRAINS

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

The 80,000 commuters of western suburbs along the Burlington railroad will be given improved service next week. The running time of almost every Burlington train in the suburban zone between Chicago and Aurora will be reduced from three to five minutes as a result of the separation of grades between seven railroads in the vicinity of Canal and 16th streets.

This project, costing more than $4,000,000, has progressed sufficiently to permit the fast suburban train schedule to be put into effect April 26. When the separation is complete it will eliminate 746 train stops heretofore necessary daily to travel the network of tracks. Ninety-four of the trains were in service to the western suburbs.

To Remain on Ground Level.

The four main-line through tracks and the 11 yard tracks of the Burlington and the four main line tracks of the Pennsylvania railroad and its down switch tracks will continue to operate on the present ground level.

On the second level will be Canal street on a viaduct and on the third level will be the St. Charles Air line, a connecting railway. On an intermediate level between the second and third, a short distance from the junction point, will be an elevation for the Baltimore and Ohio, Great Western, Pere Marquette, and Soo line tracks, which enter the Grand Central station.

At one spot one may see a train on the ground level, an electric trolley car on the second level (Canal street), and above the street car another train on the St. Charles Air line viaduct.

To Allow Unimpeded Traffic.

One of the advantages of the improvement to the Burlington will be two individual tracks for unimpeded traffic in and out of the Union station. This will allow greatly improved service on the suburban trains.

Still another project is a four track system between Chicago and Aurora. This stretch now has four tracks, except for a distance of four miles, and work on this four miles is under way.

When this $1,000,000 project is completed—perhaps by Dec. 1—it is anticipated that further improvement in the suburban service will be inaugurated.

New Suburban Schedules.

"The full benefit of the time gained by the separation of grades at Canal and 16th streets," said President F. E. Williamson of the Burlington yesterday, "will be passed along to the suburban patrons.

"The new suburban train schedules have been arranged so that the east bound trains will leave the suburban stations from three to five minutes later than at present, but will arrive in Chicago at the same time as formerly. The outbound trains will leave Chicago in most cases at the same time as before, but the patrons will reach home three to five minutes earlier.

"With the inauguration of the fast schedules the Burlington's new suburban station at Halsted and 16th streets will be opened. The old station at Canal and 16th streets will be discontinued."

Omaha, Neb., April 17.—(AP)—John Kuttler, 25, of Omaha escaped a jail sentence in Police court here today when the court ruled that an old fashioned spanking, administered to his wife with a mother of pearl hair brush, could not be construed as wife beating.

The wife, Mrs. Anita Woods Kuttler, 23, had demanded a jail sentence—and a long one—for her husband. But the court told them to go home and quit fighting. They went home—to pack and pursue their separate ways.

Mrs. Kuttler said she was a former movie actress. She said she met Kuttler in Galveston, Tex., six months ago.

HUSBAND SHOOTS HIS WIFE AND HER ADMIRER

After shooting and severely wounding his estranged wife, Lillian, in the back yard of their home at 1322 South Harvey avenue, Berwyn, yesterday afternoon, Charles Heyden, an employe of the Bowman Dairy company, went gunning for David Schechtman, 3857 Grenshaw street, the man he accused of breaking up his home.

LILLIAN HEYDEN.

Heyden found Schechtman at 7 o'clock last night outside a store at Springfield avenue and Roosevelt road. He shot Schechtman twice and then fled in an automobile. Schechtman was taken to Mount Sinai hospital, where his wounds were said to be serious. Mrs. Heyden was in the Berwyn hospital.

As Heyden fled after shooting Schechtmon Sam Gurevitz, proprietor of the store, fired six shots after him without wounding the fugitive. Schechtman is married and has an 8 year old daughter.

The shooting of Mrs. Heyden was done in the view of her 13 year old daughter, Mildred. Mrs. Heyden had run from the house into the back yard with Heyden in pursuit firing a revolver. The woman fell and her husband fired two shots into her body as she lay on the ground, according to the police, then fled down an alley.

Lieut. Edward Kelly of the Fillmore street station, notified of the Berwyn shooting, was watching for Heyden at his present residence at 4147 Jackson boulevard when he received word of the shooting of Schechtman and started a search for the husband.

AMERICA CONTRIBUTES $1,251,000 TO FUND FOR VATICAN MISSIONS

VATICAN CITY, April 17.—(AP)—The United States contributed $1,251,000 in the last fiscal year to the propagation of the faith organization, which directs Catholic missions throughout the world. This was announced today.

This is a slight decrease compared to the previous year, in which contributions totaled $1,400,000.

Total gifts from all nations were slightly less than last year, but better than estimates based on economic conditions foresaw. They amounted to about $3,000,000. Italy's annual contribution of $325,000 remained unchanged.

BLAZE DESTROYS COUNTRY CLUB IN BENSENVILLE

Fire of undetermined origin leveled the clubhouse of the Mohawk Country club on Irving Park boulevard in Bensenville early yesterday, causing a loss of $50,000, according to an estimate made by W. J. Gaete, president of the club. The blaze was discovered by Mrs. Mae Sullivan, matron of the club, who summoned the Bensenville fire department.

President Gaete said yesterday that plans to rebuild the club already are under way. Its members include residents of Chicago and Oak Park. The club was closed at the time of the fire, but was to have been opened for the summer season tomorrow.

Contractor Falls Dead While Watching Circus

While watching the "Flaming Dive of Death" at the European Olympic circus in the Chicago Stadium last night, Joseph Preisinger, 63 years old, 1619 Woodbine avenue, Oak Park, a building contractor, collapsed in his seat. He was carried out by ushers and attempts were made to revive him but a physician pronounced him dead. Heart disease was held responsible for his death.

GUNMEN MENACE 6 IN WAUKEGAN; ROB BOOK STORE

Two armed men entered Pearce's book store, 125 Washington street, Waukegan, yesterday, held up six persons, and escaped with $2,200 from the safe. According to the proprietor, Dr. Percival Pearce, the bandits were nervous and in their hurry to get away missed more than $3,000.

Dr. Pearce, his daughter, Miss Isabel Pearce, Mrs. V. W. Lindsay and Miss Leota Irey, clerks, and Hubert Schmidt, a customer, were in the store when the men entered, carrying revolvers. All except Dr. Pearce were forced into a back room by one bandit while the other forced the owner to open the safe. Mrs. Catherine Maroney of Highland Park, sister-in-law of Edward Maroney, Highland Park chief of police, entered the store during the holdup and was also ushered into the back room.

ROB INSURANCE COLLECTOR.

Fred W. Bowman, 2733 West 64th street, a collector for the Metropolitan Life Insurance company, was robbed of $91 by two bandits in front of 3520 West 58th street yesterday.

BABY IS KILLED, THREE OVERCOME BY GAS FUMES

A 15 months old baby girl was killed and three other persons were overcome yesterday when their home at 4915 Henderson street was flooded with escaping gas.

The baby was Ingaborg Munz. Those overcome, and revived, are her mother, Mrs. Freda Munz, 29 years old; her brother, Henry, 3 years old, and Mrs. Mary Damar, the housekeeper.

Ingaborg was first affected by the gas, and Mrs. Munz, not realizing the cause, summoned Dr. A. J. Weinberg, 2915 Shakespeare avenue. He arrived, but received no response to his knocks on the door. He looked through a window and saw Mrs. Damar on the floor. Dr. Weinberg smashed the window and found the four victims helpless. Fire department rescue squads 3 and 6 were called. They revived the mother, Henry, and the housekeeper.

CITY PRODUCTS EXHIBITS TO BE OPENED TODAY

6,000 Manufacturers Join in Week's Activities.

Chicago Products week will start today, with an estimated 6,000 manufacturers, retail and wholesale merchants participating in its observance. The Chicago Association of Commerce has sponsored the celebration of the week to bring to the attention of Chicago's citizens the wide variety of home products.

All the State street stores are cooperating by presenting displays in their windows of wares manufactured here. Some of the displays will show the actual manufacture of products and others will give an idea of the hundreds of commodities produced in the metropolitan area.

Posters depicting the growth of Chicago and pointing out its importance as a railroad and manufacturing center have been prepared by the Chicago Association of Commerce for display in most of the stores in the city.

Chain grocery stores are cooperating in the displays. Factories also will present exhibits. Wheeler Sammons is chairman of the manufacturers' cooperating committee and Werner A. Wiebeldt of the retail cooperating committee.

One of the features of the week's celebration will be the radio broadcasts outlining the history and growth of Chicago. Much care has been taken to make these broadcasts historically accurate, it was announced. Each broadcast will take half an hour and will be given from a different station each night. The broadcasting will start tonight with the "Discovery of Chicago by Marquette and Joliet" from WMAQ at 9:15 o'clock. On Tuesday the broadcast will be from W-G-N at 9 o'clock, the subject being "The Fort Dearborn Massacre."

100 CONVENTIONS TO BRING CITY 35 MILLION CASH

Summer Visitors Set at 392,000.

Another sign of good times ahead for Chicago was supplied yesterday by William J. Hennessey, manager of the convention bureau of the Chicago Association of Commerce. Following a survey he estimates that $35,230,000 will be brought to the cash registers of Chicago merchants by visitors at Chicago conventions during the next four months.

While the summer months are not regarded as a heavy season for conventions, Mr. Hennessey's report shows that 100 national and sectional gatherings of tradesmen and professional executives will be held in Chicago during the months of May, June, July and August. This number will be greatly increased before the summer is over, he said.

Predicts 392,000 Visitors.

On the basis of these figures Mr. Hennessey estimated that 392,000 visitors will be brought here for the conventions during the summer, more by 52,000 than attended conventions in Chicago during the same period last year.

This substantial increase he attributed to the growing realization of benefits offered by Chicago for big conventions and expositions. He cited as an indication of this trend a recent communication from the Railway Supply association which stated that a dozen other cities had been scratched from their list of convention centers and their members had been notified that hereafter all convention must be held either in Chicago or New York.

List Conventions for Summer.

A wide variety of industries, clubs, and professional association are represented on the tentative list of Chicago conventions compiled by the Association of Commerce bureau for the summer months. Among the large conventions to be held here are:

MAY—American Foundrymen's association, American Railway association, Association of Railway Executives, Illinois Bankers' association, Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs, International Railway Fuel association, National Outdoor Life exposition, National Safe Deposit Advisory council, Toy Manufacturers of the United States.

JUNE — American Federation of Teachers, American Furniture Mart, American Society for Testing Materials, Institute of Radio Engineers, Music Industries Chamber of Commerce, National Association of Taxicab Owners, National Confectioners' Association of the United States, National Retail Furniture association, Radio Manufacturers' association.

JULY—Women's Benefit association.

AUGUST — Chicago Merchandise Fair, Eastern Manufacturers and Importers' exhibit, Interstate Merchants' council, ..ational Gift and Art association, National School for Commercial and Trade Organization Secretaries.

WOMAN TRIES TO END LIFE.

Mrs. Stephen Heinz, 29 years old, mother of two children, living on the Glenwood road near Chicago Heights, attempted suicide last night by shooting herself in the chest with a pistol. According to her husband, she has been ill for several weeks. Her condition is serious.

SPAIN THWARTS THREAT TO SPLIT INFANT REPUBLIC

BY JAY ALLEN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MADRID, April 17.—Two threats on the life of the young Spanish republic, risen lush and immaculate from the weary body of old Spain, were warded off today.

One comprised the romantic ambitions of a small band of mystics to rule Catalonia. This threat was parried deftly by three ministers of the provisional government who flew from Madrid to Barcelona and talked the Catalans back to reason.

The other, a comic opera show, was attempted by a crowd of Basques, who planned to set up their own state in the ancient capital of Guernica. This was simply squelched by military forces.

Catalans Bow to Madrid.

The Catalan republic, some five hours older than the Spanish one, bowed to its junior to save both, and the Basque republic was never born at all.

The right extremists of the nationalist movement in the northern provinces, where lives that hearty race of 600,000 Basques, whose language is verbal shorthand and whose origin is a mystery, decided to go back a few centuries to declare their independence and incidentally to embarrass the new republic.

They chose to declare their independence under the ancient oak of Guernica, where the Basque deputies formerly met every two years until Alfonso's father abolished the special privileges.

Troops at Basque Centers.

A detachment of the civil guards and a battalion of infantry have been sent there. Other troops have moved to the Basque centers, like Victoria, and at a late hour tonight it does not look as though a death blow to the republic will come from the north.

This baby republic is no tender creature. It is feeling strong because of the nation-wide approbation expressed at the polls last Sunday. It took a fall out of Spain's overgrown political and military machine first by jailing a colonel, who noisily threw up his job because he was a royalist, and then arresting a lieutenant who, carrying a republican banner, led a mob into the ministry of the interior on Tuesday just before the republican government took possession.

Soldiers have no business mixing up in politics and certainly should not lead disturbances, the republic told him, although, until the nation rose en masse, these same men counted mightily on the army.

Will Pay Monarchy's Debts.

Then through its minister of finance, Indalecio Prieto, who rose from a newsboy, the new government gave a forecast of its financial policy. Señor Prieto announced that the republic would respect the financial commitments of the monarchy abroad, including the Annar government loan from the house of Morgan. The financial obligations of the dictatorship, "however defective legally," will be kept, he said.

The most important banks have agreed to cooperate to the utmost with the Bank of Spain, the finance chief said, although the government will not for a moment intervene in the market to help the peseta, feeling that it is more of a question of confidence than anything else, and will guard the exchange in other ways.

Any attempts by fearful Spaniards to withdraw their money will be balked. The sale of foreign currency in Spain is banned. Ten per cent of all accounts withdrawn from the banks is being paid in silver.

Seize Cash of Fleeing Nobles.

Vigilance on the frontiers has been redoubled since wealthy nobles have been discovered carrying out large sums in cash, secreted in trunks among finery and spare tires, said Prieto. Anybody attempting to carry out more than 5,000 pesetas in cash, about $500, will receive "most rigorous punishment."

Minister Prieto's declaration that the republic will pay the king's debts is considered a bid for recognition by the great powers. They are not coming in as fast as had been hoped. Thus far France, Argentina, Brazil, and Uruguay have acknowledged the regime that upset the last Bourbon.

Irwin B. Laughlin, the American ambassador, called on President Alcala Zamora today and is reported to have obtained assurances concerning the safety of certain American investments. Official circles are puzzled as to why Washington has not yet recognized the infant republic. On the other hand, it is learned that the provisional government will refuse to recognize Premier Mussolini and certain South American dictatorships.

Ex-Premier Surrenders.

Gen. Damasco Berenguer, former premier, who was reported to have fled to Portugal, suddenly appeared late tonight at the ministry of the interior.

"Anybody looking for me?" he asked Minister Maura.

Senor Maura replied that he was, but he had two reasons for not sending him to prison tonight, first because the indictment was not ready, and secondly because the government knew where he was all the time anyway. Gen. Berenguer, who seems to crave prosecution, will try again tomorrow. It looks to many as though the republic had hoped that he would flee, and still does.

Gen. Berenguer, it was originally stated, was wanted for directing the court martial in which two revolt leaders were sentenced to be shot.

Primo de Rivera's minister of justice, Galo Ponte, is the only one of the late dictator's cabinet who has not fled, and he likewise will present himself.

Another of the centrifugal forces common to the Iberian peninsula was heard from today, when the Galicians in the northwest corner of Spain took steps to convert the nationalist movement, which so far is only literary, into political reality. Under the leadership of Prof. Risco these Celts of Spain will prepare to assert their claims in parliament and will ask that the territories now belonging to the provinces of Leon and Asturias be attached to their present holdings as a reminder of ancient glory.

Infanta Isabel, Alfonso's 59 year old aunt, decided tonight that she would follow the other Bourbons into exile. She will go to the frontier in an ambulance, accompanied by Infanta Beatrice of Orleans.

Catalan Republic Dies.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BARCELONA, Spain, April 17.—A Catalan republic, long the dream of its sentimental people and the threat by which the realistic manufacturers obtained protective tariffs from the old Spanish government, died peacefully tonight after a brief but poetic career of three days.

That rich red and yellow banner of the countries of Catalonia, once the lords of the Mediterranean, still flies over this industrial capital and the greatest port in Spain. The pride of all but a handful of Catalans has been saved, but the glory is over.

From tonight on Col. Francisco Macia is not the provisional president of a sovereign state, but the head of "Generalita Catalonia," a community of four provinces, Barcelona, Lerida, Tarragona, and Gerona. His ministers have become mere "counciors."

Victory for Madrid.

For the provisional government of the Spanish republic won its second victory today here. The first over the Bourbons was almost easier than today's over that lean soldier, Macia.

According to an agreement reached between Catalonia and the Spanish republic, Madrid will respect its pre-revolution promises of complete autonomy for Catalonia. A statute embodying this will be drawn up immediately by representatives of the municipalities of the four provinces and submitted to a constitutional parliament for approval.

Catalonia, by abandoning its sovereign pretensions, gets all the things the monarchy so stubbornly denied her, her language, a provincial parliament, and much else, except fiscal autonomy.

It is everything really desired by the Catalans except a few. But that handful is the Macia crowd, which is now in power through an election won, not, however, against the Spanish republic, but against the monarchy on Sunday.

Vatican Parleys with Spain.

VATICAN CITY, April 17.—(AP)—Much of the present obscurity of the relations between the Vatican and the new republican government in Spain, it is hoped here, will be cleared through a conference between Papal Nuncio Tedeschini with the Spanish foreign minister.

According to good authority, the Vatican regards the Spanish upheaval as a setback in one direction, but with possible compensations. It is considered a distinct disadvantage in the sense that the concordat with royal Spain has been made uncertain.

Fleeing Duchess Loses $65,000.

HENDAYE, Franco-Spanish Frontier, April 17.—(AP)—The duchess of Alba, who was leaving Spain with about $65,000 in Spanish currency, was stopped today at Irun on the frontier and obliged to deposit the money there, in accordance with an order from Madrid. She then was permitted to proceed to Paris to join her husband who had arrived there yesterday.

MOSCOW RUSHES RED AGENTS TO SPAIN FOR COUP

Sees Hope of Establishing Communist Republic

BY EGBERT SWENSON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, April 17.—With Paris as its headquarters, the government of soviet Russia is reported to be doing its best to turn the republican revolution in Spain into Red shambles conducive to the establishment of a communist republic. This fear has been clouding comment in the French press ever since the proclamation of a Spanish republic.

Paris, the refuge of the exiled Spanish king, has blossomed into a soviet propaganda center. The wires between Moscow and its embassy in Paris have been clogged with messages for the last week and communist agents are being dispatched to the south daily in an attempt to win over the republican movement.

Red Leader Hurries to Paris.

It is rumored that Dr. Goldenstein, who became notorious when he was alleged to have blown up the cathedral in Sofia several years ago, killing more than 100 persons, is on his way to France to handle the Red propaganda in Spain. He was seen in Berlin two or three days ago.

"Spain is the second country after Russia that is ready more than any other nation for a bolshevik coup d'etat," he said.

Russia's Paris embassy has been ordered to carefully watch Spanish events. The Pravda's reporters and the Tass agency correspondents have been unusually active covering Alfonso's arrival in Paris. They were conspicuously present at the press conference which was staged by the Duke of Miranda, Alfonso's spokesman, this afternoon.

Morocco especially is the object of soviet concern, according to reliable information. Numerous Red agents have been and are being sent from Paris to Spain's north African territory in the hope of stirring the natives to the fanatic belief that Spain has been oppressing them and that communism offers them a Utopia. Some of the Paris papers hint that the death of a French officer and the noncommissioned officers at the hand of natives near the Spanish-Moroccan border two days ago is attributable to the present communist offensive in Spain's African colony.

Russian Reds Deny Plot.

MOSCOW, April 17.—(AP)—Russian communists generally disclaim any connection with the Spanish revolution and, according to the newspaper Izvestia, Russia sees little hope for any stable form of democratic government in Spain.

"The imperialists are afraid," the newspaper declared today, "lest the bourgeois democratic revolution develop into a Socialistic one. There is no doubt but that French and British bankers are well aware that Moscow has nothing to do with the events in Spain.

"It is certain that the new Spanish government will not destroy the old governmental apparatus, it won't dissolve the royal gendarmerie or touch the interests of landlords, and it won't give the land to the peasants. Should a further revolutionary movement develop, the new government would undoubtedly look to the monarchy for assistance, trying its best to shorten its own life as happened in the case of the republic of 1873."

BANDITS MENACE OFFICE FORCE; GET $1,600 LOOT

Three bandits invaded the offices of Koss, Morgan & Brookes, Inc., printers and binders, on the ninth floor of 801 South Wells street, yesterday, menaced 15 employes and the president, Morton S. Brookes Sr., and fled with a pay roll of $1,600. The money had just been delivered by Brinks Express company messengers. The robbers waited until the guards departed before committing the holdup. Two other men, one a lookout and the other a driver, aided in the robbery.

Wealthy Woman Found Carbon Monoxide Victim

Scarsdale, N. Y., April 17.—(AP)—Missing since Wednesday, Mrs. Harry L. Horton, wife of a wealthy business man, was found dead today from carbon monoxide poisoning. She was 40 years old. Her body was found slumped in her roadster in the garage of her country home. Wednesday she went to a bank presumably to place her jewelry in a safe deposit box where it was found today.

Coroner's Jury Unable to Solve Slaying of Genero

The coroner's inquest into the death of Johnny Genero, gangster and racketeer, who was slain at Normal avenue and 39th place on March 21, was closed yesterday with a verdict of murder by persons unknown. Police were preparing, however, to present murder charges against James Belcastro, reputed bomber.

TROOPS RECAPTURE TWO AZORES ISLES; MAY BOMBARD THIRD

LISBON, April 17.—(AP)—It was officially announced tonight that military operations were started against the rebels who revolted against the Lisbon government in the Azores, and that the garrisons on two islands, Graciosa and Sao Jorge, had surrendered.

The statement said government troops from the cruiser Carvalho Araujo and the destroyer Damao had occupied the islands and arrested the ringleaders of the insurgents. The Carvalho Araujo later this evening joined forces with the cruiser Vasco da Gama and moved to Horta, where preparations were made for an attack on the island of Terceira, where the revolt also broke out. The rebellion originated in the Madeira islands ten days ago and spread to the Azores.

Following upon unsuccessful attempts to induce the rebels of Terceira to surrender after leaflets had been dropped there from a seaplane, an ultimatum was sent to the insurgents that unless they surrendered the cruisers would bombard the island. The population was given notice to leave the city of Angra do Heroismo.

strongly monarchist and is not likely to get on well with the republican government, particularly if the latter should begin to seize church property. State department officials think the certain result of such a move would be civil war. It is denied that any representations have been made to the American government by the Catholic church up to date with reference to recognition of the Spanish republic.

The decision of American bankers to extend credit to Spain was interpreted at the time as evidence that they regarded Alfonso's government in no danger.

Loan Is Announced.

The loan was announced in the following statement by the house of Morgan on March 26:

"Messrs. J. P. Morgan & Co., acting in behalf of a group including themselves, the Chase National bank of the city of New York, the First National bank of the city of New York, the National City bank of New York, Guarantry Trust company of New York, Bankers' Trust company, the Bank of America, National association, the New York Trust company, International Acceptance Bank, Inc., Irving Trust company, Kuhn, Loeb & Co., Dillon, Read & Co., Lee Higginson & Co., Kidder, Peabody & Co., and others, have granted an eighteen months' revolving credit to the Bank of Spain in the amount of $38,000,000. The notes of the Bank of Spain evidencing advances and the credit will be guaranteed by the Spanish government and deposited with the Chase National bank in London.

Purpose Is Explained.

"The credit is issued in connection with the intervention in the foreign exchange markets for the purpose of regulating the quotation of the peseta during the period of de facto stabilization contemplated by the Spanish government preliminary to the definite adoption of the gold standard.

"Messrs. J. P. Morgan & Co. are advised that a contemporaneous European credit, equivalent in other currencies of approximately $22,000,000, is being arranged by the Bank of Spain with a European group under the leadership of the Banque de Paris et des Pays Bas."

Auditor and His Wife Robbed of Cash, Jewelry

Two bandits held up Joseph R. Frey and his wife in the garage in the rear of their home at 2025 Jarvis avenue, Rogers Park, early this morning. Frey lost $25 and his wife surrendered jewelry valued at $450. Frey is an auditor.

ALFONSO DROPS TITLE OF KING AND BECOMES A DUKE

France Reported Ready to Order Him Out.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, April 17.—The French government today became the first major power to officially recognize the new Spanish republic. But not so Alfonso de Bourbon, who spent his first day of exile roaming about the 28 rooms of his suite in a leading Paris hotel. He let the world know how he stood through the duke of Miranda, his official spokesman, at a press conference attended by 75 newspaper men this afternoon and in words to this effect:

"I am still the king of all Spain and I believe the forthcoming elections will return me to power."

The duke's words were couched in a suave speech in which he stressed the need of Alfonso holding his tongue and saving the French government from embarrassment for harboring the royal refugee. He dwelt at length on the great reception Paris accorded the king upon his arrival last night. He added that the exiled monarch's plans were vague.

France Reported Embarrassed.

"I don't think the king will leave France, although he may make a flying visit to inspect whatever spot he has in view," he explained.

Reports were current tonight that Alfonso will not be permitted to remain in France. It is intimated in some circles that the exiled monarch isn't certain whether the Paris government will allow him to stay.

The Bourbon's spokesman tonight said Alfonso had received no communication from the French government since his arrival. Nevertheless it is a common belief that the Quai d'Orsay is embarrassed by his presence, inasmuch as Paris will become the center of intense intrigue to get him back on the throne.

May Go to Poland.

It was reported today from Warsaw that Count Samomski, a nephew of Alfonso by marriage, is preparing a castle in the Carpathian mountains in Poland to receive his deposed relative. The count said he is expecting a "long visit." It is also common knowledge that Alfonso acquired a castle in Czecho-Slovakia three month ago.

It was announced today that Alfonso had dropped his title of king and that he preferred to be known as the duke of Toledo, one of his lesser titles. Queen Victoria, although taking an automobile ride to St. Cloud, a Paris suburb, this morning, spent the largest part of the day at the bedside of the invalid prince of Asturias, her eldest son, who reached here exhausted.

The king arose at 9 o'clock this morning showing little trace of fatigue from his trip from Madrid to Cartagena and on to Paris. He was dressed in a blue suit with white stripes and wore the ribbons of the Legion of Honor and the French military cross in the lapel of his coat.

King Takes Auto Ride.

During the day he chatted with Queen Marie of Rumania, who arrived this afternoon to offer her sympathy to the dethroned family. She was accompanied by Grand Duchess Cyril of Russia and Princess Ileana. Count José Quinones de Leon, Spanish ambassador, lunched with the royal family this noon on caviar, poached eggs, veal cutlets, fruit, pie, half a bottle of red wine, and coffee.

After dinner tonight Alfonso took a short automobile ride to visit friends. He was in bed at 9 o'clock.

Plans for a bridge across the Little Calumet river at Cottage Grove avenue have been approved by the war department, according to word received from Washington yesterday. Authority for the bridge was granted by an act of congress approved on March 3. The war department found that clearances provded for the proposed span will be adequate for navigation.

Help Democrats Modify Dry Law, Cermak Asks Floridians

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Miami Beach, Fla., April 17.—[Special.]—Mayor Cermak, in a speech here today, urged Floridians to join with the Democratic party in an effort to modify prohibition. He held prohibition and the cost of its inefficient enforcement as being largely responsible for increased taxation.

"The only hope of the Democratic party is to nominate a wet presidential candidate on a platform of state rights," he told city and county officials and prominent citizens of the Miami metropolitan area at a Lions' club luncheon at the Pancoast hotel.

The mayor also held prohibition responsible for the crowded conditions in state institutions throughout the country. He said the American people as a whole don't want prohibition and explained that whenever a public official attempts conscientiously to enforce the dry law his efforts are disapproved and he usually is defeated for reelection.

Tells Why Dever Lost.

"William E. Dever, Chicago's Democratic mayor, started to enforce the prohibition law and was defeated for reelection, despite the support of Chicago newspapers," the mayor said.

"Why do we not vote the way we feel? When prohibition began Chicago had 7,153 saloons. Now there are 15,000 speakeasies. Yet Illinois is the driest state in the union, according to its representation in congress. All but five of its twenty-seven representatives would vote to concur with the present prohibition arrangements.

Under Political Influence.

"Prohibition is responsible for present conditions, in which police departments are under the influence of political machines. I already have started to segregate the police department and the public school system of Chicago from politics."

Mayor Cermak touched on Chicago's financial problems and the extravagance of the previous administration which increased taxes. He was given a hearty reception.

At a meeting of the Chicago council committee on committees Ald. James B. Bowler [25th], chairman, proposed a plan to cut membership of council working committees from two years, which is the full term of aldermen, to one year. The committee is vacationing here while slating memberships on committees.

Merit System for Aldermen.

The proposal was put forth by Ald. Bowler as a merit system for aldermen. Under his plan the committee on committees, which would stay in power two years, would reassign committee memberships and chairmanships at the end of 1931. With the one year reassignment power the committee on committees, it was said, could punish aldermen for nonattendance at council sessions, or for other infractions of council rules, by removing the offenders from important committees or chairmanships. It also could, it was predicted, punish aldermen for political reasons, and in this was seen the greatest potential danger of the plan.

The committee also could reward aldermen for faithful attendance at committee meetings and for hard work on city business. It would give the newer councilmen, Ald. Bowler said, an opportunity to obtain recognition for their efforts in shaping council legislation.

Bane to Council's Reputation.

Nonattendance at committee meetings has been a bane to the council's reputation, according to Ald. Bowler, and has resulted in wasting the time of prominent citizens who appear before these aldermen only to find meetings postponed for lack of a quorum.

Ald. Bowler suggested as a partial remedy that vice chairmen be named for each committee, so that the committees can function during the absence of the chairmen.

Alaskan House Passes Bill Repealing Bone Dry Law

JUNEAU, Alaska, April 17.—(AP)—A measure repealing the territorial bone dry law was passed late today by the house by a 10 to 5 vote. An accompanying memorial, asking congress to approve the action, also was passed.

CRASHES AUTO INTO STREET CAR; CONDUCTOR HURT

James P. Harding, 30 years old, 1050 Pratt boulevard, son of John P. Harding, loop restaurateur, was arrested early this morning after he drove his automobile into the rear of a standing Clark street car at Sunnyside avenue, crushing Theodore Switzner, 36, of 2226 North Rockwell street, the conductor. Switzner was seriously hurt.

Seized with Harding was Miss Elizabeth McClaren, 25 years old, of 7344 Ridge avenue, Rogers Park. She was attired in a riding habit. According to Town Hall police, Harding had been drinking and put up a fight with policemen who arrested him. He was charged with assault with an automobile and driving while intoxicated, and his bond was fixed at $800 on each charge. Miss McClaren was booked for disorderly conduct and released on $50 bond.

Conductor Switzner alighted from his street car to adjust the trolley, and Harding's car, bound in the same direction, struck him. Policeman Minarik, a passenger on the surface car, arrested Harding. The conductor was taken to Lake View hospital, where it was said a leg amputation was necessary. Harding is a nephew of Capt. Patrick Harding of the Rogers Park station.

DISMISSES SUIT ASKING CANAL FUND ACCOUNTING

Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson yesterday dismissed for want of jurisdiction the two year old suit demanding an accounting of alleged extravagant expenditures in the sanitary district under the régime of Timothy J. Crowe as president.

The suit was instituted in the name of Guy H. Addison of Deerfield, Wis., as a Chicago taxpayer, and filed in the federal court on the ground of diversity of citizenship. Judge Wilkerson declared that Addison had paid only about $200 in taxes, whereas the law requires that at least $3,000 must be involved.

Policemen on Day Duty Don Warm Weather Togs

Spring arrived officially for the Chicago police department yesterday when the members of the force on duty during the day donned their warm weather uniforms. An order was issued by Acting Commissioner Alcock authorizing the men to wear their lighter clothing after he had received complaints about the discomfort of the winter uniforms during the last few days. Policemen on duty at night will continue to wear the heavy uniforms for several weeks.

CITY PAY ROLL DELAYED; ASSURE EMPLOYES CASH

Money Waits on Mayor's Signing of Tax Warrant.

Pay checks for Chicago's 8,000 policemen and firemen were ordered temporarily held up yesterday pending the return of a $1,000,000 tax warrant which last night was being rushed by airplane to Miami Beach, Fla., for the signature of Mayor Cermak. It is expected that the pay roll will be met on Monday or Tuesday.

Issuance of the semi-monthly salary checks was stopped by Acting City Controller Victor S. Petterson after City Treasurer James A. Kearns, on the advice of his attorneys, refused to accept an interim certificate in lieu of the tax warrant. Although the $1,000,000 is available in special funds to exchange for the warrant, Mr. Kearns was informed that the transaction would not be strictly legal until the warrant itself was deposited.

Money Assured, He Says.

"There is no cause for the policemen and firemen to worry about these checks, because they will be forthcoming as soon as the warrant comes back," Petterson said.

What the city fiscal experts were more concerned about than the temporary hitch in paying the policemen and firemen is where the money is coming from to pay employes after May 1. The same problem confronts the board of education, the county, and the other tax spending bodies, all of which soon will be short of funds unless they are able to sell their 1931 tax warrants.

So far this year the city and the county have been able to pay their employes by selling their warrants to their own special trust funds, but they have practically reached the legal limit of such sales. Meanwhile the banks have refused to buy the warrants, due to the muddled tax situation.

New Fiscal Developments.

Two developments yesterday, aside from the failure of the police and fire forces to get their checks, served to focus attention upon the tax warrant situation.

One of these was another twenty-four hours' delay in receipt of the $400,000 tax warrant sent by air mail to Mayor Cermak in Miami by the school board several days ago. Although none of the other taxing bodies has succeeded as yet in making an outside sale of tax warrants, Halsey, Stuart & Co. agreed to take the one $400,000 school warrant.

Mayor Cermak by telephone informed Commissioner of Public Works Sprague that he had signed the warrant and put it on a plane bound for Chicago. Last night, however, it had not arrived, although it was expected momentarily. The proceeds from the $400,000 warrant will be used to pay school board civil service employes, whose checks were due Tuesday.

Fail to Sell Warrants.

The other development was an unsuccessful effort by a delegation of county officials to sell $5,000,000 worth of county warrants to either Chicago or New York bankers. The delegation, headed by Thomas D. Nash, attorney for County Treasurer Joseph McDonough, visited several loop bankers and telegraphed to several banks in New York.

Attorney Nash, accompanied by Michael J. O'Connor, deputy county controller, left last night for West Baden, Ind., where they will confer with County Treasurer McDonough and Emmett Whealan, president of the county board, on plans for selling the warrants.

START CLEARING CITY WATERS OF SUNKEN BOATS

Commissioner of Public Works Sprague yesterday started carrying out his program of clearing the waters and wharves under city jurisdiction of old boats and other obstructions with which they have been cluttered up during the last four years.

The first objective of the cleanup campaign was the removal of the old pleasure boat Mineral City from the west end of Ogden slip, where it had remained half sunken since 1928. Cables were passed under the boat by a diver and it was hoisted out of the mud with the aid of a derrick. Last night the 90 foot hulk was towed into the lake by a tug and sunk in 60 feet of water.

Two Others in River.

Two other boats which have been permitted to block navigable waters in the downtown district without paying for city permits are the scuttled Rotarian, lying in the river between Clark and La Salle streets, and the former mayor's yacht, the Doris, docked between Clark and Dearborn streets.

Commissioner Sprague several days ago sent a letter requesting removal of the Doris and at the same time instructed Acting Harbormaster M. W. Ottershagen to determine the price paid by the city for the seven foot steel fence erected along the lower level of Wacker drive to protect the vessel. Mr. Ottershagen reported yesterday that the fence cost the taxpayers $1,125. Commissioner Sprague said he would send the former mayor a bill for that amount.

Try to Raise Rotarian.

Meanwhile a crew of workmen was busy trying to raise the Rotarian, which lies on its side at the bottom of the river. Mr. Ottershagen said that as soon as it is floated it will be disposed of so that it will no longer be an eyesore and a hindrance to navigation.

Commissioner Sprague asked the acting harbor master to make a complete survey of the river and its branches to find houseboats and other craft which should be removed. He said that it is probable that all the houseboats between Franklin street and Michigan avenue will be ordered towed away immediately and that others will be ordered moved wherever they are obstructing river traffic.

1,500 PROTEST TO ASSESSORS ON TAX BOOST

Throng Keeps Many Clerks Busy.

About 1,500 Chicago taxpayers flocked to the offices of the board of assessors yesterday to protest against the increase in their 1929 tax bills, which are now due. Assessing officials declared, however, that most of the complaints against the property assessments were unjustified and that the bills, which are approximately 19 per cent higher than those of 1928, are the result of an increased tax rate made necessary by the expenditures of the former city administration.

An examination of complaints disclosed errors in making assessments or entering assessments in the record books. Dominic Poppo received a bill for $547.77 taxes on his bungalow at 4304 Iowa street. The records revealed that Poppo had been assessed for a house 45 feet wide standing on a lot with a frontage of only 26 feet. An adjustment of his tax was promised.

Rate Increases Shown.

In the items making up the total 1929 city rates, exclusive of the park districts, the rates of state, sanitary district, city and school taxes were increased, while the county and forest preserve rates showed slight decreases. The city and school rates were increased the most.

A large staff of clerks was kept busy answering questions of taxpayers during the day and it is expected that the crowds will grow larger as the deadline for paying taxes draws near.

Extends Penalty Date.

Under a bill now pending in the legislature the deadline for paying 1929 taxes will be extended to May 15. The extension was made necessary by numerous delays in getting out the bills. After May 15 taxpayers who have not paid their bills will be penalized 1 per cent of their bill for each month it goes unpaid.

To Show Progress

Mrs. Rip Van Winkle will awake after a forty year sleep at the Illinois Women's Athletic club on Thursday, April 30, to find herself in the midst of a home economics exposition in which all the back-breaking jobs at which she used to work in the kitchen are made light through the use of electrical equipment. The club is featuring a play: "The Return of Mrs. Rip Van Winkle," giving a stage setting and exposition all in one, and contrasting the equipment of fifty and a hundred years ago with today. Edith G. Shuck will take the principal part of the play which is to be presented by the drama department. Mrs. Florence M. Blake is chairman of the event.

SOCIETY LEADER AT FORT HURT IN FALL OFF HORSE

Mrs. John Hinton, wife of Lieut. John Hinton of Fort Sheridan, who before her marriage was Miss Betty Fitts, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Freeman Fitts, 20 East Goethe street, was reported to be in a serious condition last night as a result of a fall from a horse Thursday afternoon.

Mrs. Hinton, a leader in the social life at the army post, was riding a mount recently purchased when the animal threw her. She fell upon a concrete sidewalk adjoining the Fort Sheridan bridle path and was badly injured. Her mother was at her bedside last night. Mrs. Hinton is under the care of Dr. Brown McClintic, post physician.

The wedding of Miss Fitts to Lieut. Hinton in October, 1924, was a social event. Mrs. Hinton is the mother of three children.

WHITEHEAD SUED BY ANOTHER GIRL; ASKS $100,000

West Palm Beach, Fla., April 17.—(AP)—C. P. [Conkey] Whitehead, millionaire sportsman of Atlanta and Havana, was made defendant in a $100,000 breach of promise suit filed in Circuit court here today by Miss Selina R. Miller of New York.

While the praecipe was the only paper filed in the suit, E. B. Donnell, attorney for Miss Miller, said tonight his client would charge Whitehead with failure to go through with a marriage promise.

Miss Miller, Donnell said, claims Whitehead became engaged to her, but for the last week or more he has been eluding her. They met, Donnell declared, in Havana during the winter of 1929 and were together again during the last season at Havana and Key West.

Miss Miller, described as a "striking brunette," is visiting in the home of Mme. Jeanette Gais at Palm Beach.

The attorney said he had been informed Whitehead was aboard his yacht in Lake Worth here.

Last year Frances Porter, former Follies girl of Atlanta and New York, sued Whitehead for $250,000 after a disagreement aboard Whitehead's yacht, the Maivern, in Havana harbor.

SLAIN BY FATHER-IN-LAW.

John Brown, 18 years old, 3810 South Park way, colored, was shot to death last night by his father-in-law, Maurice Keys, also colored, of the same address, in a quarrel at their home. Keys is being held.

RIDE VICTIM'S BODY FOUND; LAY KILLING TO GANG

Efforts were being made last night to establish the identity of a man who was taken for a ride, and whose bullet riddled and battered body was thrown into a ditch alongside Orr road, between State street and Cottage Grove avenue, just outside of Chicago Heights, early yesterday.

County highway police of Homewood believed the killing was the result of a gang feud. The body was found at dawn by Donald Herst of Blue Island. For a time the victim was believed to be Carl Schweer, 1650 Aberdeen street, manager of a chain store in Chicago Heights, who disappeared Wednesday, but this was subsequently disproved.

According to police, the victim was shot eight times in the head. His face was battered in, making recognition virtually impossible.

ORIGINAL NAME IS RESTORED TO WATER STATION

By order of Commissioner of Public Works Sprague, the name of the city pumping station located at 4925 South Western avenue was changed back yesterday to the Western Avenue station. During the last four years it has been called the Thompson station. This name will be chiseled out of the corner stone and the old one inserted.

The commissioner explained that all of the preparations for the station were made during the Dever administration and that former Mayor Dever laid the cornerstone. His successor upon taking office ordered a dedication ceremony and had the building renamed after himself.

"I believe in credit where credit is due," Sprague said, "but there is no reason whatever for naming any improvement in honor of a man in office when all the work was done by his predecessor."

FRANK BELL AND HIS 'CONFESSION' IN LINGLE CASE

His Story Proved False by Investigators.

BY JOHN BOETTIGER.

CHAPTER XV.

This is the tale of a man who gambled with doom—and lost. It is the story of a young bandit, the ne'er do well son of a good family, who wanted by confession to "clear his soul," as he said, of all his crimes, and he included among these crimes the murder of Alfred Lingle.

Confessions of murder, and robberies aplenty, rolled glibly from the lips of this black sheep, and he capped all this by forestalling, at the eleventh hour, the escape from the Cook county jail of a condemned slayer, his cellmate in murderers' row.

Criminologists may well ponder and psychiatrists may theorize over the motives and the mentality of this strangely complex individual whose name is Frank H. Bell. His story is a high feature in the annals of the Lingle case.

Captured After Robbery.

Frank Bell was captured by policemen on the 30th of June, 1930, within a few hours after he and another bandit, William Barnes, had robbed a radio shop on the south side of Chicago. Bell and Barnes had tied up the storekeeper, Leroy Pestlin, and were making their escape with $170 in loot when they encountered Pestlin's father, Herman, and the Rev. E. Jehn, a Lutheran clergyman, entering the store.

The two bandits then bound the elder Pestlin and the pastor, but while they were engaged in this task Leroy Pestlin managed to wriggle from his bonds, and he obtained a revolver and opened fire on the robbers.

Bell fled, but Barnes returned the fire. He wounded Pestlin in the arm and then fell, himself wounded. Meanwhile the elder Pestlin had slipped free from his bonds, and he ran to where Barnes lay, wrested the gun from the bandit and shot and killed him.

Confesses to Café Murder.

Tracing a telephone number found in the dead robber's pocket, the police went to 1214 North Paulina street, and there they found Bell in the company of two women. He confessed the crime, and then at intervals he told of other misdeeds. Finally he confessed that he was one of two robbers who on the night of June 15 had invaded the Villa Rica café on North Clark street, and who killed the manager of the restaurant, Christ Patras, when Patras resisted them.

Sergts. Francis J. Donohue and Charles Reynolds, investigators for the coroner, were called into the case, and at length Bell told them the name of the other robber in the Patras killing and where they might find him.

The coroner's investigators then arrested Bell's accomplice, Richard Sullivan, and he confessed that he had killed Patras when the latter drew a revolver instead of money from the restaurant safe.

Tells Story of Lingle Case.

Bell confessed sixty-eight robberies, a long list of desperate and dangerous crimes which included holdups of many hotels and restaurants. Then he asked to be taken to see Pat Roche, and to the investigator of the Lingle mystery Bell told another story. He said that he and Sullivan had been involved in the murder of Lingle, and that they had not gone to the Villa Rica café to rob, but to receive from Patras a sum of money which was supposed to be their share of the price put up for the Lingle killing.

Bell's story did not ring true to Roche, who concluded that the bandit was confessing a minor rôle in the Lingle murder in order to save himself from the dire consequences of the Patras murder. Roche ordered Bell taken back to jail to await trial for the Patras crime.

The prisoner began telling his story to others; and among those who were interested was Capt. Daniel Gilbert. Members of THE TRIBUNE staff were also investigating the Patras killing.

Offers to Solve Killing.

Meanwhile Bell had written to the editors of the Chicago Daily News, telling them that he could solve the Lingle killing, and this letter was given by the News into the hands of Coroner Bundesen. Bell by now was growing frantic; his trial for the Patras murder was fast approaching.

The coroner listened to Bell's story, and this time it was a far more complete tale than had been previously told. Dr. Bundesen began an independent investigation, in which THE TRIBUNE later cooperated, and finally, on Oct. 13, Bell was brought before a session of the coroner's inquest, and there he told the full story of how he had come to this pass.

He named Joe Traum, leader of the Indiana gang, as the man who planned the assassination of Lingle, and he said that Traum, with Sullivan and another man whose name he did not know, but who was a blond, were at the scene of Lingle's murder. Bell had driven them there, he asserted, and later, according to his story, he picked up Traum and Sullivan at an appointed rendezvous in Grant park.

The motive for the killing, so far as Bell knew it, he said, was $10,000 in cash, and although the witness said he had no knowledge of who had put up the money, he declared it was to be divided, $3,000 to Traum, $3,000 to Sullivan, $3,000 to the unidentified man, and $1,000 to Bell.

PICKS TED GEISKING.

As to the unidentified man, Bell had been shown pictures of Ted Geisking, the Indiana bad boy, and had declared that Geisking strongly resembled the man and that probably Geisking was the man he had seen. When Geisking was captured, and was eliminated by the Lingle witnesses, Bell said there was a strong resemblance. Other witnesses who viewed the slaying also had remarked a resemblance between pictures of Geisking and the slayer.

Bell had revealed that he and Traum had served together in Leavenworth penitentiary, and had become friends there, and this, he said, had caused Traum to enlist him in the Lingle murder plot. They had met by chance in Chicago, Bell declared, just before the Lingle killing.

In his testimony before the coroner's jury Bell declared that Traum had introduced him to Sullivan, and had then explained to both that he wanted them to participate in a kidnaping.

Bell asserted that on the morning of the Lingle murder he picked up Sullivan and then drove to Division and Dearborn streets, where they met Traum, waiting for them in a cream colored Packard sedan.

Tells of Drive in Loop.

The witness said he drove Traum and Sullivan about the loop for several hours, and that Traum finally directed him to drive to Jackson boulevard and the inner outer drive, and that Traum instructed Bell that afterwards they were to meet at that point.

Then, according to Bell's story, he drove over to Michigan avenue and Randolph street, and that there Traum hailed a man at the curb, whom Bell described as looking like the pictures of Geisking. Traum took a short, snub nosed pistol out of a pocket in the car and ordered Bell to return to the previously agreed meeting place, according to Bell's story.

Some fifteen or twenty minutes later, Bell testified, Traum and Sullivan, walking, met him at the inner outer drive, got in the car, and Traum ordered Bell to "shoot south." Bell said he asked where was the man they were to kidnap, and that Sullivan said: "O, we got him."

Sullivan's Wound Treated.

Then Bell said he noticed that Sullivan had been wounded, and questioning the man, received the reply that he had been shot. According to Bell's testimony, he drove Sullivan to the latter's rooming house, and got a doctor for him.

For several days they didn't hear from Traum, and they were wondering about their money, Bell declared. Finally, on the 15th of June, Traum called and told Bell to meet him with Sullivan that evening.

"Traum told us to go to the Villa Rica café and find Patras, the manager, who was supposed to give us the $10,000 for Lingle's murder," Bell testified. "He said he would wait for us in the car until we got back."

Then, Bell said, he and Sullivan went to the restaurant, and Patras, instead of giving the $10,000 to Sullivan, pulled a gun from the safe and started to shoot. Then Sullivan shot and killed Patras, Bell said, and both escaped.

There was one fatal error in Bell's story. He declared that Sullivan had been shot at the time of Lingle's murder. No witnesses had been found who had heard more than one shot fired, and the only possible explanation which could be made, to jibe with Bell's story, was that Sullivan had shot himself accidentally while making his escape into Grant park.

Sullivan, when questioned by the coroner, derided Bell's story and branded it wholly false. He declared they had entered the restaurant to rob it, and he said that he had been shot on the night of June 15 by Patras, and not on June 9.

QUIZ TRAUM IN PRISON

Coroner Bundesen, his investigator, Sergt. Donohue, and the TRIBUNE reporter journeyed to Leavenworth prison to see Joe Traum, the boss of the Indiana gangsters. They found him enjoying a clerical berth at the prison, immaculately clad in white duck trousers, shoes highly polished, a white shirt, and a neatly turned cravat.

Traum, somewhat reluctantly, agreed to answer questions. He denied that he knew Jack Zuta or that he had ever seen Zuta, although he was arrested in the headquarters of the gang with other north side gangsters.

Asked to state his whereabouts on the day of the Lingle killing, Traum said he got up at about noon, in his Diversey avenue apartment, and after dressing went to a German restaurant on Clark street for breakfast. He left the restaurant about 1:15 or 1:30 and took a bus downtown, Traum said.

Reads About the Killing.

"I went to a movie," Traum continued, "and got out of there at about 5 o'clock. I got on a bus to go home, and I read in the papers that a man named Lingle had been killed that afternoon."

The convict asserted that he could not name a single person who had seen him at any time on June 9. He didn't know the name of the theater he went to nor the picture he saw. He admitted knowing Bell in the penitentiary during his former stay there, but insisted he had not seen Bell since.

"I can't imagine why Bell should want to put me in this picture," Traum asserted. He denied that he had ever met Sullivan.

The prisoner admitted that he knew Grover Dullard. "This was significant in the light of the information that Dullard had a leading, if somewhat obscure, part in the planning of Lingle's murder.

REVEALS JAIL PLOT

The investigation of Bell's story was continued, and meanwhile Bell punctuated the inquiry with a sensational disclosure. He summoned the coroner's investigator, Donohue, to the jail on a Saturday afternoon on a pretext that he had something important to tell Donohue. The investigator arrived, and for twenty minutes he and Bell conversed idly on various subjects. Finally Donohue said:

"Bell, what makes you so nervous?"

The prisoner swallowed several times and then said, "There's a gun on the floor!"

"Where?" Donohue asked.

"In Lenhardt's cell."

William (Blackie) Lenhardt, under sentence of death for murder, was regarded as one of the most dangerous prisoners in the institution.

"What's the idea, Bell?" Donohue asked.

Describes Escape Plan.

"For God's sake, Donohue," the prisoner replied, "there's going to be a jail break at 3:30. Lenhardt's going to make a break for it."

Bell then told the sergeant the details of the plot. He said Lenhardt had sawed away the bars of his cell so that a push would give him space to crawl out.

Lenhardt had planned to call the lone guard on the tier over to his cell, strike him over the head with a revolver that had been smuggled in to him, take the guard's keys, and with his revolver shoot his way out of the jail to freedom. The plan probably would have been successful but for Bell's disclosures, which came only an hour before the time for the break arrived.

Sergt. Donohue notified Warden David Moneypenny, and a search of Lenhardt's cell revealed the revolver, ammunition, steel saws which had been used to saw away the bars, and a coil of rope. Then Bell revealed that an accomplice of Lenhardt had agreed to meet him in a cab outside the jail, thus facilitating the escape.

Seize Prisoner's Accomplice.

Guards were posted to await the accomplice, and shortly before 3:30 o'clock a cab drew up with a single occupant. The passenger was arrested, and afterward he was identified as Howard Soske, a former inmate of the jail who had been visiting Lenhardt at intervals. Soske confessed that he had been a party to the escape plot.

He declared that Lenhardt's mother had provided the revolver and saws, and that a jail guard, Joseph Connior, 62 years old and the father of seven children, had smuggled them in to Lenhardt. Connior also confessed, but he declared that he thought the packages he gave to Lenhardt were "tooth medicine and specs." Thus the whole plot was exposed.

The "Secret Six," the organization of the Chicago Association of Commerce set up for the investigation of crime, had expressed an interest in Bell's story of the Lingle case, and on Nov. 5 the committee members invited Coroner Bundesen, Assistant State's Attorney Rathbun and Investigator Roche to a joint meeting. It was here that Prosecutor Rathbun revealed that an investigation had disclosed that Bell's story in so far as it concerned the Lingle murder was false, and Rathbun stated he had three witnesses who disputed Bell on essential parts of his story.

Landlady Refutes Story.

One of these witnesses was the landlady of Sullivan, and she declared that Sullivan had been brought to her home, wounded, on June 16, as Sullivan himself claimed, and not June 9, as Bell had stated. She was able to fix the date positively by referring to the date of a check for merchandise which her husband had purchased in Milwaukee on the day after Sullivan was wounded. The husband verified this evidence.

The third witness was a man with whom Bell had entered into a second hand furniture business. This witness stated that their store was opened on June 9, and he remembered that Bell was in the store on that day, at the time of the Lingle murder.

Thus was sounded the knell of the newest hope of solving the Lingle mystery.

Bell and Sullivan were brought to trial for the murder of Patras. Sullivan, showing the most violent hatred for "the squealer," as he called Bell, offered to plead guilty and go to the electric chair if he were assured that Bell would die also. Bell refused to plead guilty. The state's evidence was put in, and then both Sullivan and Bell failed to take the stand in their defense, each fearing that if he testified first the other would follow, attempting to shift the blame.

This strange murder case, tried before Judge Joseph Sabath, finally went to the jury, and on Nov. 19 the verdicts of the jury were returned. Both men were sentenced to die in the electric chair, and the action of the jury wrote finis on another chapter in the Lingle case.

TRACE OTHER CLEWS

Two other clews, the first of which proved almost as exciting as any of the clews thus far pursued, were run down by the investigators.

State's Attorney Swanson received a letter from Edward Mitte, acting chief of detectives of Detroit, Mich., in which Mitte stated that he had information from a "fairly reliable source" that a man named Frank Fisher was the killer of Lingle. Inclosed with the letter were rogue's gallery pictures of Fisher and of a criminal associate of Fisher, named John Conley.

The Detroit police official stated that both men were associates of Harry Kirschenbaum, arrested in Los Angeles with Frankie Foster.

Prosecutor Rathbun showed the pictures of Fisher and Conley to the Lingle murder witnesses, and that of Fisher was immediately rejected, but the picture of Conley was stated by the witnesses to bear a striking resemblance to the killer.

Learn of Gang Connections.

Thereupon Rathbun and Roche set out immediately for Detroit, and from the information they gathered there, indicating that Conley had Chicago gang connections, and that he was a desperate criminal, they came to regard Conley as a most likely suspect.

It was discovered that on June 5, four days before the Lingle murder, Conley had been arrested in Marshall, Mich., and that the following day he had been released. From the sheriff at Marshall it was learned that Conley had been under treatment in the veterans' hospital at Battle Creek, Mich.

Inquiry at the hospital shattered the investigators' hopes another time. Conley was shown by the hospital records to have been in that institution on June 9.

Army Deserter's Story.

Lester W. McAdrian, a deserter from the army camp at Fort Sheridan, after being captured by the Chicago police, told Prosecutor Rathbun that he had fallen in with a hoodlum gang after his desertion from the army. The gang, McAdrian said, was headed by "Bullet Joe" Conners.

McAdrian told a vague and rambling story about his and Conners' activities, and he declared that a sweetheart of Conners, discarded by the gangster, had confided to McAdrian that Conners was in some way involved in the Lingle murder. The only facts cited by McAdrian in support of his theory was that Conners "appeared nervous" after the murder and had plenty of funds.

ARRAIGN MOTORISTS FOR ATTEMPTS TO DODGE LICENSE FEE

Six defendants charged with evading Illinois and Chicago taxes on their automobiles by owning Indiana license plates were arraigned yesterday before Municipal Judge Fetzer. The trials were continued to give them opportunity to pay the Illinois registration fee and the Chicago wheel tax.

The defendants are Leonard Miller, 8707 Exchange avenue; Claude Smith, 3113 Colfax avenue; Sidney Herman, 7943 Essex avenue; Roger Herman, a brother of Sidney and living at the same address; Harry Gold, 7905 Phillips avenue, and W. G. Eckart, 2503 East 79th street, who has a radio store in Indiana Harbor. A capias was issued for the arrest of T. Plan, 7945 Essex avenue, who failed to respond to a summons on a similar charge.

The prosecutions are the first cases to be filed as a result of an investigation into motor tax evasions being conducted by Secretary of State Stratton with the cooperation of state's attorneys and city prosecutors. Thirty other cases are scheduled for Judge Fetzer's court on April 28.

BROTHERS GIVEN UNTIL MAY 1 TO ASK NEW TRIAL

Disputed Points on Court Procedure Cleared Up.

Leo V. Brothers, convicted slayer of Alfred Lingle, yesterday was given until May 1 by Judge Joseph Sabath in the Criminal court to advance reasons why he thinks the verdict of a jury fixing his punishment at 14 years in prison should be set aside and a new trial granted.

The judge indicated that he would give the defense attorneys every reasonable opportunity to offer legal reasons for a new trial. Attorney Barratt O'Hara made his first appearance in court yesterday in behalf of Brothers.

Clear Up Disputed Points.

During the brief hearing over the continuance of the motion several matters connected with the trial were cleared up, as follows:

1. A denial was made by Brothers himself that he had not been given a fair trial.

2. An explanation by Judge Sabath of why the form for a manslaughter verdict submitted to the jury originally had be withdrawn after the jury retired to deliberate.

3. A refutation of the charge printed in some newspapers to the effect that Juror Philip Hagerman, 906 North Karlov avenue, the man who held out against conviction and finally brought about the compromise verdict, was told that the judge intended to keep the jury locked up for 72 hours.

Judge Explains Report.

Judge Sabath explained that he had investigated Hagerman's alleged charge and had found that a week before the jury retired to deliberate Hagerman had asked Bailiff Edward Reedy as to what was the longest period a judge had ever keept a jury locked up.

The bailiff replied that the longest period in his experience was in a case where the jury deliberated about 72 hours, with time out for sleep. This conversation was held in the presence of all the jurors and in no way pertained to the case then being heard. The judge pointed out that in the Brothers case the jury did not complain of the food or ask to be taken to sleeping quarters.

The manslaughter verdict form was inadvertently slipped in with the forms for other verdicts by an assistant state's attorney, the judge explained. Inasmuch as manslaughter did not apply in the case the form was withdrawn by the judge himself and filed with the unused instructions, he explained.

Fair Trial, Brothers Says.

The verbatim court record of the proceedings yesterday contains the following in regard to the statements attributed to Brothers to the effect that he was not given a fair trial:

"MR. O'HARA—I know that any defendant, regardless of his position, regardless of his wealth or his power, who comes before your honor, will always invariably receive a fair and outstanding trial, and I feel at this time that it is necessary to clear up a little matter that appeared in the newspapers.

"Mr. Brothers was quoted as saying that your honor had not accorded him a fair trial, and I am asking Mr. Brothers now to correct that statement. Mr. Brothers, did you make such a statement?"

"BROTHERS—No.

"MR. O'HARA—And what was your opinion of Judge Sabath as a trial judge?

"BROTHERS—Fair, your honor."

Attorney O'Hara said that many people "feel a sense of dissatisfaction with this verdict" and that therefore he should be given time to prepare properly his new trial motion. Assistant State's Attorney John Holman, who opposed a continuance, said that "some of the defense counsel want to retry the case in the newspapers."

CUPID FALLING DOWN ON JOB IN NEW YORK; BUSINESS IS BLAMED

New York, April 17.—[Special.]—Neither the young man's fancy nor the vernal urge, nor any other of those well known aids to Daniel J. Cupid, can controvert the figures that to date April, 1931, is the worst April the New York marriage license bureau ever had.

Figures show a falling off of 100 marriages in the first three months this year compared with last year. There were 4,707 marriages in the bureau's chapel during that period last year, as against 2,607 this year.

Depression in business last winter is given as the reason for the falling off in marriages. Instances are on record where the bride, who had a job, aid the license fee for the bridegroom, who had not.

FRANCE DECIDES TO HURRY TRADE UNION IN EUROPE

PARIS, April 17.—(AP)—An active policy toward establishing a European economic union was decided upon today at a meeting of government officials, called by Premier Pierre Laval.

It was announced the meeting was called to consider the situation created by the proposed Austro-German customs treaty and to determine the best means of bringing about a European union. In addition to Mr. Laval, those at the meeting included Aristide Briand, foreign minister; Andre Tardieu, the ministers of finance, agriculture and commerce and several representatives of the senate and house of deputies.

Briand, who developed the idea of an economic United States of Europe, was given united support in opposing at Geneva the Austro-German treaty as being against the general interest of Europe. The officials agreed it was an immediate necessity to relieve the wheat countries of eastern Europe. The French government today raised the amount of foreign wheat permitted to be brought into France from 15 to 20 per cent of the total amount used in making bread.

Roy L. Bassett and Leon Morgan, Chicago flyers who were the objects of a search in Illinois and southern Wisconsin Thursday night and early yesterday, were found yesterday at Appleton, Wis. Fear for their safety was expressed by relatives at Crandon, Wis., when they failed to arrive at Crandon on Thursday evening. Bassett lives at 5316 Harper avenue and Morgan, an advertising man, lives at 3217 West 64th place.

PENAL SCIENCE EYES CHICAGO'S CRIMINAL CLINIC

Opens Way to Fit Sentence to Individual.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

The new behavior clinic of the Criminal court of Cook county opens the way to a real revision of the treatment of criminals in this community and is being watched by social workers and criminologists everywhere.

Its laboratory is the square block on which the Criminal court, the county jail, and the House of Correction are situated, and its methods are as different from the old as the bastile architecture of the Bridewell and the office building, factory-like structures of the new Criminal court and the jail. In this block 26,000 criminals and persons accused of crime pass in review every year.

The beginning has been made of a scientific study of this human material, with the primary purpose of lessening its menace to the community. The method of approach is the new thing about it. It is that of mental hygiene, that of fixing the punishment to suit the individual, rather than to measure it by the crime committed.

Result of Years of Effort.

It has taken years to bring this about, as is the way with all reforms that must come up through the political body. The American Bar association, the American Medical association and the American Psychiatric association have long advocated something of this sort. The opening wedge in Cook county, the formation of this clinic and the appropriation of $21,000 for the first year, was made possible through the work of Chief Justice John P. McGoorty of the Criminal court and Dr. Harry R. Hoffman, assistant professor of nervous and mental diseases at Rush Medical college.

Consent to the plan was one of the acts of Mayor Cermak during his last few weeks as president of the county board. He got the money and made it possible.

Organization has been nonpolitical, the choice of a director being left to the Chicago Institute of Medicine. The group selected Dr. Hoffman, who, in turn, selected his assistants. These are Dr. Harry A. Paskind, neurologist at Northwestern university and former resident psychiatrist at Chicago State and Elgin hospitals, as assistant director; Mrs. Esther Mohr, graduate in law and in social service at the University of Chicago, as chief social worker; Mrs. Ann McPartlin, graduate of the University of Wisconsin, as assistant social worker, and Mary Louise Campbell, formerly of Rush Medical college and the Children's hospital, as psychologist.

Experts to Aid Judges.

The work has been begun and is confined now to an individual evaluation of each person accused of crime and subject to probation. Instead of the old method of political influence, or guesswork, or inadequate report, a fourfold expert opinion is to be at the judge's elbow when he makes his decision. The report is advisory only in character and is available to prosecution and defense alike.

The methods of reaching judgment are those of experienced psychiatrists, backed up by an intensive social history of the individual.

Lawyers and judges are attending classes in Berlin in psychological analysis to enable them to handle criminals better, and methods of treatment are being revealed through which the victim of anti-social impulses is relieved of the unconscious drives which his conscious will could not touch. No treatment is afforded in the Chicago clinic, but, for the first time in the United States, a psychiatric service is available in a jail and the judges have the benefit of such expert advice.

One of the interested observers is Dr. Franz Alexander, co-author of "The Criminal, the Judge and the Public," a Berlin psychoanalyst who is now lecturing at the University of Chicago.

On the Insanity Defense.

"Insanity should never be a defense in a criminal case," said Dr. Hoffman in discussing the new system. "The courts should pass first on this question—are they guilty? Then the rest should be decided in the domain of medicine and sociology.

"That, of course, is not the law now, but it will be some day. At present the defendant has a right to this plea and to the testimony of as many experts as he can hire.

"I believe, however, that the effect on the jury of a report by the clinic, made to the court, would be strong. It would take away the stigma of paid testimony.

"The clinic will aid the judge in deciding whether to send the person found guilty to the penitentiary, to the hospital, or to free him on probation. There are between 600 and 900 a year now who are freed on probation. Fifty-five per cent of those who come to the House of Correction have been there before. Twenty-five per cent have been there 30 times. What a waste there is here in court trials, transportation, and what a failure to help the individual.

Aims to Protect Society.

"It should be emphasized that the first aim of the clinic is to help society, to protect it from these repeaters by putting them away permanently. The next aim is to help these persons, although no cures will be attempted at the jail.

"The warden has set aside 39 cells for us. This will be known as observation row. Our resident psychiatrist will have daily access to them. First attention will be to those found guilty and subject to probation. It will be our aim to inform the judge what kind of persons they are; whether their trouble is mental, environmental, or educational; whether it is safe to turn them loose. If it is not, we will have them committed to a hospital.

"We hope in time to extend this service to the House of Correction. We are already assured of the cooperation of the state's attorney, the public defender, the department of public welfare, the sheriff, the warden of the jail, and the adult probation department."

How Clinic Will Work.

Mrs. Mohr, who has practiced law for three years and has done much social service research work, explains what at the clinic as follows:

"It is the aim of the clinic to make an intensive study of each individual before suggesting any one of the possible dispositions of his case. These are: Probation, discharge, sentence, or commitment to an institution for the mentally deficient or the mentally abnormal. It is planned that the clinic routine include a fourfold type of examination and that the report to the sitting judge be compiled on the basis of a staff conference by the four experts who interviewed the accused.

"The resident psychiatrist will make a thorough physical examination with special attention to constitutional and neurological factors. The day is past when science is even remotely connected with criminal stigmata such as Lombroso concerned himself with when he looked for twisted ears, but it is nevertheless realized that there may be some coördination with certain minimum physical characteristics and behavior manifestations.

Task for Psychologist.

"The second examination is that of the psychologist. She ascertains the mental makeup of the patient; her concern is to evaluate the patient's personality in terms of his mental ability; to find out what really can be expected of him in terms of social, and especially of vocational or industrial, adjustment and give advice accordingly.

"The third type of examination is that conducted by the social service division, which is concerned with the history of the development and experience of the individual and a detailed study of his environment, and to ascertain the interaction both of that environment to the patient and the patient's own to his surroundings.

"The fourth examination is that of the psychiatrist, which has preëminently two functions. The first of these is the truly psychiatric. That is, to evaluate the personality manifestations in this case, those favorable or inimical to the patient's future social adjustment. The second function is to coördinate all previous findings made with his own integrated picture of the individual. In this he is aided by a conference with the members of the staff. Thus are errors of judgment, which may creep into opinions by virtue of too highly specialized a perspective in examination, corrected."

CITY OBSERVES ARBOR DAY AT TREE PLANTINGS

County Board Starts New Program.

The celebration of Arbor day in Chicago and Cook county yesterday found expression in the planting of trees in school yards with appropriate exercises and the inauguration by the county board of a tree, vine and shrub planting program to last through April.

In assemblies held at all schools, the story of Arbor day, starting with its inception in Nebraska in 1872 at the prompting of J. Sterling Morton, then secretary of agriculture, was told. Since that time observance has become international and billions of trees have been systematically planted and cared for as a result.

County to Plant Trees.

Tree planting on a wholesale scale is to be undertaken this month by the county in the forest preserves. Workers are now in the midst of setting out about 130,000 seedling trees and 50,000 shrubs and bushes. One portion of this spring program is expected to produce about 30,000 walnut trees, according to Charles G. Sauers, superintendent of the forest preserves.

All schools outside of Chicago in Cook county were dismissed early yesterday for the planting of a tree in each school yard by an order of Edward J. Tobin, county superintendent of schools. Chicago schools were not officially dismissed, but an hour was taken out of the school day for organized observance.

Schools Hold Exercises.

The students of Lindblom High school planted an elm tree and dedicated it to Edward McDowell, the composer. Two assemblies were held and the school orchestra and glee club presented part of the program.

Wilbur Wright, principal of Austin High school, announced that a grafting from the Washington elm would be planted with ceremonies sponsored by the Daughters of the American Revolution next Wednesday. Similar exercises were held at all other schools.

Washington, D. C., April 17.—(AP)—President Hoover's present plans call for a trip to his fishing camp on the Rapidan river in Virginia early tomorrow. In the party will be Mrs. Hoover and their younger son, Allan; Secretary and Mrs. Hyde, Justice and Mrs. Stone, Solicitor General and Mrs. Thacher, Assistant Secretary Jahncke of the navy, Assistant Secretary Heath of the treasury, Mark Sullivan, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Newton, Lawrence Richey, Capt. and Mrs. Boone.

AUTO DEALERS GIVE FIREWORKS DISPLAY TONIGHT

The Chicago Auto Trade association will present a fireworks display along the lake front tonight advertising the "spring show" being conducted by Cook county's 600 motor car dealers this week and next.

From a barge towed by a tug the major display will be touched off at 7:30 o'clock off Addison street. There will be minor displays as the boat moves south for another major exhibition at 8:30 o'clock off 7th street. At 9:30 o'clock the fireworks will be off 53th street.

VULTURE FLIES INTO PROPELLER; 4 AIRMEN HURT

BOMBAY, India, April 17.—(AP)—A vulture which flew into a propeller of an airplane indirectly was the cause of the serious injury today of four persons, including Prince George Bibesco of Rumania. Their plane made a forced landing between Mochal Sarai and Gaya, Bengal.

The prince, who is president of the International Aeronautical federation, was flying with two Rumanian pilots and an English mechanic from Le Bourget, France, to Indo-China in a three motored 16 passenger transport plane in the interests of international aviation.

Landing at the Bamrauli airdrome this morning, the prince reported that a vulture had flown into one of the propellers a mile from Allahabad, the day's starting point. It was not thought any serious damage had been done. After refueling the plane took off for Calcutta, but trouble with the propeller caused a forced landing on the Bahabua road. The machine ran into a ditch and the fuel exploded, setting the plane afire. The injured were taken to Benares hospital, where Prince Bibesco was the first to regain consciousness.

U. S. MISSIONARY IN CHINA SEIZED, HELD FOR RANSOM

Bandits Demand $2,500 for Minnesota Man.

BY CHARLES DAILEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PEIPING, China, April 17.—The Rev. Allie Godfrey Lindholm of Ortonville, Minn., was captured by bandits yesterday on the Mongolian frontier near Paotehchow. Mr. Lindholm is connected with the Scandinavian Alliance mission at Kalgan. Mrs. Lindholm, who is now at Kalgan, in Chihli province, received a telegram from the bandits demanding $2,500 by tomorrow (Saturday).

A telegram to the American legation from Saratsi tonight said the missionary had been seized by forty brigands and carried into the center of the Ordos desert, beyond rescue except by a large expedition.

U. S. Asks Rescue Effort.

The American legation today wired the government at Nanking and leading generals and the governors of Shansi and Mongolia urging rescue efforts. Capt. William Mayer of the American field artillery left for Paotehchow tonight. He is due there on Sunday.

The legation today obtained confirmation of the killing of Father Maryn Aeons, a Belgian, by communists in western Hupeh after sacking Patunghsien.

Communists are becoming increasingly active elsewhere in China, indicating the possible truth of reported attacks upon foreigners in many sections on April 20.

Two Others Still Held.

Minneapolis, Minn., April 16.—(AP)—Capture of the Rev. Allie Godfrey Lindholm, Ortonville, Minn., missionary, by Chinese bandits brought to three the number of Minnesota men held for ransom. The others are the Rev. Bert Nelson and the Rev. Kristofer N. Tvedt, both of Minneapolis.

Demands for $300,000 Mexican for the release of Nelson later were pared to $20,000 for both Nelson and Tvedt. Three weeks ago the Norwegian Lutheran church of America decided to pay $5,000 in American money for the freedom of the missionaries. The church has not been notified if its offer was accepted.

The Rev. Mr. Lindholm's organization, the Scandinavian Alliance mission, is an interdenominational missionary society with headquarters in Chicago.

STATE'S WITNESS ASKS JAIL; SAYS LIFE IS PERILED

Tells of Threat in Conspiracy Case.

CRIMINAL COURT.

Frank Kallas, burglary, sentenced to 1 year to life in the penitentiary by Judge Charles A. Williams.

John E. Morgan, co-defendant with Frederick L. Padden, brother of Municipal Judge Frank M. Padden, and Lawrence F. Parker on a forgery conspiracy charge involving the sale of a north side property, last evening asked Assistant State's Attorneys Charles E. Lounsbury and Donald Thompson that he be put in jail to save his life. He was at liberty on bond pending the outcome of the trial and had taken the witness stand in behalf of the prosecution in Judge Philip J. Finnegan's Criminal court.

Morgan, at the conclusion of a day on the witness stand, told the prosecutors that he had received a telephone call at his hotel telling him "if you don't lay off the case your head will be blown off."

Gets Guard of Police.

Instead of sending Morgan to jail the prosecutors decided to change his place of abode and to assign a bodyguard of several detectives to watch over him. Morgan is to resume the witness stand again Monday to conclude his testimony as one of the state's main witnesses.

Morgan charged that Padden, who was employed in a real estate office on the north side, was the man who seemed to be the prime mover in a conspiracy to sell a piece of vacant property at Rockwell street and Glenlake avenue which he did not own.

The property was owned by Charles Sallstrom, who moved to California. Ralph W. Sallstrom, son and heir to the estate, found that instead of owning a piece of vacant property, as was specified in the will, there was a fifteen apartment building on it. He was amazed, however, when he was told that instead of title being in his father's name that it was vested in E. M. Berman.

How Deal Was Made.

According to the prosecutors, investigation showed that Morgan, an ex-convict, had posed as Sallstrom, and had negotiated the sale of the property to Bernian. Padden, it is alleged put through the deal, knowing that Morgan was not Sallstrom. Because of a guaranteed policy issued on the property both Berman and Sallstrom were protected and it is reported the matter has been settled out of court.

Attorney Richard Donovan, who is also named in the indictment, has been granted a separate trial because of illness. Maurice Blumenthal, also a defendant, will be another state's witness next week.

QUEEN OF SPAIN MAY LOSE MOORE GIFT OF $100,000

King's Ousting Likely to Cause Court Fight.

Pittsburgh, Pa., April 17.—[Special.]—That Pennsylvania courts may be asked to pass on the validity of the bequest made by the late Ambassador Alexander P. Moore of $100,000 to former Queen Victoria of Spain, to be used for charitable purposes, was indicated here today.

John S. Weller and John O. Wicks of counsel for the Union Trust company, executors of the Moore will and also the estate, said a tangled legal problem is involved because of recent events. Mr. Weller said:

"If any action is taken it would have to be started by the residuary beneficiaries. While I would not like to commit myself in an offhand opinion, the abdication of the throne by King Alfonso may have some effect on the will. The bequest was made to the queen in her full name as queen."

Release 63 Objects of Art.

In the suit of Mrs. Dorothy Russell Calvit, daughter of Lillian Russell, for a share of the Moore estate, records of the Union Trust company produced today showed 63 art objects and pieces of furniture had been released to Mrs. Mildred Martin, niece of the late ambassador.

According to counsel for Mrs. Calvit, the missing items are part of the 121 articles which Mrs. Calvit contends are missing from her mother's estate.

The trust company made such authorization after three persons—Mrs. Sue M. Addy, Moore's sister; Mrs. Lena Chapman, Moore's housemaid, and Jessie Sutherland, Moore's secretary—had signed a certificate attesting that the property belonged to Mrs. Martin.

To this Judge Thomas P. Trimble asserted:

"Nobody rendered a judicial opinion on the certificate of these three women. The whole matter should have been submitted to court."

Judge Calls for Agreement.

Judge Trimble asked for a copy of the agreement whereby Mrs. Calvit agreed to accept $35 weekly from the estate of her mother when the Union Trust company pointed out that the estate's income was not sufficient to supply the $50 figure specified by Miss Russell in her will.

It also was learned that a woman's watch, set with diamonds and bearing Lillian Russell's monogram, is among the listed assets of the Moore estate. The watch never was included among the catalogued assets of Miss Russell's estate, Attorney Herlan Pollock and Mrs. Calvit said. He also said no trace can be found of three amber fans, set with diamonds and appraised at $900, which were among Miss Russell's recorded possessions.

Buys 2 Oriental Rugs for $425.

The trust company's records today revealed that Mrs. Martin had bought for $425 from Moore's estate two oriental rugs which Pollack contended were Miss Russell's and worth at least $1,200.

Pollack asked the trust company whether, after Miss Russell's death, Moore ever had opened her safety deposit box alone, or whether he had been accompanied by a trust official. Carroll Davis, trust officer, promised to find out.

Regarding $1,500 in bills unpaid since Miss Russell died, Judge Trimble ruled the Moore estate would have to pay them. He also asked that counsel submit the present value of the Moore estate, estimated in excess of $600,000.

CANADA URGED TO BAR U. S. LABOR AS RETALIATION

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

OTTAWA, Ont., April 17.—Canadian retaliation upon American workmen because of the American government's reported move to deport 30,000 French Canadians from the New England states was urged upon the dominion government in parliament today. The reply of Immigration Minister William Gordon indicated that he does not intend to consider the suggestion.

Louis Parent, French Canadian Liberal from Quebec, urged Canadian retaliation upon the many American painters and dcarpenters who, he said, were brought in to repair American owned summer homes in the Thousand Islands region. Peter Veniot, New Brunswick French Canadian, said similar steps might be taken in American summer colonies just over the American border.

Minister Gordon, in reply, said that border labor complaints were at all times numerous and deportations carried out only after careful consideration of facts. He said relationships along the border were harmonious and interests of Canadian labor were being carefully guarded.

SUICIDE PLUNGE OF WOMAN LAID TO DESPONDENCY

A coroner's jury decided yesterday that despondency because of inability to find work caused Mrs. Ruth Hamlin, 24 years old, foster daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Van Newkirk, 401 Fullerton parkway, to commit suicide by leaping from a 21st floor window in the Allerton house, 701 North Michigan avenue, early yesterday. The victim was also known as Miss Ruth Gordon.

Testimony at the inquest, which was presided over by Deputy Coroner Frank Donohue, brought out that the young woman had eloped on last Jan. 9 with John Hamlin, a soda dispenser, who has since disappeared. Mrs. Hamlin did clerical work for a while and then lost her job. Mr. Newkirk told of her growing despondency and said that she often disappeared from their home for days at a time.

WICKERSHAM'S GROUP REPORTS CRIMINAL DATA

Statistics Part of Original Task.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 17.—[Special.]—The Wickersham commission's report on criminal statistics, one of nine reports still to be made, was delivered to President Hoover today and will be made public on April 27.

The remaining eight reports will be completed shortly and will be released at intervals. These reports will deal with: Prosecutions, treatment of juvenile offenders, deportation laws of the United States, criminal justice and the foreign born, cost of crime, penal institutions, probation and parole, and the cause of crime and lawlessness among government officials and employés.

Two Years of Work.

The Wickersham commission reaches the end of its official life next June 30. At that time it will have spent two years in consideration of the subject of law observance and enforcement. Brought into being by President Hoover as his answer to a campaign pledge, it announced early in its career that its study would be divided into eleven branches.

Most important of these was the study of prohibition, on which a report was submitted to the President last January and by him sent to congress. The commission had preceded the prohibition report with one containing recommendations for the relief of court congestion.

"Causes of Crime" Next.

Following the report on criminal statistics will come, it is expected, the report on the causes of crime. This will be divided into five subheads: A study of delinquent areas, the economic aspect of crime, the psychiatric approach to the study of crime, the literature on the subject, and a general consideration.

BAKER NOT SEEKING NOMINATION, BUT NOT REFUSING IF OFFERED

Cleveland, O., April 17.—(AP)—A statement setting out the attitude of Newton D. Baker of Cleveland, former secretary of war, toward talk of his candidacy for the Democratic nomination for the presidency, was issued today by W. B. Gongwer, Cuyahoga county Democratic leader after a conference with Baker. The statement indicated that Mr. Baker will not do anything to obtain the nomination, but he will not refuse it should it come to him.

During the scramble for delegates to the national convention Mr. Baker will not use his influence in behalf of any particular candidate.

TWO MEN KILLED WOMAN SHOT IN BACK FENCE FIGHT

Versailles, Ind., April 17.—(AP)—Orville Chamberlain, 35, Norwood, O., and Jess Rodgers, 50, shot and killed each other in a pistol battle late today. Chamberlain's mother was wounded when she attempted to act as peacemaker.

Coroner J. F. Burst, who conducted an inquest, said Chamberlain and Rodgers had quarreled about tin cans thrown over a fence by Rodgers onto the property of Chamberlain's mother, Mrs. Mary Lamberkin.

The battle occurred at the home of George Smock. Mrs. Lamberkin was shot in the chest when she stepped between the two men. Chamberlain, who had been visiting his mother, was shot once in the heart and Rodgers three times, once in the heart. Both men fired five shots.

SIGNS CHECKS AS A DU PONT, YOUTH ENDS UP IN JAIL

Police Are Doubtful on His Identity.

New York, April 17.—[Special.]—A prepossessing young man with a silk hat and a good accent almost cashed an allegedly worthless check for $100 at 5 o'clock this morning in the Hotel Vanderbilt and almost convinced detectives that he was Richard Chichester du Pont, son of A. Felix du Pont of Wilmington, Del. As E. J. Gilligan—said by the police to be his correct name—he was arrested on a charge of suspicion of forgery.

The youth entered the hotel and asked John R. Clark, night credit manager, to cash the check. In the last week, he said, he had cashed two checks there for $250 and seven for $100 each. The checks had been accepted by the bank upon which they were drawn, but a representative of a detective agency had expressed a desire to interview the young man in the event that he should cash another.

Mr. Clark requested that Gilligan wait a moment, went into an adjoining office, and telephoned the police. Detectives arrived to place him under arrest. He protested there must be "some horrible mistake."

To Assistant Chief Inspector Sullivan, at the lineup, where he appeared still in evening clothes, he suggested that possibly his difficulties arose from the fact that "some one has been impersonating me." Several detectives were impressed, but Inspector Sullivan remained skeptical.

"I confess I was drinking a bit last night," said the prisoner, "but surely you must see that if I am not Richard du Pont I could have no object in saying I am, for I should soon be found out."

The detectives telephoned the Du Pont residence in Wilmington and were informed that the prisoner answered the description of a man formerly employed there as a butler and that Richard du Pont was a student at the University of Virginia.

Americans Flee Nicaragua Interior

munication the American minister at Managua and the American consul at Bluefields on the Mosquito coast were told to advise Americans in the interior that they must not expect American forces to be sent inland to their aid in the event of further trouble.

"In view of the outbreak of banditry in portions of Nicaragua hitherto free from such violence you will advise American citizens that this government cannot undertake general protection of Americans throughout that country with American forces," Mr. Stimson said.

Remain at Own Risk.

"To do so would lead to difficulties and commitments which this government does not propose to undertake. Therefore the department recommends to all Americans who do not feel secure under the protection afforded them by the Nicaraguan government through the Nicaraguan National Guard to withdraw from the country, or at least to the coast towns whence they can be protected or evacuated in case of necessity. Those who remain do so at their own risk and must not expect American forces to be sent inland to their aid."

Publication of the administration announcement that the United States was departing from the Coolidge policy of according full protection to all American citizens and their property in Nicaragua roused a storm of denunciation from regular Republicans, but won plaudits from the radical Republican group in the senate which with pacifist spokesmen have often criticized the Coolidge-Kellogg Nicaraguan policy.

Radical Senators Pleased.

Senators William E. Borah [Rep., Idaho], chairman of the foreign relations committee, and Robert La Follette [Rep., Wis.], both radical Republicans, expressed satisfaction over the Stimson pronouncement. In other quarters where the announcement was construed as a new departure in American international policy, senators and representatives openly viewed it with disfavor. Senator Claude A. Swanson [Dem., Va.], said he was certain the United States "would continue protecting Americans," while Chairman Fred A. Britten [Rep., Ill.], of the house naval affairs committee, said that for this country to relinquish its right to protect Americans and foreigners in Nicaragua might have a distinct bearing on future application of the Monroe Doctrine.

Fruit Company Faces Quitting.

New Orleans, La., April 17.—(AP)—Officials of the Standard Fruit and Steamship company said today that failure of the American government to guarantee general protection against bandit raids in Nicaragua means the company is faced with probable closing down of operations centering at Puerto Cabezas.

Informed of Secretary of State Stimson's announcement that marines would be used only to protect lives of Americans in port cities and warning Americans to leave the interior, John J. Brownson, official of the Standard company, said they could not hope to continue operations in the bandit infested area under protection of only National Guardsmen.

"Our employés have only one of two choices," he said. "They must either take the chance of being protected by National Guardsmen or leave the country."

He said the National Guardsmen were mostly recruits.

Rochester Will Sail Today.

BALBOA, Canal Zone, April 17.—(AP)—The U. S. S. Rochester will leave tomorrow for Bluefields, Nicaragua.

The Rochester will swell the American armed force in Nicaraguan waters. There are 174 marines and 1,130 sailors on the four cruisers.

AMERICANS ON EAST COAST.

The east coast region of Nicaragua, in which insurgents are now looting and killing and threatening to take important towns, contains virtually all the American commercial investments and most of the United States citizens living in the republic.

It is at Puerto Cabezas that the $10,000,000 properties of the Standard Fruit company are centered. They are all in the area now occupied or threatened by insurgents. They are by far the largest foreign investment in the republic.

Puerto Cabezas is a town of about 1,200 persons, several hundred of whom are Americans. It lies on a plain, and is particularly accessible to attack.

Puerto Cabezas is in such fear of capture that the American inhabitants of the town now sleep at night on a steamship tied up at the wharf.

Why, yes—
I bought this Suit in Field's new moderately priced section

Good-looking, isn't it? I thought so too, but you know . . . I had a hard time making a selection because they had some of the best looking suits I've seen in a long time in that new section of theirs. I finally picked this one. It's a new shade of grayish green and it certainly is well-tailored. Yes, and it carries two trousers. They have 3 interesting prices—

MOSCOW FULL OF VACANT ROOMS; TRY TO GET ONE

Mr. Wales Finds It Very Difficult Task.

BY HENRY WALES.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MOSCOW, March 19.—[By mail.]—Finding a place to live is the hardest thing to do in Moscow, and getting into it, once found, is the most difficult part of the job. Some naive people put advertisements in the newspapers and wait forever for replies, while the hustlers breeze around among their friends and acquaintances and make inquiries.

There is an appreciable number of vacant rooms in Moscow houses, because the "house committee," which regulates affairs in the building in question, refuses to permit a tenant to rent a room, for one reason or another. Usually it is because some member of the committee has a friend or relative that he wants to install in the empty room. If the tenant objects is this person or family the committee blackballs every other prospective tenant.

Looks for a Room.

I heard about a room, and as it could not be any colder than my hotel and promised to be warmer, I decided to try for it.

First of all there had to be a contract drafted in Russian. It took some time to borrow a Russian typewriter with the Greek characters. Then, as I am a foreigner, I had to get an order from the foreign office.

The landlady took the order from the foreign office, with the contract, to the "house committee," and I was turned down flat. They already had a foreigner in the house. Outlanders brought bad luck anyway, and then I might be a Polish spy and have the G. P. U. raiding the joint at all hours of the night. Then again, perhaps I would have a phonograph with hateful jazz records to keep neighbors awake, and lots of other objections.

I became angry, so I went to the foreign office and got another letter, an order in more drastic terms, instructing the "house committee" to award me the room, or dreadful things would happen to all the members. The landlady presented that. The secretary returned it, it was not stamped with the official seal. I took it back and got the big red seal affixed.

Gets Police Approval.

Well, how could the "house committee" know that the police would authorize me to live there, even if they consented!

"Try it and see," I replied.

So I gave my passport to the kommandant, as the janitor it titled, and he took it to the police. Sure enough, the police stamped it and said, "Sure! let him live there!"

Grudgingly the "house committee" signed the contract, but warned me I better be home by midnight as the front doors were locked at the stroke of twelve and the night watchman might refuse to let me in afterward.

The first time I got in late, that person was on hand, sleeping, despite the bitter cold weather, in his big sheepskin great-coat, at the doorway to the yard. He asked many questions, but when I gave him a package of cheap cigarets, which I carry for that very purpose, he nearly insisted on carrying me all the way up the three flights of stairs on his back.

Our "kommandant" is struggling for the first prize awarded to janitors who effect the greatest economy in fuel this winter. How he manages to keep his furnace alight at all with the infinitesimal amount of wood he sprinkles on it, is nothing short of a miracle.

Shower and Tub.

In the bathroom—modern with a shower bath as well as tub—there is a nice wash basin with right and left handed faucets marked "gor." and "hol." Well, anybody could figure that "hol" would be "cold," so, automatically, "gor." becomes hot; only it "ain't." It is nothing, in fact. It doesn't run at all. The hot water comes in a pitcher.

It's a nice bathtub, too, all clean and white. There are "kol" and "gor" faucets and a fussy looking gas water heater to steam up the water for the big Saturday night plunge. But the gas heater is out of business. It won't work, and plumbers won't come, and anyway they can't get the necessary parts to fix it. But the drain worked and by removing the plug and standing in the tub and pouring warm water over my head I got a bath.

Fortunately my room has a bed in it. One frequently rents rooms in Russia that have no beds. That means you sleep on the floor or buy your own. Even in hotels there are frequently no beds in the bedrooms and no bedding. One provides their own sheets, blankets, pillows, and slips.

Has "Speakeasy" Walls.

There's no bureau or wardrobe or closet space. The room is equipped with a big desk, and I can put my linen, collars, shirts, underwear, pajamas, socks, and handkerchiefs in the drawers. My shoes are set under the bed.

It's a new apartment house building, with "speakeasy" walls, as one can hear right through into the next rooms, and leaky windows, through which the cold permeates despite the fact the double windows are puttied up.

There's a big snowbank in the front yard and all the children in the neighborhood coast on their sleds. They have also made a sliding pond on the cement walk that leads to the street. I found that out when I stepped on it, concealed under a light fall of snow.

Mrs. Alma Brill Divorced from Aid to Hammerstein

Reno, Nev., April 17.—(AP)—Mrs. Alma Brill was granted a divorce here today from Leighton K. Brill of New York, theatrical stage director for Arthur Hammerstein, on the grounds of extreme cruelty. In an Associated Press dispatch yesterday reporting the filing of the suit it was stated erroneously that Brill was the author of the musical production, "Sweet Adeline," and a partner of Oscar Hammerstein in the theatrical enterprises.

"Green Hell" Thrills with Jungle Terror

Insects, Beasts, Men Try to Kill Explorers.

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

"GREEN HELL," by Julian Duguid [Century] is a thriller—a tale of mad adventure—a romantic tale of character tried and not found wanting—and of all sorts of other things. It is about an expedition through the jungles of eastern Bolivia, an inferno with circles as terrifying and as terrible as Dante's. The Irish author, an English motion picture photographer, and a Bolivian diplomat started out together to explore the "green hell" of the Chaco. One went because he was sent by his government, the other two because the trip seemed like something worth photographing and worth recording. None of them really knew what was before him. The book probably would not have been written if these three had not met, just before they penetrated into the most terrible of the circles of the inferno, a Russian tiger hunter who had chosen to live his life in the wilds, who knew almost like an animal the ways of the forest, and who eagerly joined the expedition.

Often things happened which seemed to insure the book never would be! Jaguars—or tigers, as they call them in that part of the country—and great snakes were mere amusements compared to the real dangers which beset them. A tiger hunt was a game. There were some tigers which were known to be man eaters and nobody could ever tell until he was eaten, apparently, but tiger hunting was something which they chose to undertake, not peril which could not be avoided.

There couldn't possibly be a more exciting scenario for the motion pictures which the photographer, Bee Mason, took. But he improved on the scenario provided by nature and wheedled the author into playing with a giant anaconda while he photographed the passionate lashings of the great snake, whose neck was held by the author. The snake was unable to use its great crushing muscles because there was no tree to act as an anchorage, for such snakes must have leverage to exercise their death crushing length. This conflict was sport to the author and his companion!

Their first sight of a tarantula is a creepy thing. They thought it a nice little kitten, a furry black ball which—when they drew very close, they saw was the most obscene creature they had ever looked upon, the author says. They escaped without gaining any more closely acquainted with the tarantula.

But other insects nearly drove them mad, literally. There are some tiny bugs—hennı—so small that they fly through mosquito nets with their wings out flat, Mr. Duguid says.

Their sting is like fire and the only way it is possible for their victims to endure living is by walking constantly. The death of many men is to be counted against those creatures, not from their actual sting, which makes great, festering, frightfully painful sores, but because it is literally impossible for men to sleep when those insects are around. They do not, like mosquitoes, concentrate on night work, but are busy all day and all night. Men have gone crazy with lack of sleep—died raving mad.

The jungle was inhabited by naked savages of a cruelty and a slyness—a cunning and a skill beyond description in the use of their barbed arrows. The natives' skins are like leather, which they are said to grease so they can slide through the thick jungle. Such were the explorers' only human menace. Only a miracle, the Russian's knowledge of forest psychology, saved them from massacre by a wandering Indian band.

The Indians were about to attack and, as a war cry or for some reason which the explorers did not understand, the Indians burst into the mating call of frogs. The Russian answered them with a single stupendous cat cry. The Indians were put off and the author feels that the lives of the exploring party were saved by that stroke of genius on the part of the Tiger Man. But the Indians were not through.

They poisoned the only drinking water for miles around. [The menace of lack of water was one of the greatest terrors of the jungle, so Mr. Duguid says.] Luckily the poison was only a strong purgative—not a fatal dose.

At the very beginning of the journey they met the piranha, which is, if you don't happen to know, "the most dangerous creature in South America, the man eating fish. More terrible than a tiger, it herds in numberless swarms and preys on every sort of flesh. These blunt jawed demons single out the weakest and tear its vitals into strings as it plunges in agony through the water. . . ."

They are like vultures, only they cause, not await, death. You are beginning to think, on page 37 where you meet the piranha for the first time, that maybe this trip isn't going to be all cozy comfort. And every page after that to the very end convinces you that it wasn't.

Without being at all sentimental about the way the members of the expedition comported themselves, you know that four grand human beings went on that trip, brave, unselfish, kind, generous, loyal men. The book is tacitly a pæan of praise for man's fortitude in the face of danger.

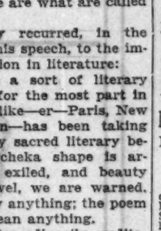
Galsworthy Asserts Books Are Improving

Despite Weird Cults in Principal Cities.

BY HENRY HART.

NEW YORK.—[Special Correspondence.]—America is more kindly and less hurried in the period of its depression, John Galsworthy observed in a speech delivered, the night before he sailed for home, at the dinner of the Friends of the Princeton Library at Pierre's in New York.



JOHN GALSWORTHY.

"It does seem to me," he said, "coming back here after five years, that the people of America are more quietly efficient, more kindly if possible, less hurried, and on the whole more contented looking than I ever remember them. And that's rather odd considering that these are what are called bad times!"

Mr. Galsworthy recurred, in the very last part of his speech, to the importance of tradition in literature:

"Of late years a sort of literary Tcheka, situated for the most part in outlandish places like—er—Paris, New York, and London—has been taking the heads of many sacred literary beliefs. By this Tcheka shape is arranged, selection exiled, and beauty violated. The novel, we are warned, must no longer say anything; the poem must no longer mean anything.

"I think it is extraordinarily creditable to our profession that, in face of the working of this celestial body, more and on the whole better books are being produced in your country and in mine, and more copies of them are sold than ever before. We certainly should not make a fetish of tradition, but neither should we burn joss sticks to upheaval. For in spite of all impatience and the changing fashions, the arts (even literature is an art) have, like social customs, a habit of steady adherence to human need which —believe me or not—is a fairly constant thing."

"Of all the books I have ever read about strange people, this is the most startling, most vivid, most haunting. Probably no book like JUNGLE WAYS has ever been written before. It is spectacular, shocking, devastating; but its power lies in the fact that it was not written to be spectacular or to shock."—Fanny Butcher.

What kind of human creature will science produce?

Dr. Crile's recent accomplishment in the chemical creation of life in a test tube has caused many to wonder how soon human beings will be produced in a laboratory.

Joan Conquest has written an amazing new novel on the subject. It is the story of a girl bred of human seed in a laboratory. She is gifted with beauty and high mentality, but she has no soul, no moral sense, no fine emotions. A drama of devastating heartless passion, exposing the dangers of scientific folly.

Newer Russia Militant with Statistics, Too

Spirit of War Drives Its Factory Workers.

BY CLIFTON M. UTLEY,

"Making Bolsheviks," by Samuel N. Harper [University of Chicago Press].
"The Soviet Challenge to America," by George S. Counts [John Day].
"The Challenge of Russia," by Sherwood Eddy [Farrar and Rinehart].
"These Russians," by William C. White [Scribners].
"Under Three Tsars," by Elizabeth Narishkin-Kurakin. Edited by René Fülop-Miller [Dutton].

THE rising tide of interest in things Russian has swept from the presses another half dozen volumes, of which one—that by Elizabeth Narishkin-Kurakin — evidences the continued existence of a flickering spark of curiosity regarding the comings and goings of nobles and ladies in what was once known as Holy Russia. But in these days much greater attention is being devoted to the five year plan and other aspects of the current bolshevik experiment, and most important of all, what is going to happen next. It is to such questions that five of the titles listed above are devoted.

Counts and Eddy have plunged joyously into their tasks and emerged with amazing arrays of figures which have been incorporated in something akin to handbooks of present day Russia. On this score alone their works are of considerable value, particularly to the person who possesses considerable interest but little knowledge regarding the communist nation. Knickerbocker has presented a series of illuminating, instantaneous, up-to-the-minute snapshots of the plan as seen on location, while to William C. White goes the distinction of having provided a fascinating and faithful picture of the new Russia in the form of a series of character sketches unburdened by tedious statistics.

The sophisticated student of Russian affairs is likely to find greatest enjoyment in the little volume of Prof. Harper, both on account of the rigid suppression which the author imposes on his own prejudices, and because a comparison is constantly offered between conditions as the writer saw them in 1926 and again last summer. Structurally the book is built around a discussion of the six new cadres of Soviet Russia. The five year plan is taken for granted, and it is assumed that its fundamental aspects are known to the reader. Messrs. Harper, Counts, and Eddy all agree that the psychology with which Soviet Russia is meeting its present problems is one of war.

Mr. Harper prefers the term "revolutionary situation." Dr. Counts makes practically the same statement. Both writers take the soviet statistics with a certain degree of reserve.

Although believing them to be honestly gathered and computed, they point out that the quantity "control figures" of the five year plan are often met at the expense of quality of the goods produced.

As to the future, Mr. Harper is reserved. He reports conditions as he sees them and allows the reader to decide for himself the degree of success which the five year plan may be expected to achieve.

Prof. Counts' work is a considerably more ambitious undertaking. The theory underlying the present Russian order is set forth, briefly but adequately, and the five year plan is described, equal emphasis being laid on the program to be accomplished and the methods by which it is to be achieved. These chapters, comprising the first 265 pages of the book, are invaluable to the novice. The student of Russian affairs, however, will be strongly tempted to jump at once to part four, entitled "Today and Tomorrow." Here the author devotes a chapter to "The Chances of Success," and, although he comes to no definite conclusion, the pros and cons are set forth in a balanced account so that the forward looking reader may make his own guess.

In "The Challenge of Russia" Sherwood Eddy has made a heroic effort to be unbiased. A considerable group will think that because he criticises the soviets unsparingly in some regards he has succeeded. This reviewer cannot share this opinion. The achievements of the soviets as he sets them forth are too rosy.

"The Challenge of Russia" presents the soviet union as seen through the eyes of an American Socialist. The author's former high standing in the Y. M. C. A. will insure a wide reading to the chapter entitled "Religion in Russia." In addition the sections entitled "The Challenge of Communism" and "The Outlook for the Future" state vigorously a point of view which, if not entirely acceptable, cannot be ignored.

"The Red Trade Menace" is much better than its name. H. R. Knickerbocker, European correspondent of the New York Evening Post, entered Russia last summer, and visited most of the construction sites. The result is this book, containing first hand accounts of the actual progress of the plan both in agriculture and industry. The volume is a valuable one, because it brings the reader much nearer to the Russian "front" than any amount of figures.

"These Russians" portrays seventeen Russian types as seen by an American student who has recently spent several years studying at one of the Moscow universities. The author, who apparently is entirely at home in the Russian language, has shown the effect of the revolution on all classes and conditions of men and women. The work is both rapid and entertaining reading, and should have considerable popularity at a time when most works on Russia are decidedly heavy and overburdened with figures.

Following five books on present day Russia, "Under Three Tsars" seems exactly what it is—a voice from the grave. The author was once first lady in waiting to the czarina. Her life, which she records in this volume, would once have been of considerable interest. Now the court intrigues seem of little importance. A rather halting style, possibly the fault of the translator, adds little to the enjoyment of the memoirs.

Modern Italian Novels Are Described in New Book

"The Modern Italian Novel," by Domenico Vittorini, Ph. D. [University of Pennsylvania Press], is an excellent book on the subject by a member of the University of Pennsylvania department of Romance languages and literature.

It begins with Manzoni's "The Betrothed" and outlines what the author feels are three stages of literary development in Italy since 1827—the historical, the naturalistic, and the reflective.

BOOK PUBLISHING FIGURES FOR 1930 SHOW LESS TITLES

The annual statistics in the publishing business for 1930 were recently given out. There were 203 less books published last year than the year before, but with a grand total of 8,134 new books for 1930 that isn't any astounding decrease in production. Fiction headed the list.

There were 1,348 new titles in fiction and 776 in religion. Juveniles followed very closely with 771.

In biography there were 699, in poetry and drama 596, in sociology and economics 472, in general literature 431, in history 386, in science 376, in geography and travel 314 titles. There were 294 technical titles, 253 philosophical, 234 educational, and 232 in medicine and hygiene. The fine arts group had 211 titles to its credit. Other classifications fell below 200 in the number of new titles.

Last year was the most prolific year in the history of British publishing, according to the records; 9,207 new titles were published, 980 more than the previous year. Of them, 1,705 were fiction, 929 juvenile, 793 religion, 666 sociology, 638 biography, 544 history, 525 science, 495 poetry and drama, 457 description and travel, 454 technology.

The department of commerce has released the new biennial statistics for the printing and publishing industries for 1929. They tell you that that year there were 211,353,673 copies of books published. Of those, 75,125,067 were textbooks for school use, 36,885,167 were juveniles, and 30,345,662 were fiction.

There are 217 American publishers of whom one, the Macmillan company, published 663 titles, one, Doubleday-Doran, 312 titles, and four, the Oxford University press, E. P. Dutton & Co., Harpers, and the Houghton-Mifflin company, between 200 and 300. There were 13 publishers with 100 or more new titles on their lists last year.

"Mrs. Fischer's War," by Henrietta Leslie. [Houghton Mifflin.]

"Mrs. Fischer's War" comes to America with a rare indorsement from John Galsworthy to the effect that the subject is treated "with an intimacy, a moving sincerity of feeling and a comprehension that are wholly remarkable."

HENRIETTA LESLIE

It is the story of an English woman married to a German—who long before chose England for his homeland. Their son was born in England and like his mother is as English as the inevitable greens for dinner. The husband and wife are intensely happy, an island of love in the sea of life, an island to which the son seems almost a visitor at times, so complete is their spiritual intimacy.

They are traveling in Germany, tramping ecstatically, when war is declared between Germany and England (without their knowledge). On the train on which they were rushing home—as English citizens—something happens and the husband realizes that he cannot desert his native country. He is arrested and taken away while his wife sleeps. It is not until the war is over that she sees him again. She hears only twice from him, once a long, passionate letter explaining why he had to do what he did and expressing a forlorn hope that she can forgive him, and the second time when her son—a boy who lies about his age to get into the British army—sees his father a terrible casualty.

She loses her son because she cannot hate his father. The boy cannot understand her madness in believing in his father, whom he hates just so much more because he has so adored him all of his life. She becomes a suspect, of course; her club dismisses her from its roll, her war work is taken from her, she has nothing left except her undying love for her husband and her sickening terror that her husband and her son may meet in battle, each fighting the other.

"Mrs. Fischer's War" is a picture of the war as it affected one woman of—according to statistical standards—little importance. It is much more poignant for the facts than for the way that the author has set them down. As a record of the anguish of war it is very touching. As an example of the art of fiction it is a good, workmanlike piece of work but not vibrant with genius. F. B.

Britain Adds Hart's Book to Texts at Sandhurst

If there are any doubts in the minds of readers as to the incomparable significance of "The Real War of 1914-1918," by Capt. H. B. Liddell Hart [though how there could be we don't see], they will be thoroughly dispelled by the news that it has been incorporated in the list of required reading at Sandhurst, the English royal military and staff college. Those who really know say it is the best short critical history of the world war.

Frenchman Hails Dewey Foremost American Genius

When John Dewey, whose latest book, "Individualism, Old and New," is published by Minton Balch, was given the degree of Doctor Honorius Causa of the University of Paris recently the dean said of him, "Prof. Dewey seems to be the most profound, most complete expression of American genius."

BRITONS FAIRLY DOTE OVER CRIME WHEN HELD WITHIN BOOKS

BY FRANK SWINNERTON.

LONDON. — [Special Correspondence.]—It has been reported here that the mystery story of crime is losing its popularity in the United States. There, however, is no sign of waning interest in England. On the contrary, I suppose that there are more mystery books of one kind and another being published now than ever before.

EDEN PHILLPOTTS.

Indeed, another crime club has just been started under the auspices of Messrs. Hutchinsons, the publishers, and its first choice is a new crime story by the veteran Eden Phillpotts. Mr. Phillpotts is himself one of the major mysteries of modern English letters, for he never visits London, but sits at home in Devonshire and writes in rapid succession tragic novels of the countryside, rollicking farces which have well-nigh endless runs in the London and provincial theaters, delicious idyls of the classical world, and detective mystery thrillers. There probably is no harder working author in the world than Mr. Phillpotts, and there certainly is none more versatile. What his thriller is like I do not yet know, as I have not read it, but he has already written more than one book in this style, and I am told the others have been good.

But Mr. Phillpotts is not alone among celebrated authors to turn his attention late to the mystery story, for J. D. Beresford, another author who lives remote from men (although he is very much nearer London than Mr. Phillpotts, since he lives in an old rectory in Hertfordshire), has just written his first mystery, under the title of "An Innocent Criminal." In this book, as one would expect from Mr. Beresford, all the incidents arise quite naturally, and the actors are all good and interesting people—not at all sensational or violent characters. The result is interesting and original. But if I can judge from recent experiments, the mystery book is taking a turn in the direction of what may be called normality. As an example, take the new book—by a well known writer in other fields who calls himself for the occasion "Francis Iles"—entitled "Malice Aforethought." Here the reader knows from the first page who committed the murder, and why he committed it. He follows the whole process. And still the book is exciting and baffling to the end. I have not been admitted to the secret of "Francis Iles'" identity, but as the book is a success it will no doubt be revealed in due course.

AUSTRALIA BANK REFUSES MONEY TO GOVERNMENT

Currency Bill Defeated; May Call New Election.

CANBERRA, Australia, April 17.—(AP)—Australia faced a double crisis today, the result of which may be the dissolution of both houses of the legislature and a general election.

The first shock to the Labor government was the announcement in the house of representatives that the commonwealth bank had refused further to finance the government.

About the same time the senate, by a vote of 21 to 6, rejected the fiduciary currency bill, which provided for the issuance of $30,000,000 in currency, a substantial part of which was to go to the relief of wheat growers and unemployed.

Prime Minister Scullin announced that the bill would be sent back to the senate immediately and that if it failed of passage a second time a dissolution of the parliament would be sought, although there is no way of obtaining it sooner than three months. Mr. Scullin scored the opposition, declaring that the members had shown "no compassion for the farmers or the unemployed."

The announcement that the commonwealth bank would advance no more funds to the Labor government was made to the house of representatives by the commonwealth treasurer, E. G. Theodore. He said the bank was unable to extend further financial assistance because the government already had an overdraft of $125,000,000 in Australia and of $125,625,000 advanced through London.

Three Pilots Jailed for Running Liquor by Plane

Detroit, Mich., April 17.—(AP)—Russell A. Hosier, airplane pilot, was sentenced to two years in the federal penitentiary at Leavenworth, Kansas, and fined $2,500 today after conviction in federal court on a charge of airplane rum running. Judge Edward J. Moinet also sentenced two other pilots. Peter Kelly, who recovered the same sentence as Hosier, and William Holton, sentenced to 18 months in prison and fined $1,500.

Quality and the Future

An excerpt from the Daily News Record, a publication devoted to the interests of retailers and manufacturers.

"Manufacturers and retailers of expensive goods realize that they are facing a come-back of violent character when they impose on a patron. The merchant who is making a price drive, running down quality and still trying to sell without loss of profit, realizes that he is cashing in on the impaired memories of a topsy-turvy period.

"The present imbroglio will do one of two things. In its final stages it will swing the market around to quality or crush consumer interest in apparel."

—Milton.

HYPOCRISY.

Two gems of thought appear in the dry comment on Gov. Emmerson's veto of the prohibition repeal his party was pledged to carry through. One, as might be expected, is from Senator Borah, whose state, Idaho, is the only one known to have tried nullification of the Volstead act, certain towns and counties having endeavored to license saloons and collect taxes from them. The other is from the headquarters of the W. C. T. U. in Evanston. It also is an expected bit of crystal logic.

Mr. Emmerson, says Senator Borah, is to be congratulated for "courageously announcing a constitutional principle indispensable to the preservation of our dual system of government." A leonine statesman, Mr. Borah. At the shake of his tawny locks the constitutional principles take heart and the unprincipled enemies of the republic flee to the rocks. O, yeah? Measurably, dear sire, measurably. Our dual system of government has as one indestructible principle the doctrine of franchise rights. It is bright with the blood of martyrs. Soldier and sage have given their lives to it and nowhere in fuller measure than in this land. Our dual system in one instrument, the federal constitution, provides that no state shall abridge the privileges or immunities of citizens and that the right to vote shall not be denied. The usage of states well known to Mr. Borah, the lion of the constitution, does abridge the privileges and immunities of citizens and does deny the right to vote. Mr. Borah is a most influential member of the body charged with the enforcement of the fourteenth and fifteenth amendments and there is no record of a peep out of him in support of them.

That omnium gatherum, the Congressional Record, could be searched in vain for one expression of sentiment from the Idaho senator to indicate he knew that southern representation in congress was based upon a most practical disregard of the constitution of the United States. Patience with this ball of fire must be long suffering and endure much. It must listen to his service of the eighteenth amendment and worship of the Volstead act—the muezzin in the minaret whose holy law is one law. Much patience is required by this hypocrisy.

The ladies of the W. C. T. U. with G. H. Q. in Evanston also ask the indulgence of a patient understanding. They are citizens of a state, which denies the franchise rights and does so at their insistence and with their approval. Their statement in the present instance read: "The governor's middle name is Lincoln. He justified it in one tremendous sentence that will shine through history, 'I am not for nullification.'" The ladies are ecstatic. The sentiment is superb.

What do the ladies and their associated drys understand by the word nullification? Could it be refusal to obey a command of the state constitution? Could it be the denial of representative rights by such refusal? Could the persistent, defiant and unashamed betrayal of oath and disrespect for solemn duty be nullification? Could it be nullification to erase one basic provision of the constitution and thus take from the majority of the people of the state the full rights guaranteed them under their form of government?

If the legislature of Illinois were fairly elected under the constitution of the state and organized to the exercise of free political rights, the prohibition repeal would be passed over Emmerson's veto tomorrow. The majority in the state then would have its full representation and it would have its will enacted in legislation. The ladies of the W. C. T. U. rejoice in the destruction of representative government in Illinois, in the repudiation of fundamental law, and in the turpitude of a pretentious morality. Their case is desperate and it requires a singular disease of the conscience to glorify procedure which is the disgrace of the persons responsible for it.

Prohibition in this state rests upon stolen seats in the Illinois legislature, upon disfranchisement, upon votes which have no sanction in law, upon denial of rights, betrayal of trust, false swearing and contempt for ordered government.

Nullification is a word which would make a prohibitionist in this state sweat with shame if such an emotion could be experienced in hypocritical morality.

ILLINOIS CONGRESSIONAL REPRESENTATION.

A part restoration of political rights to the metropolitan area is contained in the committee proposal to make new congressional districts which will give Cook, Lake, Will, and Du Page counties fourteen of the twenty-seven Illinois seats in the national house of representatives. Cook and Lake counties now have ten. The four counties to which fourteen districts would be apportioned have 4,189,000 population. The population of the rest of the state is 3,241,000.

Congressional apportionment has been carried along with the failure to correct the misrepresentation in the state legislature. The assembly has refused this session again to yield to the argument and demand for equitable representation in state legislation, but it shows more willingness to remedy the congressional inequities. Naturally the metropolitan area will welcome any reestablishment of its rights which it can obtain. It is deprived of congressmen which it should have, and without redistricting it continues to suffer from maladjustment of the city districts. There are inequities resulting from the spread of population. These inequalities cannot be corrected until the legislature makes new districts. It goes without saying that they should be.

ROAD FATALITIES INCREASE.

The automobile death rate in Chicago for the first two months of 1931 increased 28 per cent over the corresponding period of 1930.

The increase is staggering, but it cannot seem unexplainable to any one who observes driving conditions in this community. Ordinary day by day observation is enough. The number of motorists, men and women, who drive through stop signals, the larger number who try to beat the lights and who show lack of consideration of the convenience, the rights, and even the safety of others, is so large as to account fully for our death and lesser accident record.

The strain on the traffic police is incessant and more than they ought to be called upon to bear. Conditions are more than they can adequately cope with. A certain amount of responsibility for these conditions they must share, but the major responsibility is upon the motorists themselves. Most motorists are of mature age, and even the minority who drive recklessly or inconsiderately are old enough to know better, to realize that a momentary advantage gained by breaking the rules, by taking advantage of a break, is paid for in the long run by themselves as well as by others. Careful driving, obedience to general regulations set up for the common good, is a contribution to their own safety and comfort which they cannot afford to shirk. It is a question of common sense, of individual self-interest, as well as one of the decent conduct to be expected from normal, responsible members of a civilized community.

The fundamental correction must come from a better morale and a better use of intelligence in the driving public. But there is also need for a stricter and more consistent enforcement of regulations by the police. And finally there is need for superhighways.

Until we have established roads designed so as to eliminate dangerous crossings, separate traffic, and provide for maximum use of thoroughfares, we shall have an accident record higher than ought or need to be. There can be, of course, no foolproof highway. But by raising and broadening radial trunk roads and policing them competently we can greatly reduce the rate, and especially we can protect children and to a greater extent motorists who are now the victims of other people's recklessness.

The peak season of 1931 is now approaching. The traffic on our roads is rapidly increasing with the coming of warm weather. New drivers are multiplying, and the year already has begun with an ominous increase of fatalities. Every motorist should resolve to be more careful and to do what he or she can to bring about safer and better conditions on our highways. At the same time every effort by the authorities should be made to hasten the modernization of our roads and to improve the regulation of traffic.

STREET CARS ON THE DRIVE.

The street car company and the Lincoln park board have failed to come to an agreement on the removal of the tracks along the Lake Shore drive. Litigation which may continue for years is predicted. The park board says the permit to lay tracks was only temporary and the tracks must go to make way for the new outer drive. The car company, with tears streaming from its corporate eyes, insists on the right to serve any of its customers who want to go to the Navy pier. No other route than the one now taken will be considered. And there the matter seems destined to rest until a commission and two or three courts have reviewed the issues.

No one questions the right of the car riders to get to the lake and the pier if they want to; but it is absurd to pretend that the only way this can be accomplished is by maintaining car tracks on the lake front. As long as the car company operates with its present equipment of noisy and unsightly cars and more unsightly trolley poles and wires, it must expect to encounter opposition when it proposes, as in this instance, to occupy the city's show places.

With street cars approaching the lake shore at both Chicago avenue and Grand avenue it cannot be maintained with any show of reason that the lake shore is inaccessible to the car riders. The attitude of the company in this matter is nicely calculated to arouse the ill will of every Chicagoan who takes pride in the appearance of the city, whether he rides in street cars or a limousine. In insisting that the company get off the drive, the park board has the support of the people of Chicago.

[New York Sun.]

The issue of a new quarter dollar in 1932 will commemorate not only the bicentenary of George Washington's birth, but the failure of the 25 cent piece of 1916 to stand up under the strain of business. This coin was an artist's dream. The flying eagle side wore well enough, but the date or Liberty side was not cast with due regard to friction. So we find quarters only ten years old with the date worn off, Liberty's face and figure ground to flatness and the lady's star crested shield with no more character than a tin plate. It may be comforting to the designers to say that the edges were built high enough to permit the piling of three quarters and, theoretically, to protect the face from wear, but the facts are self-evident. A coin from which the date disappears in ten years is a poor one; how can the owner match for cigars?

The new quarter will appropriately bear a profile bust of Washington. There were many similar coins in the period between 1782, when the "Georgius Triumpho" cent appeared, and 1792, when congress established the mint and took the business of coinage out of the hands of Tom, Dick and Harry. Washington put a stop to all efforts to ornament official coins with his likeness. For one thing, he was modest; for another, he must have shuddered at some of the busts of him on the privately issued coins that made him look a cross between Julius Cæsar and Baron Steuben. In all the years of the republic its mints have put but one man's head on a coin—the Lincoln cent.

TEMPER TANTRUMS AT ALL AGES.

ELIZABETH SULLIVAN writes: "Often children grow into maturity with sensitive emotional states that react to even the slightest frustration with these same temper tantrums. Mother may have a tantrum when father brings home guests to dinner unexpectedly. Father may have one when mother is not giving him all the attention he wishes."

We talk a great deal about temper tantrums in children older than one year, but we lose sight of the fact that they are but a small part of the picture. Rage, resulting from restraint, is either an inherited trait—an instinct—or pretty near to being one. When we hold the legs of a newborn babe so that he cannot kick, or pin his arms so that he cannot throw them around, he resents the interference and cries with rage. That is the base picture of the series. The others use the same color scheme or follow the same harmony. The college girl is restrained from doing something that she wants to do. She throws a fit of crying or crying mixed with laughing. Hers takes the form of what is called major hysteria. There are multiple variations of the hysteria theme, just as hymns can be "ragged."

The man who develops a blind rage paints another picture from the same basic pattern. It is a far cry from a newborn babe crying when his arms are pinned to the man who kills with a gun because he is swept by rage, but the difference is in details. The principle is the same.

I am not sure we are handling temper tantrums in older children more wisely than by the old method. At the present time we do not often see a parent, overcome by rage, beating up his child to cure him of temper tantrums. There is a tendency to resume whipping, both in the school and in the home, but not to resume the old time bullfights between mad adults and mad children.

It is generally agreed that major hysteria is on the decline, and many think it will disappear as epidemic hysteria has. So we are making headway.

We do need to have more people know about the relation of frustration and restraint to hyperemotionalism at both ends of the line. We need to know about it as a quality of infancy. We need to know how to curb the excess of reaction and limit the harm it does. Even more do we need to know how this same thread seen in infancy runs all through childhood, adolescence, and then spreads all out over adult life—running here into one picture and there into another, causing pleasure in rare instances and pain in many.

"NERVOUS HEART."

Mrs. A. S. W. writes:

1. What causes the heart to palpitate after meals and on very slight exertion and to jump suddenly and seem to turn over? I am 43 and have leakage of the heart, secondary anemia, and am very nervous.
2. Would my age have anything to do with my heart?
3. Would dieting help any?

REPLY.

1. Among the possible causes are organic heart disease, goiter, change of life, nervousness, excessive use of tobacco. Since you have a heart leakage the first of these is the probable cause.
2. It might.
3. Have your physician decide what is the cause of your "nervous heart" and advise you what to do based on what he finds. This applies to dieting, exercise, and personal hygiene even more than to the use of medicine.

CHOCOLATE.

1. Is it harmful to eat chocolate three times a day?
2. Does it cause constipation?
3. Does boiled milk cause constipation?

REPLY.

1. Not if you eat other foods in proper proportion. I assume you haven't diabetes, obesity, nor oxaluria, and that you do not eat in excessive quantities.
2. No.
3. No.

WAGE ASSIGNMENTS.

Chicago, April 14.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I made a wage assignment in Chicago, Ill., about eighteen months ago. I later moved to Kansas City and filed a petition in bankruptcy in Missouri, listing the creditor in Illinois. I was adjudicated a bankrupt and notice was sent to the creditors, whereupon the concern in Chicago garnisheed my wages, causing me to lose my position. What is the Illinois law in regard to bankruptcy and wage assignments, and does it take precedence over the federal statute? W. A. M.

It is held that a wage assignment is like a mortgage, so that the creditor's right to look to the security is not barred by bankruptcy, although his right to collect personally from the debtor is barred.

CITIZENSHIP LOST.

Chicago, April 12.—[Friend of the People.]—1. The writer was born and raised in Wisconsin and in 1920 married a Greek who has not yet become a citizen by naturalization, although he has declared his intention. Am I a citizen, with full franchise rights? 2. In the event I am not a citizen, please advise the procedure necessary to regain citizenship. C. H.

1. No, she lost her citizenship by her marriage to an alien before Sept. 22, 1922.
2. The applicant should obtain a form A-2214 from the naturalization service, room 776 postoffice building, fill it out and return it to this office with photographs as described on the back of the form. She will then be notified when she may appear with her witnesses and be naturalized.

FRED J. SCHLOTFELDT,

HUSBAND PAYS.

Chicago, April 13.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. In a suit for divorce where the woman is suing the man on grounds of drinking and physical cruelty, can the man be held responsible for all charges connected with the case, even though it is not contested? 2. If the man contests the suit for divorce, who pays the lawyers, the loser of the case, or does the man pay both of them? G. P.

1. It is possible.
2. Ordinarily the husband is ordered to pay both attorneys.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

O ALFONSO, O MON ROI!

"Cries of 'Vive le roi!' thundered from thousands of throats as Alfonso appeared."—The Trib.

"Vive le roi!" scream the French frantically as they mass by the tens of thousands in front of the hotel of Alfonso Bourbon on the Rue de Rivoli in Paris. "Vive le roi!" and Alfonso steps out on the balcony and bows his heartfelt gratitude while the great tears stream down his pallid cheeks. Yeah! Vive le roi! And then some. But look carefully across the street, Alfonso. There is the Garden of the Tuileries. A great palace once stood there, Alfonso. And against that palace on Aug. 10, 1792, raged the French mobs. They weren't shouting "Vive le roi!" then, Alfonso. They were shouting, "A bas le Boulanger, la Boulangère, et le petit Mitron." Which means in English, Alfonso, "Down with the baker and the baker's wife and the baker's little boy." "Baker" was a humorous word they applied to Louis XVI. because one of the royal princesses had said when she was told the mob was crying for bread, "Well, why don't they eat cake, then?" "Vive le roi!" again, Alfonso, and look to your left down the Rue Royale; not many blocks away is the spot where stood the Café de Foy, where one night a young man named Camille Desmoulins jumped on the table and screamed, "The hour has come, the hour has come, Frenchmen! To arms! To arms!"

"Vive le roi!" Alfonso. And on the 14th of July, 1789, a great crowd of Frenchmen (as many as are now cheering you, Alfonso) stormed the Bastille and tore it down so thoroughly that all you will find left today is a white line on the pavement where it stood.

"Vive le roi!" Alfonso. And look across at where once stood the Palace of the Tuileries and try to envisage again the day when the mob poured against it and killed the king's Swiss guard and drove the royal family out on the run.

"Vive le roi!" Certainly, Alfonso. And now look to your right, and if you lean out over the balcony on which you are standing you will see the Place de la Concorde. And on the Place de la Concorde, Alfonso, on the twenty-first day of January, 1793, on a high platform stood Louis XVI. of France. And he was made to kneel down and put his head into a quaint machine known as the guillotine and Executioner Samson pulled a cord and down came a great knife, neatly removing the king's head from his shoulders. And a short time later the Queen Marie Antoinette knelt in the same place and the guillotine did for her, too.

"Vive le roi!" But take that cheering with a grain of salt, Alfonso. Maybe they're kidding you.

APRIL SONG.

The oak is turning rose;
In sandy dunes green willows dream

Let April walk her flowery ways,
Her wild-plum's fragrant snow
Makes sweet her wooded paths in vain
Since you no April know.

Against waves' blue delight
And subtle fires of April dawns
My heart holds drifted white.

Since you have quit the April
Heart shall no springtime know
Till love has fared to find you
Farther than Death can go.

MARY BALLARD.

YESTERDAY MORNING we received the gleeful tidings that old Roger W. Babson had told the folk down at Washington that "business had turned the corner and was now on the upgrade." And just a few hours later the doggoned old evening papers said: "Selling Wave Smashes N. Y. Stock Prices; Driven to New Low Level; U. S. Steel Hits Lowest Since 1927; Auburn Slumps 39 Points; Leading Issues Decline." Hey, Roger W. Babson! Whaddaya mean, "Turned the corner"? It looks, instead, as though it had turned around and run down an alley.

ARNOLD BENNETT left a fortune of five hundred thousand dollars in his will. After all, some of us "writin' fellers" make almost as much money as people who buy and sell and do the other things that take real brains.

DO YOU REMEMBER ever hearing the question, "Who stole Charley Ross?" And you wondered and wondered who in heck was Charley Ross. But that happened back in the days when kidnaping was such a rare thing that the Charley Ross case convulsed the nation for many years. Now when you miss a friend you are quite prepared to hear some one say, "Oh, he was kidnaped three days ago. Didn't you know?"

AND WHILE we were pondering on kidnaping, holdups, robbery, bootlegging, racketeering, and general lawlessness that prevails today we recalled that it is growing near to the first of May, and, like everybody else, we've got to move.

OH, THAT WE COULD move to New Guinea, far off in the eastern sea, and there spend our declining years on a nipa rug in the shade of the sheltering palm. There may be cannibals there. But, after taking a glance at the newspapers at what is happening in this country of ours, a bunch of hungry cannibals lugging their own soup kettle would only give us a hearty laugh.

FOR WE WOULD much rather be eaten by cannibals (dying happy with the thought that we are tough and indigestible) than to have a rough man poke a pistol against our tummy and say, "Hey, party, stick up your hands!" We can't bear to be addressed as "party." R. H. L.

APRIL 18, 1915.

CHICAGO.—A definite offer from the union officials to arbitrate the carpenters' strike was refused by officers of the Carpenter Contractors' association. The offer came from John A. Metz, president of the Carpenters' District council. Gov. Dunne came to the city and announced that arrangements have been made for the state board of arbitration to confer with officers of the contractors' organization tomorrow.

LONDON.—In the first naval battle of the war between Turkish and British warcraft, 100 of the crew of the British transport Manitou were reported to have been drowned and a Turkish torpedo boat destroyed. The battle was fought off the island of Chios, near the Gulf of Smyrna, about 100 miles south of the entrance to the Dardanelles.

PARIS.—In one of the most brilliant charges of the entire war French chasseurs have captured the summit of Schnepfenrieth Kopf, overlooking the Rhine valley in Alsace. The victory was won after a week of desperate fighting. In a series of short dashes the French carried one after another of rows of German trenches on the mountain, which is 3,750 feet high. The capture of the position, French military experts say, is one of the most important victories won by the Vosges armies in their advance toward the Rhine.

APRIL 18, 1901.

CHICAGO.—Joseph E. Bidwill, a lieutenant of William Lorimer, was appointed chief grain inspector of Chicago by Gov. Yates. He was a member of the railroad and warehouse commission during the Tanner administration. He succeeds E. J. Nobel. Bidwill's appointment aroused a storm of protest and indignation among leaders of the grain trade here. In the city council Bidwill had a long record in support of vicious measures, including almost every one that has been generally condemned.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill.—A. W. Nohe of Chicago gave a pink tea in his apartments at the Leland at which he entertained all members of the Illinois assembly. The revelry began at 7:30 o'clock and at midnight was in full cry. Refreshments were served. A barrel and a half of beer, a half pint of sherry bought especially for a dyspeptic brother, and a case of corn whisky that would burn a hole in a copper kettle had been used up by midnight.

PEKING.—The palace of the empress, occupied by Count von Waldersee and his staff, burned to the ground. With the exception of the military papers, everything was destroyed. Maj. Gen. Schwartzkopf, chief of staff to Count von Waldersee, is missing and is believed to have lost his life. Count von Waldersee escaped through a window with great difficulty.

CHICAGO.—Col. Henry W. Farrar, formerly business manager of the Chicago Journal, died suddenly at his home, 1245 Wabash avenue. During the war he again and again distinguished himself with conspicuous gallantry under fire. Since he came to Chicago in 1869 he had made a host of friends in newspaper and social circles. Another death yesterday was that of Dr. Mills O. Heydock, a prominent north side physician, who died of heart disease at his home, 73 Rush street. He was about 52 years old.

CHICAGO.—Easter Sunday was generally observed throughout Chicago, and the pulpits, altars, and chancels of the city and suburban churches were smothered in banks of flowers for the occasion. Notable sermons were preached by the Rev. Dr. Thomas, Prof. Swing, Bishop Cheney at Christ church, the Rev. Clinton Locke at Grace Episcopal church, the Rev. Frederick Courtney at St. James' Episcopal church, Prof. Fisk at the First Presbyterian church, and the Rev. R. A. Holland at Trinity Episcopal church. Archbishop Feehan officiated at the services at Holy Name cathedral, assisted by the Rev. Father John J. McMullin.

ST. PETERSBURG.—No male Russians between the ages of 10 and 18 hereafter will be allowed to go abroad without permission of the government.

A REPUBLICAN NO LONGER.

Davenport, Ia., April 15.—Gov. Emmerson has dug his political grave and that of the Republican party in Illinois so far as the 1932 election is concerned. Just watch and wait and see what happens. We do not have to go to the monarchies of Europe to find public servants who thwart the will of the majority. We have many of that kind in the United States today, and have had for the last ten years. The writer was brought up a Republican, but since 1912 has been an Independent, and in 1928 voted the straight Democratic ticket and will continue voting with the Democrats until such time as the G. O. P. shall have been restored to sanity and honesty. G. CARLTON.

HOW LONG, O LORD!

Chicago, April 15.—Until such a time as the Republican party divorces its alliances with the Anti-Saloon league the Republican voters have little to hope for in the way of representation in the various governing bodies. How long, O Lord, must our Grand Old Party be expected to carry this millstone around its neck? HENRY FIELDING JONES.

THE POLITICAL ASH BARREL.

Chicago, April 16.—Mr. Emmerson's name will doubtless be enrolled in the hall of fame for his wonderful accomplishments, but fearing that he may feel out of place in such distinguished company, I will suggest that Andy Volstead's and Scotty McBride's names be added to his and relegated, not to the hall of fame, but to the ash barrel.

ARMIN SEITZ.

HOW ABOUT THE STOLEN VOTES!

Chicago, April 14.—Whichever way Gov. Emmerson had acted with regard to the repealer he would have been subjected to criticism, and I, for one, think that he has given very sound reasons for his judgment. He might have strengthened his position by adding that the repealer passed the senate by a vote of 26 to 24. In view of such a slight victory I think he was justified in vetoing the repealer, since the senate vote certainly did not show, by the overwhelming weight of opinion, that the people represented were in favor of repeal of the dry law. GERALD K. GARARD.

AN OUTRAGEOUS GENUFLECTION.

Traverse City, Mich., April 13.—As I was born in Illinois and likewise were all of my people, I feel that I have a right to protest with vigor against the outrageous genuflection of Gov. Emmerson to the forces of bigotry and hypocrisy—the Anti-Saloon league trinity—when the governor put his veto on the dry law repeal.

Gov. Emmerson's action is on a par with Mr. Hoover's message to congress transmitting the $500,000 Wickersham report. The attitude of both of these public servant office holders is to hell with majorities when it refers to prohibition. GEORGE E. WAUGH.

A SEPARATE STATE.

Forest Park, Ill., April 15.—Our omnipotent and omniscient governor has decided that the people were sleep walking when they voted for the repeal of the state prohibition act; particularly the ignorant rabble from Chicago and thereabouts.

As for Chicago, isn't it about time to give up the idea of looking for a square deal in Springfield? Why not start definitely on the organization of the Chicago metropolitan district with a view towards the formation of a separate state? PAUL H. BRAUER.

COURAGEOUS.

Waverly, Ia., April 15.—It's just too bad you worked so hard to get rid of Len Small. He would have signed the repealer so quick that the paper would have smoked, for it would have assured him of another term. Gov. Emmerson's veto was the most courageous act in American statesmanship of the last generation. F. W. OSNICUV.

THE REASONING EXTENDED.

Chicago, April 15.—Since Gov. Emmerson claims that the majority of people who voted for the repeal of the prohibition law did not know what they were doing then the majority of the people who elected him the governor of Illinois did not know what they were doing. Therefore he has no right to be the governor of Illinois. A. P. K.

TREE CROPS.

New York, April 8.—I wish to express my very great gratitude for the editorial in your paper on March 29 in which you have taken up the song that I wrote in the book "Tree Crops" and sung it again in an effective way.

I am pleased because it shows that the book is doing exactly what I wanted it to do. I knew it would never sell many copies and therefore cost me a lot of money I would never get back except in the satisfaction of seeing such things as your editorial.

You may be interested to know that a farmer in North Carolina saw the chapter on the honey locust, went out in his yard and picked up the beans that were falling from his own tree, took them out to his Sears, Roebuck hammer machine grinder, mixed them with soy beans and also with a little wheat bran, corn and cob meal, to absorb the gum, and made a kind of cow feed that he is bragging about.

By the way, the honey locust tree grows well in the north, and the American Genetic association in Washington is going to offer some prizes for the best bean yielding tree.

J. RUSSELL SMITH.
Professor of Economic Geography, Columbia University.

A DISPARITY IN PRICES.

Mission, Tex., April 14.—Carrots and beets are selling for five and ten cents a bushel in the Valley. I understand they are bringing more than that per bunch in Chicago.

Cabbage is selling for $4 and $5 per ton, and is culled close at that. I understand cabbage is bringing four and five cents a pound in Chicago. Transportation cost to Chicago for a ton of cabbage is about $35.

I understand there are a lot of hungry people throughout the north. Why should they be hungry when we are producing in this section alone around 25,000 cars of produce for which our growers are getting less than actual production costs?

I think something is radically wrong among the jobbers and brokers or wholesalers. There is too great a difference between what the consumer is paying and what the producer is getting. I think a good live reporter might work a good story—a big piece of copy—out of this situation, for there is a bad spot in the system, and it is time we found it.

Glad to hear that you got rid of Big Bill. RALPH G. BEAT.

MAHATMA GANDHI SHUNS RECEPTION TO NEW VICEROY

BY WILLIAM SHIRER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BOMBAY, April 17.—While British warships and shore batteries roared the viceregal salute of 31 guns, Lord Willingdon, the new viceroy, alighted on the shores of India today to take up his duties as almost absolute ruler of more than one-fifth of the world's population.

It is a different India today than the India he knew when he was wartime governor of Bombay. Only the viceregal reception was the same—very formal, with only the elite of the realm present. Mahatma Gandhi, leader of India's fight for independence, was not there, nor were any of the other leaders of the all-India national congress. Nor were the common people allowed within several blocks of "the gateway to India," where the new viceroy and his party landed.

No Cheers from People.

Small crowds lined the streets of the European quarter, through which Lord and Lady Willingdon were driven in a four in hand coach to the government house. They did not yell or cheer. Indians seldom do, except when their holy man, Gandhi, comes along.

If the Indians expected any new declaration of policy on the part of the British government by the new viceroy they were disappointed.

Replying to an address of welcome, Lord Willingdon merely reiterated that India's ultimate position will be "absolutely on equal partnership with the other dominions under the crown," and he hoped that the country would "move forward rapidly towards her goal."

Given Lukewarm Welcome.

India's leading Nationalist newspaper, the Bombay Chronicle, offered a lukewarm welcome to the new viceroy. "If he make up his mind that India belongs to the Indians he has a chance of success," it said. The paper warns, however, of "times past, when the masses were cajoled with mere promises and good will from the king-emperor."

The Chronicle warns that "Lord Willingdon had a weakness of giving himself over to the nearest influence of hobnobbing companionship. As governor of Bombay Lord and Lady Willingdon won the reputation for social success, but that has no bearing on the sentiment of the people, now claiming status as citizens of a free country. If Lord Willingdon does not take the lesson as he finds it from the experience of Lord Irwin, then he may expect startling discoveries about the disposition of national strength, despite flag waving enthusiasm for the British empire, to which he has, in a Boy Scout vein, been extremely addicted."

Navy Fails to Salute Rum Chasers' Chief; It's Fixed

Washington, D. C., April 17.—[Special.]—From now on Rear Admiral Frederick C. Billard, commanding officer of the coast guard "dry navy," will be given the regular seventeen gun salute accorded rear admirals of the navy. Secretary of the Treasury Mellon called the attention of the navy department a few days ago to the fact that under existing navy regulations the coast guard rear admiral was not given a salute when he had occasion to inspect his rum chasing craft in navy yards. The new regulation resulted.

Dr. Geihard was examining Liebrenz when the bandit called him to the waiting room. As the doctor appeared the visitor threatened him with a gun and took $80 from him. He then robbed the patient of $125.

HUNDREDS HONOR TUNNEL HEROES AT LAST RITES

Bury Three of Four Firemen Victims.

Hundreds of city firemen and throngs of other persons paid tribute yesterday to three of Chicago's four firemen heroes who died in the sanitary district tunnel fire Monday night and early Tuesday. Funeral services were held for them in three churches.

Services for William H. Karstens of engine company 23 will be held at 2 p. m. today at his home at 2313 South Kolin avenue. Burial will be in Waldheim cemetery.

As services were held for the other three firemen who lost their lives in an attempt to rescue laborers trapped in the tunnel, the city hall was draped in mourning and flags flew at half staff over all municipal buildings. The firemen were Capt. James E. O'Neill of truck company 14 and Firemen William J. Coyne, engine company 23, and Edward Pratt, squad 8.

Carries Captain's Helmet.

A battalion of firemen standing at attention formed a lane from the home of Capt. O'Neill at 1019 West Garfield boulevard, to the curb, as Fireman John Todd, bearing the captain's black helmet, preceded the casket. The casket was carried by Capt. Joseph Mulholland, Capt. Daniel Lyons, Firemen Frank Piper, Joe Court, John Fitzgerald, and Lawrence O'Shea.

Before the casket was placed in the hearse the worn black helmet, which had seen service at fires during Capt. O'Neill's eighteen years in the fire department, was laid on the casket. Preceding it was the squad 1 wagon heaped with flowers from firemen of the 11th and 21st battalions. An honor guard from the latter escorted the casket from the home to Visitation church, where a second honor guard from the 11th battalion stood at attention at the entrance.

Fire Officials Attend.

Acting Fire Commissioner Edward A. Maloney, former Fire Commissioner Albert W. Goodrich, Fire Marshal Michael Corrigan, and about 1,000 firemen and friends were in the church. Burial was in Holy Sepulchre cemetery.

Fireman Coyne was buried in Mount Carmel cemetery following services from his home, 1504 West Cullerton street, to St. Pius' church. Services for Fireman Pratt were from the home of his foster mother, Mrs. Mary Brennan, 6920 South Laflin street, to St. Brendan's church. Burial was in Mount Olivet cemetery.

At each of the three services a text from the New Testament served as part of the sermon: "Greater love hath no man than this, that he lay down his life for his friends."

A ranking officer of the department was present at each service—Deputy Fire Marshal Daniel J. Carmody and Drill Master Edward F. McGurn.

Burglars Ransack Home; Seize $5,500 in Jewelry

Burglars yesterday ransacked the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jordan Johnson, 7520 Phillips avenue, and escaped with jewelry valued at $5,500. The jewels were the property of a daughter, Miss Myrtle Johnson, secretary at the Jacob Kulp company, brokers at 33 South La Salle street. The burglary occurred between 2 and 5 p. m. yesterday afternoon in the absence of the family.

Opens Next Week

One hundred and thirty-seven delegates to the annual "Continental congress" of the Daughters of the American Revolution, to be held in Washington, D. C., next week, left Chicago yesterday on the Capitol Limited. In addition to Illinois delegates there were a number from states further west. The head of the Illinois group is Mrs. Louis I. Hutchins of Monmouth, state vice regent, who will preside at the Illinois dinner in the capital Tuesday evening.

TRIBUNE BOATS IN LAKE HURON ON RACE TO PORT

The two TRIBUNE vessels, the Thorold and the New York News, were somewhere in Lake Huron last night pushing on toward Mackinac and Chicago in their race through the great lakes with the spring's first paper cargo.

The News, a steam vessel, continued to maintain the lead it gained Thursday during the race across Lake Erie. The last word heard from Capt. George Ferguson of the motor driven Thorold reached Chicago yesterday morning. At that time he reported that the News was out of sight as his ship passed Lake Huron lightship, about five miles from the mouth of the St. Clair river.

The two ships are expected in Chicago tomorrow evening. They are due to reach Mackinac some time this morning.

CORNELL YOUTH DIES OF WOUND; CAUSE UNKNOWN

Ithaca, N. Y., April 17.—(AP)—Jere G. Baldwin, 20, of Paris, France, a Cornell university sophomore, died here tonight from a bullet wound in the head several hours after he was found unconscious on the floor of his room at the Sigma Phi Sigma fraternity house.

Police had not satisfied themselves whether the shooting was accidental or whether the youth had committed suicide. The bullet was from a 22 caliber rifle.

Baldwin's fraternity brothers said he had laughed and joked with them shortly before he was found wounded. He was a brilliant student in the college of mechanical engineering. Baldwin's father is a vice president of the General Electric company in Paris.

Washington, D. C., April 17.—(AP)—A third child claimed Senator Brookhart as grandfather today, whereas only two could yesterday, when the Iowan returned from Panama. The parents of the new granddaughter are Mr. and Mrs. Smith W. Brookhart Jr. of this city.

Survey Shows Planters Prefer Animals.

BY PAUL POTTER.

That horse power is more in demand than motor power as the farmers of the corn belt are completing their spring seedbed and planting operations was indicated in a survey over two typical areas in Illinois finished yesterday.

Horse drawn implements were found to outnumber those drawn by tractors by a ratio of three to one in central Illinois, and by five to one in the northeast section of the state. The advent of more efficient hitches, the cheapness of home grown feeds and the value of live stock in maintaining soil fertility were given as the reasons for the increase in use of horses this year by farmers interviewed.

More Horses Than Tractors.

In a 75 mile drive from Urbana to Kankakee yesterday, there were observed 36 two and three horse teams, 31 teams of four or five horses abreast, 7 six abreast teams, and 12 units with horse teams in tandem, a total o f86 horse drawn implements. There were 17 tractors in fields along this route, and an additional ten teams being used in fertilizing the soil.

On the previous two days Dean H. W. Mumford of the college of agriculture of the University of Illinois recorded a ratio of three to one horse and tractor drawn field units on farms along the highway between Urbana and Springfield.

There were seen on the trip to Springfield 99 teams of four or more horses, and 22 two or three horse teams. This total of 121 horse drawn units compared with 40 tractors recorded. The return trip over the same route the next day showed 89 horse drawn units and 26 tractors.

Study Methods of Economy.

"Of course, we are only interested in finding the most economical and efficient methods," declared Dean Mumford, "and I presume that the ratio of tractors to horse teams owned by Illinois farmers is higher than we found."

Several farmers indicated that they had been able to complete their spring planting weeks earlier than usual due to excellent fall and winter weather, and it was understood that some tractor owners had completed their fieldwork before this survey was made.

And it isn't any wonder. We purchased our initial requirements of this Expensive New Upper Leather from Bartley's own London Leather Merchant. We used Crepe Rubber Soles of identical weight, grade and thickness, and the lasts are the same in both measurements and appearance.

Edward Moore Writes of Music and the Musicians

THE SIXTH JOURNEY

BY ALICE GRANT ROSMAN

SYNOPSIS.

John Falconer, a successful architect, returning home to England from Cape Town, meets Hilary Revel, author of travel books, on shipboard. During the journey home their acquaintance grows into a friendship neither wishes to end.

John tells Hilary of his daughter Judith, born of a café singer while he was a soldier. His wife, John says, had magnanimously adopted the child. Hilary suspects such magnanimity. John's sister Gertrude became Judith's legal guardian when his wife died.

Judith leads a lonely life in her aunt's home. Her cousin Prue is her only friend. When Aunt Gertrude hears of her brother's engagement she sends Judith to a farm to stay with her former nurse, Tracy. John is uneasy about Judith not being in school. He thinks it unfair to drag Hilary continually into the question of the child and Hilary feels that he has had enough interference in caring for Judith. John writes Gertrude for the truth. His wrath explodes when she replies that she cannot, as a decent citizen, send a waif of dubious parentage among other children.

Judith is badly treated by Tracy. She makes friends with Clive Harpenden, to whose home she delivers cream for the old servant. Judy, having received no mail, writes secretly to Prue.

Prue meets Hilary for tea and tries to enlist her aid for Judith. Hilary's vow not to interfere makes her rebuff Prue. They run into Tim de Morreville, whom Hilary and John met on the boat home. Tim drives Prue home and makes an engagement to drive her next day to visit Judith. Prue sees and talks to Judy and is indignant at Tracy's treatment of the little girl.

Falconer leaves town on a business trip. Hilary, thinking over the problem of Judith, decides to write to John about her and her letter is a great relief to him.

Tracy becomes unbearably abusive to Judy, and Judy, crushed by the woman's cruel accusations, runs away to Prue. When John returns and hears of Judith's disappearance he rushes immediately to his sister's home. She tells him Tracy's address and he leaves at once for the farm. Tracy threatens to blackmail him. He calls on Mr. Harpenden, the magistrate of the district. Clive tells him he thinks Judy may have taken the bus to London.

Hilary calls Tim and asks him to drive her to see Prue, where she finds Judy.

INSTALLMENT XLVIII.

THE LAST JOURNEY.

"My real father? Truly? My very own?"

Judy had begun to tremble; she could not help it.

"Really and truly and honestly your very own. It is a long and interesting story, and soon, when we are all three together, you shall hear it from end to end, so you need never worry about it again. But I can tell you a little to go on with. When you were born your father was away at the war, and queer things happen in times of war; letters go astray and people even lose each other. That is what happened to your father and mother. So you were six before your father even knew he had a daughter. Mr. Harris, who had looked after you both, found him and told him when your mother died. By that time he was married to your Aunt Sylvia. You were fond of her, I suppose, weren't you?"

It was a surprising question. No one had ever asked Judy that before. She had not even asked it of herself, but all her child's barriers of embarrassment and reserve were down before Hilary, and she considered the question earnestly.

"She was pretty, and I liked looking at her," she said at last, and then in a rush, "but I loved her house."

Hilary laughed, and suddenly knew herself to be completely happy, for Sylvia had been demolished in a phrase.

"Ah, but wait till you see the one we're going to have, you and your father and I. Greenwood—like the name?"

"Yes, I do."

"So do I, but we had only got to Aunt Sylvia, and I am forgetting the story. When she heard she suddenly had a step-daughter of six, I imagine she said to herself, 'This is very awkward. People will think it so odd that I've never mentioned her, and I can't always be telling this long story!' So she said to your father, 'I'd love to have Judy and bring her up, but I'd rather call her my adopted niece and be done with it. Then I sha'n't have to have to answer a lot of silly questions.'"

"She's found John!"

Hilary paused and smiled at Judith.

"Personally, I think she was rather an idiot, but your father loved her and spoiled her, and the great thing was to have you in your own home at last, so he gave in. After she died, of course, he hadn't a home or a wife to care for you, and he had to be away on business, so he sent you to Aunt Gertrude until he could see what else to do; but he didn't know people were saying and doing silly things to make you unhappy, sweetheart. And ever since he came back a few weeks ago and knew he was going to be married and have a home again, he has been longing for the moment when he could come and say, 'Now, then, Judy Falconer, no more of this uncle nonsense, call me father, you rascal, and it seems to me it's high time you went to school.'"

"Has he really? O, I am glad!"

"Poor old father. Do you know where he is at this moment? Running about the country, nearly mad with anxiety, looking for his lost daughter. He will be so thankful to know you're found and safe."

"He won't send me back there?" said Judy, clinging to her in a new fright.

"And won't I ever have to be sent away again?" Judith had come to her last doubt.

"What, and leave your poor parents! Not if I know it," said Hilary indignantly. "Only to school and home again, and off for holidays with your family, like all the other girls."

"O!" A sigh of satisfaction and this time a blazing smile showed them that all was well. "Thanks awfully," said Judy.

She was going home with Hilary to see her step-grandparents and stay with them, but it was all right, they were expecting her, and tomorrow Prue would be able to go back to her classes. First, however, Prue and Tim would take her to have her cropped head put right, and then to lunch, while Hilary waited for a telephone message from Uncle John—no, he was her father.

Judy felt a thrill, yet slightly shy about it.

After lunch Tim and Prue and Jemima were to deliver her at Hilary's house, for there was much to do. They had to go and see Greenwood, Hilary and she, and perhaps Jemima would take them. Judith was to see her own room, which was sunny and had white walls, and help to choose the furniture for it herself. Hilary wanted her advice about a number of things at Greenwood, she said, and then there were clothes to buy. All her old frocks at the farm could just stay there, as far as Hilary cared, and it would be a lark to buy everything new, and choose them yourself, didn't Judy think?

Happy as on none of the others, she set out on her sixth journey.

Hilary drove home to await a message from John, longing for the moment when she might set his mind at rest.

If only his ring would come. She could not move from the neighborhood of the telephone in her excitement, and it was a relief to hear a key in the door downstairs, and know that some of the family would soon be in. She felt she must tell her news or burst.

"Mother! We've found her—John's daughter, and I am bringing her home. Is it all right?" she cried, meeting Mrs. Ferguson coming up the stairs.

"Of course, darling. Poor little thing! Your father told me. I must have that extra bed put up in your room."

Mrs. Ferguson hurried away to give orders about the expected guest, and Hilary looked after her with a smile.

There seemed to be no one else at home, but suddenly the bell pealed, and a few moments later Hilary heard a familiar step on the stairs.

"John!"

Flying to meet him, she cried between tears and laughter:

"Poor old man, it's quite all right. Judy was with Prue, who has been a perfect brick, and O, my dearest, I've committed you right and left and told the little soul everything, or very nearly. We must have her, you and I, please, altogether. We mustn't let her go abroad to school."

"God bless you," said Falconer in a broken voice.

By Mae Tinée.

Good morning!

I say: "Why, it's pretty good. I think you'll agree that Mary Pickford plays Kiki well, considering that she is neither the type nor the temperament one associates with the character made reasonably famous on the stage by the tempestuous Lenore Ulrich."

Miss Pickford's impersonation of the gamin French chorine who loved the handsome theater manager and determined to have him, let come what might, is an intelligent and workmanlike job. She plays the part with all her might and main, and if her abandonment to the impulses that assail her is not as convincing as was that of the stage star, it is well enough feigned to get by. Little Mary is at her best in the comedy sequences. She's really extremely funny in an ensemble number which she dances with her sister chorines and the star of the show—Paulette Valle, who is none other than the manager's fiery and ungovernable wife, who is always leaving him.

The story has a sort of ancient flavor and the picture drags in places. But the supporting cast is a splendid one and Mr. Taylor knows how to direct. You'll like Reginald Denny a lot and get some laughs from facial expressions and bits of "business" contributed by players in minor rôles. Margaret Livingston plays Paulette well. Nice to see her again.

(Remember "Kiki" as a "silent" with Norma Talmadge and Ronald Colman?)

Now WHAT do you think had happened to Johnny? Will it help you to guess if I tell you that this picture deals with the beer racket?

Yes, Johnny is put on the "spot"! So are a lot of other boys who thought they were wiser than the next one. Even the "Big Fellow" has to swing on over into the Sweet Bye and Bye to discover that bullets are no respecters of persons.

Gary Cooper and Sylvia Sidney make an appealing pair. As "The Kid" and Nan, they're young, smart, and really not bad at all. Just victims of circumstance that has shoved them into a racketeering eddy. Here they swirl till "The Kid's" brains prove their salvation.

"City Streets" is an exciting number of its kind and mighty well produced. You'll be crazy for Paul Lukas as the "Big Fellow." Direction, lines, and sound are all you'd want. As for the photography——

When I get very rich I am going to buy me Mr. Lee Garmes to take pictures for me!

STOCK'S VERSION OF WAGNER'S 'TRISTAN' TRIUMPH TO SINGER

BY EDWARD MOORE.

It was a good thing to have Florence Austral as the last soloist of the symphony season at Orchestra hall yesterday afternoon, for she sent her audience away with Wagnerian memories that ought to last well over the summer.

The second half of the program consisted of forty minutes of continuous "Tristan and Isolde" in Dr. Stock's concert version. He and the orchestra played the prelude, Miss Austral sang Isolde's Narrative of the first act, then she left the stage and the orchestra went on with the introduction to the third act, Tristan's Vision, and the arrival of the ships. Finally she returned and the program took on a glorious close with the Love Death, the finale of the opera.

One may say if in a fault finding mood, which I am not after listening to her, that Miss Austral has not quite all the polished finish that comes from the routine of much operatic singing.

On the other hand, she has an amazing voice, a marvelous music making instrument in her throat that stands supreme among the dramatic sopranos of the present generation.

In the excerpt from Beethoven's "Fidelio," "Abscheulicher," and the aria, "Komm' Hoffnung," a none too grateful, none too persuasive piece at the best, routine might have carried her farther, but when that radiant voice directed itself upon Wagner, one could well spare a lot of routine for the sake of the sheer beauty of her singing.

It has been noted before that when Dr. Stock turns his attention to a concert arrangement of Wagner his hearers get more and better Wagner than they are likely to find in any opera company in the world. In such a case scenery, lights, costumes become as unnecessary as though they had never been. This performance was one of the big thrills of the season.

It was a good concert throughout, and wisely arranged with the climax at the end. The program began with Rimsky-Korsakoff's Overture, "The Russian Easter," a pleasant observance, and went on with another pleasant piece, Prokofieff's "Classical" Symphony, written in deliberate imitation of Mozart and getting much of the Mozartean mood if not altogether the Mozartean idiom. At the end of the first half came a novelty, the "Overture to a Tragedy," by Adolf Brune of Chicago. It is a closely written piece of fine scholarship, making no concessions to popular taste, but perhaps more concerned with purely musical than tragic content.

The second spring concert of the North Side Continuation Schools Glee club will take place at the Eighth Street theater tomorrow afternoon. Five schools will contribute the singers, who will appear in a program of part songs for boys', girls', and mixed choruses, under the direction of Mary G. Lusson, concluding with the cantata "In Woodland," by Richard Kountz. Mary Healy, soprano guest artist, will sing, "Ah, fors e lui," from Verdi's opera "La Traviata."

Varied Faiths Give Views About Industry

Atlanta, Ga., April 17.—(AP)—Dr. John H. Finley, associate editor of the New York Times and former commissioner of education for New York, today was elected president of the Religious Education association. He succeeds William Adams Brown of the Union Theological seminary, New York.

The churches' attitude on capitalism and industry was presented to the association today by representatives of three faiths—Catholic, Jewish, and Protestant.

Dr. Charles A. Ellwood, professor of sociology at Duke university, spoke for the Protestant faith, criticizing speculation and exploitation. He said it was time for "Protestantism to develop a new philosophy to deal with these evils which are partly due to its own mistakes."

Rabbi Edward L. Israel, Baltimore, chairman of the commission on social justice of the Central Conference of Rabbis, told the association the Jewish ethics "abominate charity and desire justice."

"The practice of present day industry to exploit workers, throw them out of employment and then attempt to give them charity instead of wages is contrary to every Jewish ethical sense," he said.

The Rev. R. A. McGowan, Washington, said the Catholic church favored a middle ground between the communistic submersion of the individual in society and the complete individualism that is the basis of capitalism.

LOWER EAST SIDE URGED AS LOCATION OF MODEL DWELLINGS

New York, April 17.—[Special.]—Recommendations for zoning restrictions, street improvements, and new parks to rehabilitate the lower east side as a modern residential district were contained in a report issued today by a regional plan association.

The territory bounded by 14th street on the north, 4th avenue and the Bowery on the west, and Manhattan bridge and the East river on the south and east is strategicaly situated for development as "white collars" home community and might speedily assume that status if necesary public improvements were provided to make the surroundings more attractive, the report stated.

"The logical and obvious future for this district is that of a residence area," the regional plan said. "The inflow of helpless immigrants has stopped. The heavy industries and warehousing which once were centered in the district and which employed local labor have been moving away from this segment of the island and from Manhattan. The needle trades have largely abandoned the neighborhood. It is not to be expected that the so-called Wall street district will expand eastward to an extent that would affect the situation. The trade trend is uptown and toward new outlying centers. The area soon will be exceptionally well supplied with rapid transit," the report continued. "It is conveniently located as a home for workers in the financial and business districts."

Hospital Patients' Work Shown as One Remedy

The Illinois Society of Occupational Therapists gave an exhibition of handicraft performed by invalids yesterday at the Presbyterian hospital. The meeting was directed by Miss Winnifred Brainard, director of the department at that hospital. Displays included those from Michael Reese, St. Luke's, Evanston, Edward Hines, Billings Memorial, and Cook county hospitals as well as the Chicago State Hospital for the Insane. Included were samples of weaving, carpentry, leather tooling, modeling, etc.

A forge was diplayed, constructed from pieces of fire brick, a gas torch and the motor from a vacuum cleaner. Hammers, tongs and an anvil completed the equipment.

Sees Hebrew University as Link of East to West

Hope that Jewish students at the Hebrew university at Jerusalem will become influential in abolishing the ill feeling between the east and the west was expressed last night by Dr. Judah L. Magnes, chancellor of that university. Dr. Magnes addressed a meeting in the Harper Memorial library at the University of Chicago. The Hebrew university, founded six years ago, he said, has the largest library in the near east, 250,000 volumes, and extensive zoological and botanical collections.

Annapolis, Md., April 17.—(AP)—The boys in blue who some day may command American warships paraded today for a pair of royal honeymooners, Prince and Princess Takamatsu of Japan.

The prince, in the uniform of a senior lieutenant of the Japanese navy, and his bride bowed and smiled their way about the academy for more than four hours, while cannon homed the presidential salute of twenty-one guns, and the midshipmen and officers wore their dressiest attire for the visitors.

The prince, brother of the emperor of Japan, made history for the navy by obtaining amnesty for all midshipmen punishable during the day.

Capt. C. P. Snyder, acting superintendent, granted the prince's request for the amnesty order, a custom followed in the far east by royalty upon visiting military establishments. It was the first time such a request had been made in the American navy, academy officials said. Similar action followed the prince's visit at West Point.

The royal pair arrived here in a motorcade of six automobiles from Washington, inspected most of the better known buildings during the middies' study hour, reviewed the parade, and then had luncheon at the home of Capt. Snyder, where the seven ranking officers of the academy also were guests.

The motorcade, bearing also representatives of the Japanese embassy and of the American state department, was met at the city limits by Mayor Walter E. Quenstedt and a squad of Annapolis police.

As the visitors stepped from their car within the academy grounds to be greeted by Capt. Snyder a band struck up the strains of the Japanese national anthem and the prince snapped to attention before shaking hands.

Wearing his uniform for the first time since he arrived in this country, the prince was patently uncomfortable. The princess, however, seemed to enjoy herself to the fullest. She smiled broadly when an American officer, bowing, tripped on his own sword.

Japanese Prince Follows Old Custom of Royalty.

The act of the Japanese prince during his visits to the United States Military and Naval academies follows an old European as well as oriental custom. Royal visits of state, weddings, celebrations of military or naval victories have been marked by the extension of royal clemency, or amnesty toward offenders. It was a custom inherent in feudal usage, exercised by nobles below royal rank. Its American relic appears in the pardons granted by Presidents or governors at or just before Christmas.

Rulers of Siam Due to Arrive Here Tuesday

VANCOUVER, B. C., April 17.—(AP)—The king and queen of Siam arrived here today from the orient aboard the liner Empress of Japan. They spent a quiet day aboard ship preparatory to leaving on a midnight train for the east, where the monarch's eyes will be treated.

Others of the royal party, notably Prince Svasti, father of the queen, toured around the city, but their majesties spent the day in seclusion in their suite.

Arrangements were completed to run the royal train alongside the dock at 5 p. m. The train was scheduled to leave for the east at 11:59 p. m., entering the United States at Portal, N. D., at 10:56 p. m., Sunday. American officials will replace the Canadian escort at that point.

Stops have been arranged for 5:20 p. m. Monday at Minneapolis and at 8:20 a. m. Tuesday at Chicago. The train is due in Westchester, N. Y., about noon Wednesday.

The king's illness, it was officially announced, made it impossible for him personally to take part in the receptions by Canadian officials. The attack of bronchitis which the monarch suffered en route from Japan had been conquered and no concern was felt for his health.

During his stay on the east coast of the United States the Siamese royalty will be given a state reception by President Hoover at the White House, but will participate in no other functions.

After an operation for removal of a cataract from his left eye, the prime purpose of the king's visit to America, the royal party will be guests on a Long Island estate. The return trip to Siam some weeks after recuperation from the operation will be via eastern and central Canada to the Pacific coast. The king is expected to sail again for Siam from Vancouver in August.

Chesterton Sorry to Sail, U. S. So Full of Arguments

New York, April 17.—(AP)—Gilbert K. Chesterton, noted essayist, loves an argument, and for that reason is sorry he is sailing home to England. Boarding the liner Majestic today, he said:

"In your country there is agitation about this question and that issue everywhere; good, eager, hot argument. It is very stimulating. In England it has become dull. There is too much apathy. No one seems to care about arguing any more."

EMBARRASSING MOMENTS

Answering the Big Boss.

Our office boy is as solicitous, in a humorous way, as a man of eighty.

Last week the biggest official from our New York office visited us. At 5 o'clock we were all clamoring in front of the mirror, eager to start for home.

I, without looking around, while jamming my hat down and rearranging my hair, said jokingly but emphatically: "Well, grandpa! If you don't like it you know what you can do!"

A strange quiet in the room made me turn to face the gray haired official from New York who, thank heaven, had a sense of humor. That did not, however, lessen my embarrassment.

Fellow Wonders Why Girls with Salaries Won't Ever Go 'Dutch'

BY DORIS BLAKE.

Here's putting the high cost of entertainment straight to the girls:

"In this present day and age," queries Lefty, "what with the girls making their own money, don't you think it is unfair for the fellow to have to foot all the bills for dances, shows and such?

"A few years ago, before girls started to work and when they were making no money, it was a different matter. At present the average girl makes a fair salary. With the custom still in vogue of the fellow paying, it gives the girl a chance to have a good time and save money, whereas the fellow, if he and his girl are to have any kind of a good time, can't save anything.

"Now, Miss Blake, putting all chivalry aside and talking common sense, what is your opinion? Couldn't we get some of the girls' views on the subject? Understand, a lot of fellows would like nothing better than to play the big bountiful rôle, but how the old Nick can we do it and have a chance to get ahead on the money end?"

The upkeep of courtship surely is becoming one of the problems of our youth. If one, like "Lefty," has the courage to state his case baldly, more power to him. It may not convert girls into a coöperative spending frame of mind, but, at least, it might help awaken them to the true state of a boy friend's financial status at the end of a courting season. Some few girls try to play the fifty-fifty spending rôle. But, unless it's a case of rare understanding between the two, with saving for marriage in mind, the experiment too frequently leaves the fifty-fifty minded female in doubt as to its advisability.

The fifty-fifty amusement spending basis, it seems, can be adopted with success only when men show a nobler appreciation for the thoughtful girl. To date, romantic history reports greater devotional returns for the young lady who asks financial sacrifice. The girls, I'm sure, would fall readily enough into the plan—but not so long as men show a romantic preference for those who are unwilling to subscribe more than their charming company to the evening.

You asked for common sense, "Lefty." Now, you've got to apply it yourselves—you and your fellow victims—before your proposal will be adopted by the girls. You've got to learn to reweigh girl valuation and pattern your courtship conduct on that revaluation. So long as male ego keeps on expanding under the flattering inference of being perfectly able to pay—the girls are going to keep on contributing to that ego expansion.

Internal Cleansing Best Way to Ward Off Spring Fever

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

I see that in the interests of unemployment relief women are being urged to get at their spring house cleaning and have all the little extra odd jobs done that can possibly be afforded. That reminds me that, while the unemployment relief measure meets with my whole-hearted support, I have a little campaign to inaugurate, too, in connection with spring and cleaning. Only mine isn't a subject for as frank and open conversation as applies to the house cleaning.

Every spring we keep on hearing that age old cry about spring fever, in spite of the fact that our best medical authorities have told us repeatedly that there isn't any such thing, that what folk call spring fever hasn't a nice name, at all, if the truth be told about it. And their remedy is to clean up, inside.

Now, it is because of what this waste retention in the system and not spring fever does to the looks that it comes under this department's notice. And it does a-plenty. Instead of being able to let out a lusty whoop for the sheer joy of living when everything else in nature is on a spring jamboree, thousands of women feel worse at this time than they do any other part of the year. And look it, too. Which is hard on the new spring bonnet and the gay new frock. If the condition is not rectified early in the spring months it may carry a dulled example of what you really might be on into the summer months.

Anyway, I just want to remind you that your beauty hope at this trying time of the year does not lie with cosmetics—until you've attended the inside cleaning up. Go after that job—if you have to take mineral oil or some good, reliable nonhabit forming measure to put your system in good working order.

Put yourself on a liquid diet for a few days. Eat large amounts of fruits and fresh vegetables. Don't be content until you can feel by the exuberance of your spirit and a clear bright eye that you must be a thoroughly cleansed individual.

The enema habit is all right and is recommended as a cleanser until such time as you have got yourself into better working order. The chief plea today is that if you won't clean up inside for health's sake, do it for the sake of your looks.

BEAUTY ANSWERS

T. V.: WALKING WITH TOES turned out instead of pointed straight ahead puts a strain upon the arches. Flat feet may develop in time if the toe position is not corrected. Very high heels that throw the weight forward on the anterior portion of the foot will cause arch depression. Exercises for strengthening arches may be had for a stamped, addressed envelope.

COLLETTE DUNNE, 300 W. Adams St., Chicago.—"One day a new customer came to our office with a job of 12,000 letters to be addressed, folded and mailed. Our small force was very busy but he agreed to allow us five days to do the work. Late in the afternoon he phoned and said they must be in the mail within two days. If we could not promise this he would take the work elsewhere. We held a brief consultation and decided to take a chance and run an ad for home addressers in the next morning's Tribune. When we got to the office next morning there were girls—girls—girls—tall and short, thin and fat—all ready for work. We soon disposed of the 12,000 envelopes. Our customer was pleased with the service and developed into a very profitable account, which would have been lost had it not been for that Tribune ad."

H. C. G., Eureka, Ill.—"Last September I answered a Tribune real estate ad, and after some exchange of letters was able to make a most profitable trade for my farm. I received $43 an acre more than was possible to receive in a trade or deal of any other nature in my own neighborhood. The farm for which I traded was also located in the county where I most desired to have it. There are 120 acres in each farm, but the improvements are much better on the farm I traded for. I am certainly well pleased with the result of that ad. I wish to say that this ad was the only way that I had of getting in touch with this party."

ROBERT E. HINDENACH, 7935 Prairie Ave., Chicago.—"Last fall after starting school at the Armour Institute, I found I could use money better than my Ford car. On Nov. 1, 1930, I inserted an ad in the Chicago Tribune and at 7:45 a. m. had a telephone call asking information in regard to the car. I demonstrated the car at 9:30 a. m. and received check, all cash, for the car. This save me quite a bank account and has helped me all year through school."

D. T. B., 308 W. Washington St., Chicago.—"About this time a year ago, I found myself with a smattering of scholastic architectural training and no place in which to invest it. With the depression in full force, building at a standstill and architects engaging in the comic pastime of sitting about ogling at one another, it certainly became depressing for me. It seems that at one time or another I camped in the office of every architect in Chicago with the most barren results—they wouldn't even take my name. Then I turned my attention to the 'Professions and Trades' columns of the Tribune. For two months I perused that column daily and Sunday, but no results. Then I happened to glance at the 'Miscellaneous Wants.' I could scarcely credit the sight—'Architect wants young man in office. Address Tribune number so and so.' I lost no time in answering that ad; received a call next day; interview the next and presto! I emerged the successful applicant. I am still with that architect. The position was made to order and I have cut out and kept that miscellaneous ad for sentimental reasons."

* * *

F. S., 6012 South Campbell Ave., Chicago.—"About eleven years ago, as an officer of a Chicago bank, I accepted a position with a bank in another city. In due time I was convinced that my new position was not to my liking and it behooved me to watch for an opportunity to return to Chicago. Relying solely on the want ads of the Chicago Daily Tribune, I found one day an advertisement seeking the services of a man to fill a corresponding position with a Chicago bank. The necessary arrangements were made for a personal interview which culminated in a permanent connection. Business conditions at that time were as much in the doldrums as they are at present. The salary then was a good four figure amount and has since increased to five figure proportions. This experience is but another endorsement of the merit and value that exists in the want ad columns of the Chicago Tribune."

Smith College Alumnae Plan Party on May 2

BY THALIA

IMAGINE what fun the Smith college grads will have at the 50th anniversary party of the alumnae on May 2! The Chicago Smith club is arranging a luncheon at the Lake Shore Athletic, one of a series to be given simultaneously all over the country, and they've planned a program that will be bound to evoke fond memories of student days, junior proms, and all the pleasant carefree things of college life.

Members of the Evanston Smith college club are ransacking their attic trunks to find old gym suits, prom dresses, and graduation gowns and whatnot for a pageant of Smith days, and the program includes also "Greetings from President Neilson," a talk about "Our Fiftieth Birthday" by Mrs. George W. Blossom Jr., president of the Chicago club; "Reminiscences in Music," by Mrs. Thatcher Hoyt; a sketch entitled "The Chicago Smith Club," by Miss Ellen Holt; "Travesties and Fancies," by Miss Marion Cohn; "Glimpses of Smith in China," a talk about the college in Peking that Smith girls support, by Mrs. Joseph L. Valentine; "An Old-fashioned Step Sing," by Miss Gertrude Smith; "Smith—Past and Present," by Mrs. Wilfred A. Rowell, and a movie, "As Seen on the Screen," with interpolations by Mrs. Roger S. Vail.

Woman's Athletic Club to Hold Tank Contest.

The Woman's Athletic club is to hold a swimming contest next Saturday morning at 11 o'clock. There will be 9 classes of swimming and diving exhibitions, including free style swimming, a lighted candle race, a balloon race, and fancy diving. The degrees of proficiency in the swimmers are indicated by the class designations, "flounders," "tadpoles," "minnows," and "sharks."

The honorary judges are Mrs. Raymond C. Dudley, Mrs. Harry B. Clow, and Mrs. Stanley Zaring, and Miss Betty Whitney and Mrs. Robert White Jr. are to do the actual judging.

There is to be an Eli Bates sale at the Cyrus Hall McCormick residence at 22 East Burton place next Tuesday from 10 to 6 o'clock. Many of the women interested in the work will give luncheon parties, then take their guests to the sale. Among these are Mrs. Samuel Insull Jr., Mrs. Edward Crossett, Mrs. E. L. Ryerson Jr., Mrs. James Forgan Jr., Mrs. T. Philip Swift, Mrs. Charles Daniel Frey, and Mrs. William McCormick Blair. Articles on sale include some of the linens stitched by the Italian women in the Eli Bates settlement, and many things that Mrs. Blair purchased last fall when she was in Paris.

Some Travelers Going as Others Return from Trips.

The wheres and whyfors: Mr. and Mrs. Harold C. Smith sailed last night on the Majestic for Europe, to be gone until June 1. The Lake Forest residence has been opened for the summer and Miss Elizabeth is out there now. . . . Mr. Jack Peabody and Stuvesant Jr. went to New York to meet Mrs. Peabody when she landed from the Majestic Tuesday, and they all came home day before yesterday. . . . Consul General Berthold Singer and Mrs. Singer of the Belden-Stratford have gone to Washington to attend the wedding today of Miss Alice Szechenyi, daughter of the Hungarian minister and Countess Szechenyi, to Count Beda Hadik. . . . Princess Elizabeth Cantacuzene is one of the bridesmaids in the wedding. . . . Mrs. James H. Channon's daughter, Mrs. Scott H. Nesbit [Ruth Channon], and her daughter, Betty Lee, are making her a ten days' visit at her apartment at 222 East Chestnut street.

Miss Ellen Holt writes to tell us of a unique and timely benefit. It's to be a garden fair on the grounds of the Lake Forest estate of the Lawrence Scudders next Friday and Saturday from 10 until 6 o'clock, rain or shine. The articles on sale will include garden implements, garden and terrace furniture, smocks and flower receptacles to entice the north shore horticulturists.

In addition there will be an exhibition of drawings by John Storrs, and Mrs. Storrs will do some numerology reading for the guests. Proceeds will benefit the Druce Lake Camp for Girls, where about 400 children from settlement neighborhoods are given summer vacations. The camp board workers managing the fair include Mrs. T. E. Wells, president; Mr. and Mrs. George Blossom Jr., Mr. and Mrs. David Dangler, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Milman, Miss Elizabeth Webster, T. E. Wells, and Miss Holt.

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

Washington, D. C., April 17.—[Special.]—The chief justice and Mrs. Charles E. Hughes gave a dinner tonight for President and Mrs. Hoover. It is not customary for the President and wife to dine outside the cabinet circle, but when the late Representative Longworth became speaker of the house and his wife, the former Miss Alice Roosevelt, gave a dinner for President and Mrs. Coolidge, and the speaker's dinner has been ever since on the annal social calendar. A President and his wife have dined now and then with a chief justice, but it has been seldom, therefore this dinner still is an innovation. Among other dinner guests of Chief Justice and Mrs. Hughes were Secretary Mellon and the secretary of the navy and Mrs. Adams.

Princess Elizabeth Cantacuzene, niece of Prince Michael Cantacuzene [he was son-in-law of the late Maj. Gen. and Mrs. Frederick Dent Grant], arrived here today from Chicago to attend the marriage tomorrow of Countess Alice Szechenyi, daughter of the Hungarian minister, to Count Bela Hadik of Hungary. The princess is a member of the wedding party as it is a guest of Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt, grandmother of the bride elect, at the Mayflower.

Princess Cantacuzene has been visiting Mr. and Mrs. Potter Palmer in Chicago. She will return to Chicago after the wedding to continue her visit for the remainder of this month. Then she will sail for Europe.

Mrs. Francis T. A. Junkin was entertained at luncheon today by Mrs. George Oakley Totten, who had among other guests Mrs. Hurley, wife of the secretary of war; Mrs. James Brown Scott of Chicago, Mrs. Isaac T. Mann, and Mme. Offerdahl of Norway.

Dance Benefits Community Work of Near North Side.

Invitations to the dance the Lower North Community council gave last night at the Bendix galleries bade the guests to come at 10 o'clock, but it was well after 11 when the cars began to stream up the lighted circular driveway of the old Potter Palmer mansion. A few of the dutiful committee members were on hand early to see to their respective jobs, among them Mr. and Mrs. James Waller Rogers, the latter in a bright coral colored gown with a fringed skirt, and Miss Frieda Foltz, in navy blue lace with a short train.

During the early part of the evening the orchestra played intermittently in a vain attempt to lure the guests away from the backgammon tables in the drawing room and the bridge tables in the oak paneled library and reception hall. At a little after 11 o'clock Mrs. Rogers, who was in charge of the backgammon games, did a few twirls on the ballroom floor while Mr. Rogers, Mrs. Butler, and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Purcell played backgammon.

Among other early arrivals were Miss Elinor Whiting and her fiancé, Edward Hagey, and Miss Anne Elizabeth Walsh and Thomas North. Mr. and Mrs. Howard Keller and Mr. and Mrs. Theophilus Noel made for the backgammon room immediately.

Others who came in before midnight included Mr. and Mrs. Charles Breasted, Helen Walton, Robert Reid, Jack Stambaugh, Mr. and Mrs. Aldis Browne, Mr. and Mrs. Walter R. Kirk, Lawrence Williams, Russell Tyson, Miss Lucy Martin, who was escorted by Count de Fontnouvelle; Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Zaring, Miss Georgianna Whitcomb, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Rinaker, Mr. and Mrs. Gratiot Washburne, and Mr. and Mrs. Dexter Cummings. Mrs. Jacob Baur's guests included Mrs. R. Townsend McKeever, Mrs. James Hamilton Lewis, Charles Fernald, Chester Brundage, and Fred Van Wolf.

NEW YORK SOCIETY

New York, April 17.—[Special.]—Mrs. Irving Hall Chase has returned from Palm Beach.

Rear Admiral and Mrs. Louis R. De Steiguer, who have been at the Dorset since his retirement last month, gave a dinner at that hotel last evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Tuckerman will sail for London tomorrow on the Cunarder Aurania.

Mrs. Frederick Lothrop Ames has gone to Washington, D. C., for a short stay.

Mrs. Amkasa J. Parker Jr. recently returned from the south.

Magnolia Tree Scheduled to Bloom Tomorrow.

Topical bits: The magnolia tree on the David Owens' place in Lake Forest is scheduled to burst into full bloom tomorrow and people from all parts of the north shore will make pilgrimages to see it. . . . Mrs. Ralph Johnson and Mrs. J. Beidler Camp, on learning from the printer yesterday that the Kenwood Social Service club fashion show program had a page and a half open as it was due to go to press, hustled around town and in an hour and a half sold six ads to fill the gap. . . . The James Scott Kempers of Winnetka, who are at the Ambassador in New York, will leave on Tuesday for several weeks to stay at the Green Briar at White Sulphur; James junior, who is attending school at Lawrenceville, Mass., was to spend this week-end with them. . . . Mr. and Mrs. Louis Leverone, who have been at the Drake this winter, are moving to Highland Park for the summer. . . . Non-exhibiting members may bring one guest only to the tea and opening of the Arts club professional members' show tomorrow afternoon.

Shriners' Kids and Cripples to Have Special Show

A special performance for children of members of Medinah temple, including hundreds of crippled youngsters from the Shrine hospital, will be given at 9 o'clock this morning by the Sells-Floto circus at the Coliseum. In all about 10,000 children are expected to be entertained. Five bus loads of crippled children from the Gompers school were entertained as guests of the management yesterday. The regular performances today will be given at 2:15 and 8 p. m.

Various Means of Coping with Common Problem

"Sidelights on Stubbornness," one of a new series of booklets for parents, will be sent by Mrs. Bevans on receipt of a stamped, self-addressed envelope. This series deals with the various aspects of child behavior directly, not through suggestions for reading.

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

We have kept saying that as far as this column is concerned we do not try to take care of problems of physical care alone, though our booklet service and our baby book do cover these. But there are, after all, so few physical matters that involve only the physical that we can't always draw a line.

One of these problems in which the physical and psychological overlap is in the matter of establishing satisfactory toilet habits in children. Letters come and come on this subject and we find that, roughly, the problems described fall into three groups according to the age of the child.

The first group comprises the babies and near-babies who are learning bladder and bowel control for the first time. The next group contains the still small ones who have established both the habits, but who have, due to illness or some other cause either known or unknown, slipping back into either occasional or continual lapses.

Then there is a third group, children of 5 or 6 years of age, who quite suddenly will start having accidents and keep them up. A recent letter gives a rather good (?) picture of this discouraging sort of development in a little boy.

"He has been doing this on and off for about four months and I am at my wits' end. I have talked to him first, explaining that he would be liable to catch cold if he wet himself these cold days, and explaining the extra work it makes for me—having all the extra washing after I get home from work at night—and trying to make him understand from a sanitary viewpoint, but to no avail.

"Then I tried depriving him of something he wanted if he wet himself, or rewarding him if he did not wet himself—with about equal success. I have tried every method of which I can think even—rather against my better judgment—punishing him by spanking and going to bed supperless—and still he continues to be soaking wet practically every day. In desperation at last I decided that he must have kidney trouble, but after a thorough examination, including urinalysis, the doctor finds nothing of the sort and reports him in splendid physical condition."

Babies or children in the three group will be sent by Mrs. Bevans on ment. Suggestions for this training and especially for the last named group wil lbe sent by Mrs. Bevans on receipts of a stamped,self-addressed envelope.

Lace Jabot Skirt Featured by Chantal

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—The jabot flounce movement is the latest thing in evening silhouettes. Many of Lelong's loveliest evening gowns show skirts slightly draped toward the left side of the back, there to finish in a jabot flounce, which cascades down to form a deep flounced skirt hem.

The new vogue for skirt transparency naturally suggests such jabot flounces in lace, worn over "no slip at all," and thus favoring the knee visibility which means chic in Paris nowadays.

Such a version of the jabot skirt is featured in the Chantal dinner ensemble, sketched today. The frock itself is of black crêpe de chine with simple bodice cut into the deep square décolleté that is the smartest thing in evening necklines.

The crêpe de chine skirt stops short of the knees. It wraps around to the left side and is open to the hip, where an incrusted yoke echoes the line of its hem. It is edged all round by a full jabot flounce of thick, black silk lace, that forms the lower skirt and modestly masks the side slit, as you see by our small figure.

A loose, long sleeved bolero of the black silk lace may be worn while dining. The hip bone is its limit and that is something to remember, for it's apt to be the lower boundary line of the smart summer jacket.

WOMAN'S AND MISS' DRESS.

Russian blouses are most becoming, especially to the rather tall, slender type. The skirt of this dress is simplicity itself to make, there being only two seams, a hem around the bottom, and a narrow hem at the waist through which an elastic is inserted. Silk crêpe, plain or patterned, would be suitable for this model; also light weight wool crêpes.

Pattern No. 2814 comes in sizes 16 and 18 years, and 36, 38, 40, and 42 inches bust measure. Size 36 requires 3½ yards of 39 inch material with 1¼ yards of 27 inch lining.

St. Rita's Catholic church, 63d street and Washtenaw avenue, will begin a week's celebration of the 25th anniversary of that parish tomorrow. This was announced by the Rev. Dr. James F. Green, the pastor. During the Rev. Dr. Green's pastorate all of the present buildings of the parish have been erected.

The celebration of the anniversary will begin at 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon when the Rev. Dr. Green will ride in a duplicate of a street car which he used 25 years ago to get to the location of the parish property.

Food Talk.

We have numerous requests for two or three course menus and many of our correspondents insist on foods that are easily prepared, yet are different and will be so good that guests are sure to enjoy them. In supplying such menus, I like to assume that guests as a whole are reasonable in their likes and dislikes and have enough food experience to know what good wholesome food is. After all, aren't they the only folks we enjoy breaking bread with?

What one chooses to serve one's club or a party of friends depends upon the time of the day and the amount of food the guests have previously eaten on that day.

Here is a menu that should satisfy the needs of the hostess who wishes to serve her club at 4 in the afternoon or at 11 in the evening at this time of the year:

Vegetable Sandwich
Ice Cream Sandwich with Chocolate Sauce
Coffee

CRESS, LETTUCE, AND TOMATO SANDWICH.

Cut whole wheat bread in ¼ inch slices. Spread with creamed sweet butter. Combine equal amounts of finely chopped lettuce and watercress and mix with just enough mayonnaise to bind together. Be sure lettuce and cress are crisp and perfectly dry before you start to chop them. Spread this mixture on the bread. On top of the lettuce and cress place two thin slices of peeled ripe tomato seasoned with salt and pepper. Lay the upper slice on and press sandwich together. Trim the sandwich neatly and cut diagonally to form triangles or straight across to form four small square sandwiches. Place on a plate and garnish with a pickle fan or pickle octopus and an olive, or radish roses.

The dessert is simple but most unusual in flavor. It is made of two thick slices of brick vanilla ice cream. Between these ice cream slices spread a thick purée of apricots. To prepare this purée, stew dried apricots until tender. Sweeten them just a few minutes before removing from the stove, but not too much. Let the fruit cool in the sirup. Drain the fruit thoroughly of all sirup and put fruit through a strainer. The purée should be thick enough to spread. Have this purée very cold before spreading on the ice cream—and do the spreading neatly. The thickness of the layer of apricot purée should be about ¼ as thick as the two layers of ice cream.

At the table pass a very hot chocolate sauce. The tartness of the apricots with the ice cream is delicious and the hot chocolate sauce does something to the apricot and ice cream combination to make this a truly notable dessert.

CHOCOLATE SAUCE.

1 cup sugar.
½ cup white corn sirup.
1 cup thin cream.

Melt the chocolate over hot water. Add the water slowly, stirring until smooth. Add sugar and sirup. Boil to 234° F. [very soft ball when tested in cold water]. Remove from the fire, add the milk and vanilla.

Yield: Fifteen servings.

JUDGE WHO TRIED NAN PATTERSON CASE IS DEAD

New York, April 17.—[Special.]—Former Supreme Court Justice Vernon Mansfield Davis, who presided at a number of the most famous criminal trials of the early part of the century—among them that of Nan Patterson for the slaying of Caesar Young—died today at his home here. He was 76 years old.

The justice, after the second trial, asserted at a private dinner that he believed Miss Patterson was guilty of firing the shot that killed Caesar Young, the outstanding figure in New York's night life of the period. A reporter at the dinner published the remark, and Justice Davis found himself involved in a storm of controversy over the ethics of his statement.

He was associated with the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy railroad and the Chicago and North Western railroad before joining the Westinghouse company.

BROKER OF THEATER TICKETS WHO MADE FORTUNE DIES AT 67

For thirty of his sixty-seven years he was a ticket broker, and during the last part of his life 7,000,000 persons bought tickets at cut rates every year at his agency in the basement of Gray's drug store, at 43d street and Broadway.

Joe Leblanc owned the drug store—he bought it out when the owners objected to the crowds that passed through on their way to his counters; he owned, in fact, the entire block on Broadway from 42d street to 43d street, and all his fortune was built from an idea.

The idea was that the public would buy tickets for shows which weren't hits at low prices, and that it would be more profitable for the owners of these shows to sell their tickets for still lower prices than to have them remain unsold. He persuaded the managers that his theory was sound.

URGE REFORMS IN TREATMENT OF CRIMINALS

Two hundred members of the League for Industrial Democracy in a meeting in the City club last night heard a discussion of crime, its treatment, and its effect on America. Two university criminologists and a former convict gave conclusions that crime is traceable to environment, must be dealt with at childhood, and that present methods of punishment are failures.

The speakers were introduced by Chief Justice John P. McGoorty of the Criminal court, who said that crime is the greatest problem facing America.

Dr. Edwin Sutherland, research professor of criminology at the University of Chicago, said imprisonment had failed in its two prime purposes: deterring others from crime and the prevention of repetition of crime. Dr. Andrew A. Bruce of Northwestern university said: "The problem of crime is the problem of the child, a matter of training."

Jack Black, former convict and a writer on prison conditions, blamed society for the criminal and asserted that brutal police and ignorant guards create the anti-social attitude of prisoners.

Funeral Services Held for J. W. Van Benthusen

Funeral services were held yesterday at the chapel at 2700 East 75th street for James W. Van Benthusen, employment manager of the Universal Atlas Cement company, who died on Thursday. He was active in south side community affairs and was president of the South Shore Land Owners' association. His home was at 7408 South Shore drive.

Charles Sidmore, 35 years old, 29 South Oakley avenue, was killed when thrown from his automobile at 13th and Lincoln streets in a collision with another automobile driven by Joseph Zenisek, 2619 South Trumbull avenue. In the automobile with Sidmore were Mrs. Lillian Costo, 21 years old, 2245 Washington boulevard, and John Bain, 39 years old, 3517 Franklin boulevard, who also received injuries.

BIG TEN SPEAKS MIND ON NORTH CENTRAL TODAY

Presidents, Sport Chiefs to Meet.

Whether the Western conference is to retain jurisdiction over athletic conditions within its membership or surrender this prerogative to the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools will be decided at a meeting of the presidents, athletic directors, and faculty representatives to be held today at the University club.

DR. WALTER DILL SCOTT.

College presidents from all of the Big Ten schools with the exception of Illinois and Indiana will attend the session, which was called by President Walter Dill Scott of Northwestern university. President Harry W. Chase of Illinois and President William Lowe Bryan of Indiana, who were unable to attend because of previous engagements, have designated representatives to serve in their absence.

Today's meeting is the outgrowth of a move taken by the North Central association a year ago to assume full responsibility for all college athletics in the north central area, which covers the entire middle west and includes 30 collegiate conferences.

Issue Comes to Head.

The issue came to a head when Northwestern university refused to permit investigators of the association to complete their inquiry into athletic conditions at the university last month.

At that time, President Scott addressed the annual convention of the North Central association in which he took the stand that Northwestern regarded the new policy of the association as unwise, holding that the western conference was capable of conducting its athletics without the aid of the association.

Because of the stand taken by Northwestern the convention withheld its vote on placing the school on the accredited list of colleges and universities.

At today's meeting Northwestern will seek support of the other conference schools in defense of its action against the North Central. Authorities at Northwestern indicated yesterday that if the majority of the conference approved the policy suggested by the North Central association, then the university would raise no further objections but would cooperate in every regard.

Alumni to Give Banquet.

Faculty representatives, Frederic Woodward, Chicago; A. C. Callen, Illinois; W. J. Moenkhaus, Indiana; C. C. Williams, Iowa; Ralph Aigler, Michigan; James Paige, Minnesota; Walter K. Smart, Northwestern; Thomas French, Ohio State; William Marshall, Purdue; J. F. Fyre, Wisconsin.

Athletic directors, A. A. Stagg, Chicago; George Huff, Illinois; Z. G. Clevenger, Indiana; Edward Lauer, Iowa; Fielding Yost, Michigan; H. O. Crisler, Minnesota; K. L. Wilson, Northwestern; L. W. St. John, Ohio State; M. A. Kellogg, Purdue; George E. Little, Wisconsin, and Maj. John L. Griffith, commissioner of athletics of the Western conference.

Alumni of the Big Ten universities residing in Chicago will give a dinner at the Palmer house tonight in honor of the visiting representatives of the institutions. Accommodation has been provided for 500 in addition to the reservations already received.

In the WAKE of the NEWS

EARLIER CHICAGO.

DEAR WAKE: Back in the days when the G. A. R. boys of 1861-'65 were more numerous than now it was the custom to hold an annual party at some downtown hall. It was a get together party for the veterans, their wives, sons, daughters, and in the earlier days, of course, their sweethearts.

The impressive appearing program was likely to call this get together a "concert and dance," yet it was most informal. On the first part of the program was the appearance of some excellent talent from the members, several good speeches from the Boys in Blue, then the dance with a grand march,, followed by a program of waltzes, schottishes and polkas, ending with a Virginia reel.

Interspersed was group singing of "Tramp, Tramp, Tramp, the Boys Are Marching" and other wartime songs. As a finale came the swell supper prepared by the wives, sweethearts and daughters. O, those home cooked boiled ham sandwiches, tongue sandwiches, potato salad, Boston baked beans, baked apples, old style ginger cake and such coffee! Comrades present were from the Lincoln, Custer, Thomas and Gen. Logan posts. Alas, the G. A. R. is a dwindling host and those old time jolly parties are no more. Kathrine P. Cornell.

Heart Music.

Of the air and graphophone,
But fondly I recall the days
When plain folks made their own.
Back home, of winter evenings,
When friends would congregate
Where the light was soft and rosy
From the fire in the grate,
My fingers, fond and dreamy,
Would caress the organ keys
And I'd have the whole bunch with me
Singing old time melodies,
'Til it seemed the pinks and lilacs
On the quaintly papered wall
Were a-nodding to the rhythm
Of our voices' rise and fall. . . .
And we wove a lyric picture,
Making music from our own hearts

PINCHOT VETOES 15 ROUND BOUTS IN PENNSYLVANIA

Harrisburg, Pa., April 17.—(AP)—Gov. Pinchot today vetoed the bill of Representative Nathaniel E. Jaffe, Philadelphia, providing for 15 round professional championship boxing bouts in Pennsylvania in place of the ten round limit.

"In my judgment," Gov. Pinchot said in his veto announcement, "ten rounds are sufficient to establish superiority in any boxing match. Tunney won the championship of the world from Dempsey in Philadelphia in a ten round bout. A number of championships in the lighter classes have been decided under our existing law."

Indian Leads Decathlon at Halfway Mark.

LAWRENCE, Kas., April 17.—[Special.]—The standings in the decathlon of the Kansas relays at the conclusion of five events, 100 meters, broad jump, shot put, high jump, and 400meters follow:

Wilson Charles, Haskell, 4,372.765.

Carl Parker, Lake Forest, 3,530.745.

Maynard Whitelaw, Friends' U., 3,383.77.

Donald Eagleman, Haskell, 3,026.24.

Curtis Beaver, Haskell, 2,397.05.

Tomorrow's decathlon events are 110 meters, high hurdles, discus, pole vault, javelin, and 1,500 meter run.

BY WILFRID SMITH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Lawrence, Kas., April 17.—Seven hundred and fifty athletes from 62 colleges and universities located in 13 states are ready for an assault on the track and field records of the Kansas relays tomorrow afternoon in Memorial stadium. A warm Kansas sun this afternoon, welcomed after the rains of early week, presaged an attendance tomorrow of 10,000 for the ninth annual games.

Five events of the decathlon were held today. Wilson (Buster) Charles, Haskell's national decathlon champion, who won his title at the A. A. U. meet last August in Pittsburgh, Pa., led the field of six contestants. Jim Bausch, University of Kansas star, who was declared ineligible last fall by the Big Six and now competes for the Kansas City Athletic club, although he still is a student at the university, was second. He has an excellent chance to beat the Indian athlete, for the final events tomorrow morning include the discus, pole vault, and javelin, in which Bausch is conceded to be superior to Charles.

Lake Forest Captain Third.

Carl Parker, captain of the Lake Forest college track team, was third, more than 800 points behind the leader. The Illinois contestant probably will finish in his present position. Like Bausch, this is Parker's first ten event all around test. He finished fourth in the septathlon at the Illinois indoor relays last month.

In piling up a point total of 4,372.765 Charles won the 100 meter dash, the broad jump, high jump, and 400 meter run and finished second to Bausch in the shot put. Bausch, in addition to his shot put triumph, with a toss of 49 feet 9½ inches, was second in the short dash and the broad jump, fourth in the high jump, and third in the 400 meters. Parker tied for second in the dash, tied for third in the broad jump, finished second in the high jump, third in the shot put, and fifth in the 400 meter race. Parker's point total for the five events was 3,530.745.

Olympic Game Talent.

Bausch's total of 3,834.33 leaves him 538.435 points behind Charles. The Indian is defending champion. Both Charles and Bausch are outstanding competitors for the United States Olympic team next summer.

Five western conference universities, Chicago, Northwestern, Illinois, Iowa, and Indiana, will be represented in tomorrow's games. Lake Forest, Loyola, Bradley, and Shurtleff are Illinois schools competing in the college division. The roster of universities includes Yankton college and the State University of South Dakota from the north, Rice institute, Southern Methodist, and Texas from the south, and Washington State college from the Pacific coast, in addition to Missouri valley, Big Six, and minor colleges of this trans-Mississippi territory.

Stanley Cup Play Attracts $300,000 Gate

MONTREAL, Que., April 17.—[Special.]—The recent world series of hockey has blossomed into the largest melon on record, according to unofficial figures obtained today. Players, rink owners, team officials, and all others concerned with the Stanley cup playoff, which ended here Tuesday night, will divide more than $300,000. This exceeds the recipts of last year by nearly $100,000 and surpasses the total of all previous years in the history of the National Hockey league. The total hockey receipts for the season just closed, including the Stanley cup sum, are approximately $4,540,000.

The players' share will amount to $150,000 and the two teams which reached the final—the Canadiens of Montreal and the Chicago Blackhawks—will receive the largest part of this. For successfully defending the cup each of the Canadiens will be given about $2,800, while the Blackhawks each will receive approximately $2,200.

The other teams competing in the playoff—Boston Bruins, Toronto Maple Leafs, New York Rangers, and Montreal Maroons—each will receive about $1,000 for their part in the series.

Every game in the playoff series drew a capacity house, with the second game of the final competition between the Hawks and the Canadiens at the Chicago Stadium setting a record with an attendance of 17,200. The total gate receipts for the five games at Chicago and Montreal are estimated at $105,000. The series between the Canadiens and the Bruins drew $108,000, while the Hawks and Toronto drew $37,000 in their two game series. The Hawks-Rangers series at the Chicago Stadium and Madison Garden attracted $50,000 worth of customers. The Rangers-Maroons series was worth $41,000.

The magnates of the league will divide $100,000, while the remainder of the melon will be deposited in the league treasury.

DUBLINSKY WINS BOUT WITH DUKE BY K. O. IN FIFTH

Green Bay, Wis., April 17.—(AP)—Harry Dublinsky, Chicago, smothered Benny Duke, Detroit, with hard and fast punches to the face and body and then knocked him out in the fifth round of their scheduled ten round fight here tonight.

Dublinsky floored Duke for short counts in the first, second and fifth rounds before the referee counted Duke out for the first time in 65 starts. Dublinsky weighed 136, Duke 137. In a preliminary, Johnny Saunders, Green Bay, scored a knockout over Jack Robinson, Chicago, in the fifth round of their scheduled six round fight.

Two More Sox Join Lyons on Injured List

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Cleveland, O., April 17.—Donie Bush, who manages the White Sox, was mildly shocked this afternoon to learn that he is conducting a bunch of invalids around the country. He suspected that his pitching ace, Ted Lyons, was in this class, but he didn't believe there was anything wrong with Lu Blue, the new first sacker, or with Fred Eichrodt, the extra outfielder. All three have ailments strangely similar. This was revealed today when they attended a local osteopathic clinic.

The redeeming feature of the discoveries is that there is nothing to worry about. The three boys, all of whom have been having trouble with their arms, were informed that muscles had slipped out of place in the region of the upper ribs. The misplaced muscles affected the nerves in the shoulder, hence the pain when throwing. They were treated to an adjustment today and will have another tomorrow. Inside of ten days they will be working as well as ever. At least they were so informed.

Good News for Bush.

The news that Lyons is to be kept from work for only a short period was, to Bush, like a legacy from a forgotten uncle. The evil hand has a habit of reaching out each year to cause the Sox grief and it was thought that Ted, because of his inability to get going, might be this season's victim. Last year Thomas was knocked out for the full season by the sinister genius. Until Lyons is able to start regularly Bush may be embarrassed considerably by a shortage of pitchers, but he at least has something pleasing to look forward to.

The discovery that Blue has muscles not functioning in the channels ordained by nature explains his defection with the Browns last season.

Frasier Hurls Today.

Outside of his pitchers, Manager Bush still is well satisfied with his 1931 production, the two defeats in three starts here notwithstanding. The infield defensively has looked great and Appling will get along as a hitter. The attack will be further improved as soon as Smead Jolley's bat becomes available about a week hence.

After idleness today the Sox will return to work tomorrow in the last of the four game series with the Indians whose directing geniuses, Roger Peckinpaugh, Billy Evans and Walter McNicholas, anticipate a big year. In hopes that an even break can be devised as compensation for the lengthy stay here, Bush is going to give Vic Frasier, the silent Texan, his first big league start. This will leave Thomas available for Sunday at St. Louis. There still is reason to fear Thomas' arm is not as he claims.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

Rogers Hornsby is a practical Texan who believes in knocking a homer when a homer will win a ball game. Here's a season only four days old and already the new Cub boss has twice supplied the winning margin with a smack beyond Mr. Wrigley's property. His homer in the seventh in yesterday's final with the Pittsburgh Pirates was good for three runs and the final score was Cubs, 5; Pirates, 4; so try to laugh that one off.

This final of the season's first series was a dandy entertainment for the ladies' day squealers, full of drama and, in the early innings, angry passion, in so far as the Cubs were concerned. Said anger was due to the fact that in the first five innings Mr. Hornsby, Mr. Wilson, Mr. Hartnett, Mr. Bush and several others could get no inkling as to where Dipsydoo Wood was throwing his fluttering boop-boop-a-doop ball.

Rogers Called Out on Strikes.

The aforementioned batsmen all were called out on strikes without even a swinging gesture, beginning in the first inning with the manager himself, who didn't get his bat off his shoulder for a single swing. Immediately after, Wilson took only one swing in striking out and things kept going that way until in the fifth inning the Cubs got the idea that the youthful Mr. Wood was toting his own trick rosin. They demanded and got a formal umpire investigation of Wood's rosin and though it turned out to be just plain old pine rosin, the inquiry flattered the youngster so much that he forthwith forgot to attend to his chore and in the next two innings our lads scored all five of their runs off him and his emergency successor.

Another thing that added to the pleasure of the ladies and the paying bugs as well, was the fact that the Cubs got out of a bad jam in the ninth, after the Pirates had filled the bases with one out. In this session Hornsby forcibly showed the customers again that he isn't carrying on any McCarthy traditions, for he yanked Guy Bush, put in Les Sweetland to pitch to two left handed batters, and finished with Bob Smith.

Hornsby Scores First.

And while we're gurgling about Hornsby, we may as well set down here that he scored the first run, in the sixth, after a spirited dash from first to third on a short single by Wilson and he ended the game while the potential tying run was crossing the plate by going back of second for Comorosky's grounder and making a neat throw to first for the final putout.

Of course, the Pirates were very sad at having lost three out of the four games of the series, but they must be finding some solace in their new infield double play combination. Grant-

MAROONS VS. ILLINI.

University of Chicago's baseball team will open its Big Ten conference season this afternoon, meeting Illinois, the favorite to capture the championship won last year by Wisconsin, at Greenwood field.

Illinois recently completed a southern trip, winning four out of six games. The Illini opened their Big Ten season by defeating Northwestern, 15 to 4.

Northwestern university's baseball team swings back into action today against the University of Iowa at Iowa City. The game will be the second conference clash of the season for the Wildcats, and they will be out to prove that the licking administered by Illinois in the opener last week was not a true indication of the team's ability.

Sarazen II Runs Again in Jamaica Stake.

New York, April 17.—(AP)—King Thoroughbred, absent from the metropolitan turf for five months, returns tomorrow for a 169 day sojourn with the opening of the spring season at Jamaica.

As in past years the Paumonok handicap will feature the six race program of the inaugural day at the Long Island track. A classy field of veteran sprinters is entered, but chief interest centers in whether Mrs. Graham Fair Vanderbilt's Sarazen II can repeat his triumph of last year.

Race Started in 1906.

The speedy Vanderbilt 4 year old stepped away from his field last year to register the fifth win in eight years for 3 year olds. He went wrong shortly afterward and never faced the barrier during the remainder of the season. If Sarazan II wins again tomorrow he will duplicate the feats of Red River and Silver Fox, both of which won the race two years straight. The Paumonok was first run in 1906.

Sarazen II has been carefully prepared for tomorrow's renewal. But he will be called on to face stern opposition. Chestnut Oak, who raced in England last year after burning up the American turf as a 3 year old, will carry top weight of 126 pounds.

Judge Schilling in Race.

Then there is Judge Schilling, a great money runner, in with 123 pounds; the speedy Finite, who has been asked to carry one pound more; Harry F. Sinclair's Mokatam, winner of the feature race at the United Hunts meeting Thursday which will pack 125 pounds, and W. R. Coe's classy 4 year old, Captuso. Sarazen II gets in with 116 pounds.

Other entries include Commuter, Sir Johren, Condescend, Maya, Protractor and Grattan.

ESSARE WINS BY NECK

Havre de Grace, Md., April 17.—[Special.]—Essare won the Beaverwyck purse by a neck after a courageous rush for the last three-sixteenths here today. He faced the necessity of overtaking as fleet a horse as Dr. J. F. Adams' Pegg's Pride.

Pegg's Pride finished stoutly, too, and was second by a length in front of C. V. Whitney's Hatbroom, which was making his first start of the season. Hatbroom trailed for much of the race and ran in a manner which indicated that he is at least as good as he was a year ago. Hatbroom was coming on at the end and his finishing charge took third honors from the Seagram stable's Solace by a head. Berber brought up the rear.

WOOD TO TRY FOR SPEEDBOAT MARK AGAIN

Miami Beach, Fla., April 17.—(AP)—Gar Wood said here today he would not rest until the world's speedboat record of 103.49 miles an hour, established recently by Kaye Don of England, "is smashed to smithers."

He said he was not discouraged because he was unsuccessful in attempts yesterday to break Don's record, but would recondition his craft, Miss America IX., and try again within two weeks.

The Detroit sportsman's best two way average yesterday was made on the fourth and fifth of his nine runs when he was timed at 102.890 and 103.249 miles an hour respectively over the measured mile course. His average for the two runs was 103.069 miles an hour, which he said exceeded by .813 miles an hour the former American record of 102.256 he set here in the same boat March 20.

Two other runs were slightly faster than the fourth, but they could not be used in computing a two way average because they were not completed within a 30 minute period required in claiming a record.

"I will not rest until the Englishman's record, if it is a record, is smashed to smithers," he said. "And I'll not be satisfied with bettering his time by a fraction of a mile an hour. The Miss America IX. when we finish making a few contemplated adjustments, will step along at about 105 miles an hour, I believe."

S.-L. Motors Top Steamers by 212 Pins

S. & L. Motors, winners of the American Bowling Congress championship, gained a lead of 212 pins on the Kankakee Steamers of the Randolph league last night in the first half of a bowling match for a $500 stake. The Motors collected a 4,075 total for four games and the Steamers 3,863.

By piling up an advantage on the Steamers' home alleys, the Congress-Wabash Recreation, the Motors are expected to have little difficulty increasing their margin when the match is concluded Tuesday evening on the Woodlawn alleys, where the south siders have been amassing big counts.

Bud Wright of the S. & L. Motors was high man with 913. Maricich, a teammate, was on his heels with 896. An 840 total by Joe Willman was best for the Steamers. The scores:

BERG RETURNS TODAY; WEIGHT WORRIES ROUTED

Will Start Gym Sparring for Canzoneri Bout.

Jack [Kid] Berg will break camp at Waukesha, Wis., this morning and return to Chicago where this afternoon he will take his first gym workout for his bout with Tony Canzoneri at the Stadium next Friday night. Berg will defend his junior welterweight championship and at the same time attempt to wrest the lightweight title from the New York Italian.

At the conclusion of his five days' drill at the Wisconsin resort yesterday, Berg said he had run off sufficient weight to make it easy for him to get within the lightweight limit by 1 o'clock next Friday. Two sessions daily on the road and mud baths had the desired effect, he said.

Berg left here last Sunday with some apprehension regarding his ability to make the 135 pound limit. His handlers were not alarmed over his ability to balance at 135, but they feared for the physical condition in which such a reduction would leave him.

Canzoneri has been boxing for the last two days at Mullen's loop gym, doing most of his work against his new stablemate, Lud Abela, little Spanish puncher who meets Ralph Lenny in one of the eight round supporting numbers.

Strenuous Drill Mapped.

Berg will train at the Arcade gym this afternoon. His manager, Sol Gold, expects to put the little Briton through six rounds of work today and ten rounds every day until Thursday.

Londos Drills for Title Bout with Kwariani

Londos and Kwariani are matched to go two falls to a finish. Their first match went only one fall, Kwariani being injured when he fell from the ring as Londos tried an airplane spin. The champion himself was exhausted after pinning Kola in one hour and twenty-four minutes.

Another attraction on the bill is Jim McMillen, who quit professional football after graduating from the University of Illinois, to become a wrestler. McMillen and Kwariani are regarded now as the chief threats to Londos. The ex-Illini star will meet George Hagen, former marine from Brooklyn.

One of the preliminaries brings together George Zaharias of Colorado and Frank Bronowicz, Polish youngster. The latter has won eight matches here without being defeated.

The other match is between Rudy Dusek of Omaha and Billy Evans, husky Indian from Oklahoma.

FINALISTS MEET FOR PING PONG TITLES TONIGHT

The semi-finals and finals of the Chicago district ping pong championships will be played this afternoon and tonight in the grand ballroom of the Palmer house.

GOLDEN GLOVES BOYS APPEAR ON POSTOFFICE CARD

Golden Gloves winners will be among the fighters who will battle in the annual amateur boxing show for the Chicago postoffice championships tonight at the Ashland Boulevard auditorium. Eight bouts have been arranged.

Jimmy Eliopoulos, who reached the finals of the Golden Gloves competition; Johnny Phagen of the Lawndale gym., also a member of the Chicago gym; Leo Rodak of the South Chicago Wheelman club; and Nick Scialaba, featherweight, will be fighting for the title. Howard Story, national A. A. U. champion, also has entered.

Trahan and Litsinger Win Hamilton Club Handball

Bob Trahan and Fred Litsinger won the Hamilton club doubles handball tournament, which ended Thursday. They won 15 out of 18 games. The runner-up team was Harry Drake and Al Weinberger, from whom Trahan and Litsinger won three straight games.

CUNEO NIGHT HAWKS PLAY.

Night employes of the Cuneo Press, which has been represented in industrial baseball for a number of years, have organized a team to be known as the Cuneo Nite Hawks. The Nite Hawks are seeking Sunday out of town games. Daniel Marks, night department manager of the firm, is in charge of scheduling games.

Hornsby Hits Homer; Cubs Win Again, 5-4

The Pirates reached Bush for 13 hits up to the time he left the game with none out in the ninth. In the first five innings against Wood the Cubs made only two hits, but they brought their total to five with three in the sixth before the youngster left the game. They added four against Bednar in the seventh and eighth innings.

Smith Disposes of Two.

When Sweetland went out after a sacrifice by Grantham and a more or less intentional pass to P. Waner in the ninth, Les had a chance to be charged with a loss without having a time at bat marked against him, for in walking P. Waner he put the possible winning run on base. But Smith protected the situation by disposing of Traynor and Comorosky, each of whom had previously in the game had made a single and a double off Bush.

Before the Cub first inning had gone far it appeared that the Cubs were out to get their day's supply right off. Cuyler was safe on Thevenow's error and English walked. Hornsby let three benders sail past him without any indication that he knew the ball game was in progress. Rog let out an awful whoop at Umpire Quigley to hide his embarrassment, and then Wilson stepped up. As Hack took a wild swing Cuyler and English staged a double steal, after which Hack let two strikes bend past him. Hack also barked, to no avail. Then Wood threw out Stephenson.

In the second inning Comorosky doubled and got home on Thevenow's single to give the Pirates a lead which served as such an irritant while the Cubs were being eliminated in double plays in the second, third, and fourth innings, and being sunk in order in the fifth.

Cubs Take Lead.

The Cubs took the lead in the sixth, however. After English had flied to L. Waner, Hornsby walked and raced to third when Thevenow found Wilson's grounder too hot to handle. Stephenson singled to center, scoring Hornsby and putting Wilson on third, and Hartnett singled to the same spot, scoring Wilson and putting Stephenson on third. Bell walked, filling the bases, but for the second time in the game Grimm hit into a double play.

The setting for Hornsby's No. 2 1931 homer, which, incidentally, tied his total for all of last year, was provided in the following manner: Bush walked on four pitches and Wood gave way to Bednar. Cuyler forced Bush. English singled to right, Cuyler stopping at second. Then Hornsby knocked the ball over the left field wall, scoring Cuyler and English ahead of him. Wilson was called out on strikes again. Stephenson singled to center, but Hartnett fouled to Hemsley.

At the outset of the eighth inning the Pirates made three singles and a double in a row off Bush but their progress was hindered by some poor base running by Comorosky. P. Waner started it with a single to center and stopped at third when Traynor doubled over Cuyler's head. Comorosky singled to right, scoring P. Waner and Traynor, but in his zeal to do great things tried to stretch his effort to a double, though Cuyler had the ball as he rounded first. Hornsby had the ball waiting for the young man when he arrived ten feet short of second base. Suhr followed with a single to center but was forced by Thevenow. Hemsley flied to Cuyler.

Mosolf Scores in Ninth.

Mosolf batted for Bednar in the ninth and walked. He stopped at second on L. Waner's single to right. Sweetland relieved Bush and Grantham sacrificed. P. Waner walked, filling the bases and Smith relieved Sweetland. Traynor flied to Stephenson, Mosolf scoring after the catch. Hornsby threw out Comorosky.

Yankees Beat Army, 15-1, in Annual Exhibition

West Point, N. Y., April 17.—(AP)—The New York Yankees had no trouble except with the weather today, as they won their annual exhibition game from the Army, 15 to 1. The Yanks gathered 13 hits off three pitchers and were aided by four Cadet errors. The only Army run was scored on Golden's homer in the second inning. After several delays the game was called at the end of the seventh inning on account of rain. Score:

Layton Beats Hall, 300-263, at 3 Cushions

Johnny Layton, ten times a holder of the world's three cushion billiard championship, earned the right to meet Arthur Thurnblad, present titleholder, in a special match, by defeating Allen Hall of Chicago by 300 to 263 in 251 innings, in the test which ended last night at Mussey's, 131 South Wabash avenue.

Going into the final block Layton led by 250 to 209, in a total of 202 innings. Layton triumphed by 50 to 27 in 43 innings in the fifth block yesterday afternoon. The sixth and final block last night was won by Hall by the score of 54 to 50 in 49 innings. Layton's high run was 8, Hall's 6.

Layton took four of the first five blocks. He won the first block by 50 to 38 in 37 innings, but lost the second by 50 to 59 in 49 innings. He won the third by 50 to 44 in 37 innings and he won the fourth block by 50 to 41 in 37 innings.

Hall eliminated Layton in the last world's championship, defeating him in the regular tournament game, 50 to 43 in 40 innings; then turning him back, 50 to 27 in 32 innings, in the playoff for second place, which was worth $4,200. Layton expects to confer with Thurnblad today and arrange plans for their meeting.

Layton yesterday wired a challenge to Willie Hoppe and Welker Cochran for a team match at three cushions, with Layton and Hall or Thurnblad opposed to Hoppe and Cochran, the balkline headliners.

RING LARDNER HEARS FROM WILLIS CLOUGH

Chicago, Ill., April 17.—Dear Friend: This is the last letter you will receive from me from Chicago for a long while as we wine up our series in Chicago today and leave tonight for Cincinnati, where we got a series to play with Cincinnati.

I was telling some of the boys today that this will be my first visit to Cincinnati and Paul Waner says well you better take a good look at the town because maybe it will also be your last visit and I says why are they thinking about dropping Cincinnati out of the league. Well I don't know what he referred to but anyway they decided today who I am going to room with. It is Bill Hinchman, one of our coaches, and he told me about it himself and I says I would be glad to room with him only I understand room mates had to look alike on account of hotels giving you twin beds and he says yes that was right, only Manager Ens said he could not decide who I looked the most like on the club and it layed between Hinchman and Barney Dreyfuss the owner of the club but he don't always travel with the club so they choose Hinchman.

Bill seemed tickled to death but he says there was only one thing he wanted to know and that was whether I snored and I told him never except when I was asleep and he said well he guest he could not object to that.

WILLIS CLOUGH.

Seattle Girls Take Relay at National Meet

New York, April 17.—(AP)—Another spectacular performance by Helene Madison, speed marvel from the west coast, tonight enabled the Washington Athletic club of Seattle to stick close on the heels of the Women's Swimming association of New York in the battle for team honors in the women's national championships.

At the close of the second night's events of the four day tournament the New York mermaids were leading the field with 18 points, closely pursued by the Seattle speedsters with 16. Los Angeles Athletic club held third place with 10 points.

Overcomes Big Lead.

A great anchor race by Miss Madison provided the Seattle team with a victory in the 400 yard relay, one of the two events run off tonight. Their time was 4:24 2-5, five seconds slower than the world mark.

Trailing in third place when she took over the burden at the end of 300 yards, the 17 year old coast sensation rapidly overtook the leaders, passed her last competitor wtihin 50 yards of the finish and won with a yard to spare. Her time for the 100 was 1:01 3-5, considerably over her own world record, but sufficient to outstrip tonight's field.

N. Y. Team Is Second.

Women's Swimming Association of New York, which led for the first three laps, finished second, with the Los Angeles Athletic club quartet third.

Attorneys for Jack, Estelle to Confer Today

Dempsey's spokesman will be Dr. R. E. Burns, dentist attorney of Reno, Nev., where Dempsey is staying. He agreed with Attorney Scott today on a meeting place for tomorrow's conference, and will take up the question as to which of the Dempsey couple will waive divorce plaintiff rights in favor of the other. The conference also probably will include a preliminary discussion of property terms, since Dempsey's holdings in real estate and other valuables in this state are estimated in excess of $1,000,000.

IRISH TRACK TEAM FACES BADGERS TODAY

Notre Dame, Ind., April 17.—[Special.]—Notre Dame will open its outdoor track season here tomorrow against the well balanced Wisconsin squad. Bill Henke, who established a new world's record of 48.9 seconds for the quarter mile on the five lap Iowa track indoors recently, will run for the Badgers against Alex Wilson, Notre Dame British empire champion in the quarter at 48.8 outdoors. Wilson holds the local gym record on an eight lap track with a 50.3 performance.

Although Wilson defeated Henke several times last season, Henke is a much improved runner this year and should press Wilson to the limit. Wilson has never been defeated in the quarter while at Notre Dame.

The appearance here of Sammy Behr, Badger weight and high jump artist, is also reason for interest.

BECKER WARNS FISHERMEN ON FOREST BLAZES

Current Fires Result of Careless Camping.

BY BOB BECKER.

April is a dead month on the fisherman's calendar, although in the central states a few species may be taken before May 1, the opening of the trout season. This spring it is just as well that thousands of fishermen or other woods travelers stay out of the woods because of the forest fire menace. The conservation departments of Wisconsin, Minnesota, and Michigan know that during a dry spell of weather fires increase in direct proportion to the number of campers, fishermen, and others who roam through the timber lands.

In spite of constant warnings and years of education, smokers still start many fires by throwing away lighted cigars and cigarets, and any number of devastating blazes are started by campers who walk away from camp leaving a fire going. This spring the states face another crucial situation with respect to forest fires because of exceptionally dry March and April weather.

Come on, Rain!

When we were in Grand Rapids, Mich., a few days ago the fishermen were praying for rain because streams are so low, and the conservation department was joining in the same thought because the woods are dry as tinder. Unofficially we heard that there was a possibility of delaying the opening of the trout season unless soaking rains drench the forest country during the next two weeks and automatically eliminate the forest fire menace. Apparently it is difficult enough at present trying to control the forest fire threats without adding to the grief by allowing thousands of people in the woods.

In Michigan practically all of the inland lakes are closed to fishing during April and will remain closed until June 25, with the exception of a score or two of so-called "pike" lakes, where wall-eyes and northern pike may be taken. They open May 15. This date also is the opening of the trout fishing season.

Bass Dates Same.

The Michigan fishing season on all bass, bluegills, and sunfishes remains the same as last year, June 25 to March 31, and, according to information reaching us, there will be no attempt to change this for an earlier date.

If the May 1 date for trout fishing stands and the north woods country does not get the rainstorms that it needs, every angler going into the woods for trout or pike will have to watch his fires as never before. As one conservation warden pointed out to us last year, if some of the careless smokers and campers who start forest fires had to work on a fire line for just one night while fighting a terrific blaze, they would soon learn not to be careless in the woods. A dose of parched lungs, extreme fatigue, singed eyebrows, and painful eyes ought to teach one the lesson.

NOTRE DAME TO HOLD UNIVERSAL FETE ON MONDAY

PRICE OF WHEAT GAINS ON REPORT OF DRY WEATHER

December Sells at New High for Season.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Continued dry weather in the spring wheat territory and export sales of 1,500,000 bu Canadian wheat were largely instrumental in advancing prices yesterday around 1c from Thursday's finish with the December selling up to 67⅝c, a new high for the season. However, bullish enthusiasm was tempered by a low barometer in the Canadian northwest, which held out hopes of moisture, and during the day there were reports of light snow at some points in northern Alberta.

The wheat market fluctuated in an erratic manner, with considerable spreading under way between the July and the September. At one time the difference was only ¼c, compared with ⅝c at the finish on Thursday and 2c on Wednesday. Those who sold July and bought September wheat at the latter figure were credited with closing the spread when the two futures were about the same price and at the last July was ¼c over the September. Closing trades were at net gains of ⅝@⅞c with July, 64⅛@64¾c, September 63⅝@63¾c, and December 67⅛@67¼c. May was again unchanged at 53¼c.

Market a Weather Affair.

Dry weather reports are assuming a more serious tone as the result of the continued lack of rain and prevailing high winds, but, as is usual in a weather market, the latter is unusually sensitive to reports that suggest a change in conditions. While the trade is inclined to pay considerable attention to the drought scare, which is regarded as developing, they are not overlooking the continued active foreign demand or cash wheat, even though it is confined almost exclusively to Canada and Australia. The latter sold 3,750,000 bu to the orient and Europe on Thursday, according to cables.

Foreign wheat markets showed a strong undertone and had some effect locally. Liverpool closing ⅝@1d higher on the better Argentine exchange rate and a good continental demand for cash grain. July there finished 67¾c. Winnipeg was strong, with the seaboard and foreigners on the buying side, and gained ⅝@⅞c for the day, with July 64c. Buenos Aires advanced 2⅛@2¾c, with the exchange rate up ¼c.

It is the gossip of the trade that negotiations are under way between local cash wheat handlers and the stabilization corporation regarding deliveries of grain on May contracts, and it is generally expected that the government agency will take the wheat in private elevators owing to the scarcity of room in public houses.

Corn Independently Weak.

Trade in corn was not large, but the market showed independent weakness and finished ⅝@⅞c lower, with May 60¾c, July 62¾@62¾c, September 61⅛@61¾c, and December 54@54½c. There was short covering in May early, but as soon as the buying ceased the price drooped quickly. Buying against bids checked the decline. Reports from Nebraska and the southwest indicated farmers were selling freely, and an increased movement is expected shortly. Kansas City May was weak and at one time sold at 5¾c under the same future in Chicago.

No improvement was shown in the shipping demand for cash corn, with sales of 77,000 bu by local handlers, while the country sold 15,000 bu to arrive. The spot basis was steady to ½c higher, with receipts 152 cars. Local sentiment remains generally bearish.

Finish Is Unchanged.

Commission houses were fair sellers of oats, while cash interests were again on the buying side. The trade was unchanged to ⅛c lower, with May 30⅝@30¾c, July and September 33¼c, and December 33c. Shipping sales aggregated 100,000 bu. Around 500,000 bu Canadian barley was sold for export during the day.

Industries have bought around 100,000 bu cash rye in Chicago during the last week. Futures, however, were dull and ⅛c higher to ⅛c lower, with May 37¾c, July 39¾c, and September 41¾c.

SUGAR.

NEW YORK, April 17.—(AP)—SUGAR—Raw was easier again under continued liberal offerings of early forty. Prices declined 3 points with sales of 22,000 bags of Cuba Rican for prompt shipment to local and export refiners at 3.25c. Also 9,000 bags of new crop Philippines for Dec.-Jan. shipment sold to an operator at 3.55c.

Influenced by the continued liberal offerings in the spot market and the poor London cables, raw futures were generally easier, closing net unchanged to 2 points lower. The market opened unchanged to 2 points lower and later showed net losses of 2 to 3 points on liquidation and selling by houses with Cuban connections. The demand was not at all aggressive, but in the later afternoon when selling pressure ceased there was a rally on covering and the market regained all of the early loss. The failure of demand to broaden in the spot market seemed to discourage any new or outside buying, however, and final prices were a little off from the best. Approximate sales, 27,850 tons. Prices follow:

May	1.35	1.35	1.34	1.35
July	1.33	1.33	1.32	1.32
September	1.41	1.41	1.39	1.40
December	1.49	1.51	1.47	1.49
January	1.49	1.51	1.49	1.50
March	1.56	1.58	1.55	1.56

A fair withdrawal demand was reported in refined, but there was no new business. Prices were unchanged at 4.50c for fine granulated, while second hands appeared to be offered a little more freely at from 4.42½c to 4.45c.

RAW SILK.

NEW YORK, April 17.—(AP)—SILK—Raw futures closed quiet; sales, 940 bales; May, $2.32; July, $2.30; September, $2.31. Open market quotations [sixty day basis]: Shanghai extra B, $2.60; Canton Double extra, A 14-16c, $1.75; Japanese crack double extra, $2.65.

SINCLAIR SAYS OUTPUT CLOUDS OIL INDUSTRY

Proration Proves Failure, He Says.

BY O. A. MATHER.

Although the petroleum industry appears to be reaching a point from which it can build upward, it still has several major problems to solve, this forecast and warning are made by Harry F. Sinclair, chairman of the Sinclair Consolidated Oil corporation, in his annual report.

H. F. SINCLAIR.

"In the field of production the attempt has been made to escape the inevitable effects of overdevelopment by the expedient known as proration, or restriction of flush and semi-flush areas," Mr. Sinclair says. "The hope that proration would stabilize prices has proved to be an illusion. In the fourteen months elapsing since Jan. 1, 1930, the price of crude oil in the midcontinent area has been driven steadily downward, showing a cut of 63 per cent.

Drilling Adds to Woes.

"This measure has been inequitably applied in different states and different parts of the same state. It has worked a great injustice and has created enormous so-called 'potentials' of production, which, though more imaginary than real, hang like a cloud over the industry. Meanwhile the continuation of drilling has added daily to a capacity to produce already in excess of market requirements. At the same time the industry had to absorb increased imports.

"Until these problems are faced and these conditions overcome by the industry as a whole there seems to be no prospect of improved earnings. No one company can cure these conditions, nor can any one company escape from consequences that are common to all."

Net Income Is $12,026,424.

Although gross earnings of Sinclair Consolidated declined only moderately last year, it was only by virtue of large non-operating income that any profits were earned. Gross operating earnings for 1930 were $183,921,151, compared with $196,805,604 in 1929. But operating costs, etc., increased to $161,383,815, compared with $155,459,906.

Non-operating income was $28,857,668, most of which was derived from the sale of a half interest in a pipe line to the Standard Oil Company of Indiana. This item was only $2,180,618 in 1929. Shrinkage in value of investments and inventories totaled $16,187,675. Net income for 1930 was $23,026,434, equivalent to $1.77 a share on 6,162,464 common shares, compared with $16,599,037, or $2.82 a share on 5,466,008 shares in 1929. At the end of 1930 current assets were $82,246,422, current liabilities, $16,957,526; surplus, $40,363,852, and total assets, $404,569,463.

RAIL RETURN DROPS

Earnings of the western railroads last year fell far short of the 5.75 per cent fixed by the interstate commerce commission as a fair rate of return, according to an analysis made by H. A. Scandrett, president of the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul, and Pacific, in his annual report.

"For the entire western district the average rate of return for 1930 was 1.34 per cent, compared with 4.55 per cent in 1929," he says. "For the northwestern region, in which this company is grouped, the rate of return was 2.55 per cent, compared with 4.15 per cent. The rate of return for our company was 2.12 per cent, compared with 3.88 per cent.

Deficit Is $4,885,410.

"The deficiency in the fair return for the western district for 1930 was $20,357,000, compared with $129,954,000 for 1929; for the northwestern region, $116,590,000, compared with $66,645,000; for this company, $27,397,000, compared with $15,930,000."

The income account for 1930 showed a deficit of $4,885,410, compared with net income of $7,074,014 for 1929, which was equivalent to 95 cents a share on the common stock. Gross earnings were $142,569,631 last year, compared with $171,361,385 in 1929. Surplus at the end of 1930 was $8,034,-462, showing a reduction of $6,875,633.

LOOKING AHEAD WITH BUSINESS

The Melville Shoe corporation reports the largest Easter week's business in its history. Sales for 1930 amounted to $28,654,198, or an increase of 12.28 over those for the preceding year. For the first three months of 1931 the sales were $5,406,179, compared with $5,061,535 in the first quarter of 1930.

Hudson and Essex sales for the first two weeks in April exceeded sales for the first two weeks in March by 23 per cent, according to William J. McInerney, president and general manager, who also states that a government order for one thousand Essex taxis is not included in these percentages.

Baldwin Locomotive works has received an order for twenty 18,000 gallon locomotive tenders to cost $300,000 from Union Pacific system.

The Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company has received an order for two steam turbine units costing $1,250,000.

Warm Weather Stimulates Ready-to-Wear Buying

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, April 17.—"Trade and industrial developments of the week are rather irregular, with the bulk of such changes as are visible rather decidedly on the quiet side," says Bradstreet's review of the week. "In wholesale and jobbing trade and industry there has been a continuance of the ebb in activity developing after the Easter rush, whereas in retail trade the advent of warm spring weather has buoyed final distribution noticeably, this latter in some few cases being reflected in a little better buying from jobbers.

"Buying of ready to wear apparel for men and women has been prominently noted at retail, in a number of cases stimulated by 'sales,' which have evoked varying responses at different cities. At Philadelphia labor troubles have continued to affect hosiery, tapestry and dressmaking plants. Philadelphia reports piece goods buying in the first quarter as disappointing, but this week's reports indicate a little more doing at slightly better prices. Extremely low prices for petroleum in the east Texas field, some advices putting them as low as 15 cents a barrel, have been reported.

Chicago Buying Rises.

"It is to be noted in wholesale trade that a big sale of dry goods and related goods at Chicago resulted in a total distribution in excess of a year ago, with retail buying also swelled at that city by the large number of buyers attracted by the heavy volume of goods offered at the sale."

"Continued weakness in numerous commodities reflects a lack of forward momentum in general business activities," says Dun's. "Sentiment had been buoyed by the moderate seasonal uplift of the first quarter and rising stock markets had accentuated the improved feeling, but subsequent movements have not wholly supported the earlier brighter outlook.

"Recurring depression in securities, even without an aggressive selling pressure, naturally has been the reverse of cheering, and the maintenance of unusual ease in money rates has failed to provide a decisive stimulant. Further action on dividends, with scattered exceptions, has been adverse, disclosing the reduced earnings of many corporations, resulting from the prolonged industrial setback.

No Exact Parallel.

"With each passing week the fact is emphasized that the prevailing economic transition is deep rooted and far reaching and the experiences of other similar periods do not in all ways afford a reliable basis for comparison. The existing situation presents some difficulties for which there is no exact parallel, and time necessarily is required for the overcoming of these obstacles, in view of the unsatisfactory aspects now current, various adjustments are essential; and it is in the rebuilding of the commercial structure that the main progress has been attained.

"Surface fluctuations in business, with alternating rise or fall of operations in individual branches, are of less importance now than a strengthening of the foundation for eventual revival along wholesome lines. Hence it is that the week to week variations in volume of trade, while disappointing to those who had anticipated a definite upward trend, do not mean that nothing in the way of betterment is being accomplished."

UNITED BISCUIT AND PARAMOUNT PUBLIX EARNINGS DECLINE

United Biscuit Company of America and subsidiaries reported for the quarter ended March 31 net profit of $371,805, equal to 73 cents a share on the common stock, against $485,747, or 94 cents a share, in the final quarter of 1930.

Paramount-Publix corporation estimates its consolidated net profit for the first quarter, including earnings of subsidiary companies, at $3,510,000, equal to $1.12 a share on 3,128,873 shares outstanding at the end of the quarter. This compares with total net profits of $4,834,000, equal to $1.79 a share on 2,691,813 shares outstanding, for the corresponding quarter of last year.

Atlantic Refining company and subsidiaries, for the quarter ended March 31, reported consolidated net loss of $2,162,800, compared with a net profit of $1,124,300 in the corresponding quarter of 1930.

FORESEE DEFEAT OF PRESIDENT IN COPPER CO. ROW

New York, April 17.—(AP)—Removal of the general offices of the Calumet and Arizona Mining company from Calumet, Mich., to New York City was foreshadowed today by reports in well informed circles that the directors who favor the move had been successful in obtaining sufficient proxies to assure their victory.

Their proposal, which was opposed by President Gordon R. Campbell, who solicited proxies, will be acted upon at the annual stockholders' meeting at Warren, Ariz., Monday.

A so-called management committee favoring the move as necessary to enable the company to keep in close touch with the copper industry is composed of Charles E. Briggs, Cleveland; Thomas F. Cole, Tonopah, Nev.; William B. Mershon, Saginaw, Mich.; James C. Rea, Pittsburgh; L. D. Ricketts, Pasadena, Cal., and H. Dewitt Smith of New York.

During the campaign for proxies the committee said that Campbell, who has been president since 1921, had repeatedly stated he would retire if the board of directors deemed moving the general offices necessary.

MARCH EXPORTS OF COTTON SHOW LARGE GAIN OVER FEBRUARY

Washington, D. C., April 17.—(AP)—The textile division of the commerce department today announced that foreign demand for cotton was better during March than in any recent month and that domestic sales of cotton goods, though lower than in February, were 9 per cent above production.

Exports increased 127,000 bales over March, 1930, and 172,000 over February, 1931, but total exports for the eight months of the fiscal year were 262,000 bales below the corresponding period last year.

Values showed a big decline as compared with March, 1930. The value increased $10,480,000 over that of February, but was $7,065,000 lower than in March, 1930, and $226,000,000 under the comparative eight month's figures.

The report showed continued improvement in the domestic cotton manufacturing industry. Production of piece goods was slightly higher than in February, but the average weekly sales were 59,000,000 yards, compared with 81,000,000 in February and 73,000,000 in March, 1930.

Unfilled orders for piece goods decreased 22,000,000 yards, or about 5½ per cent, and stocks on hand dropped 46,000,000 yards, or 14 per cent. Unfilled orders were 100,000,000 yards above stocks.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, April 17.—The Chinese government probably will reject the proposal of James Stone, chairman of the federal farm board, to purchase large quantities of American wheat and flour, according to a report received from Nanking today, quoting T. V. Soong, minister of finance, to the effect "That while the scheme might temporarily benefit the Chinese people it would eventually work a hardship on the Chinese farmers whose livelihood depends on their annual wheat crop."

The report also alleged that the farm board's quoted prices would result in undue profit to the United States.

The Nanking telegram stated that Mr. Stone had offered American flour for Chinese consumption on a long term credit basis, spread over five years, which would be in the form of a formal loan to the Chinese government without interest and security. The only security would be that the Chinese government would assume the responsibility of repaying the money in five annual installments.

Mr. Stone's proposal was made through the Chinese minister at Washington, C. C. Wu. Nanking has stated that while the subject is still under consideration Chinese officials were not likely to accept the proposal.

Alexander F. Banks, who has been president of the Elgin, Joliet and Eastern railway since 1901 and who has been with the road for more than thirty-seven years, will retire May 1, according to an announcement made yesterday. S. M. Rogers has been elected to succeed him.

Mr. Banks began in the railroad business as a messenger boy in the service of the St. Louis and South Eastern railroad at Evansville, Ind. He lives at 1204 Sheridan road, Evanston, and is a member of several clubs, including the Chicago, Old Elm, Onwentsia and Glenview. Mr. Banks is a director of several companies and banks.

Cites Chicago's Neglect of Illinois Coal Industry

BY SCRUTATOR.

Chicago is one of the leading coal consuming cities of the world. Each year around 35,000,000 tons of bituminous coal are shipped here, not including the amount brought in by railroads for their own use from mines that they own.

Illinois has richer coal deposits than any state east of the Missouri river. It is surpassed in the nation only by Colorado, whose coal is largely in mountainous regions and hard to get out.

And yet since the war there has been almost a steady decrease in the amount of Illinois coal burned in Chicago. There has been a corresponding increase in the tonnage shipped in from eastern fields, principally West Virginia and eastern Kentucky.

Outside Tonnage Twice As Great.

Last year 52,028,612 tons of coal were mined in Illinois. After deducting the amount produced by railroads for their own use, coal used at the mine and that produced on a small scale for local use, there remained 30,500,000 tons representing commercial shipments.

Only $8,489,261 tons of this found its way to Chicago. This was roughly half the amount of Illinois coal burned in Chicago in 1918 and 1919.

On the other hand last year Chicago received by rail and water 21,722,451 tons of bituminous coal from eastern fields, a good deal more than double the tonnage coming in from Illinois mines.

In the last decade Chicago's consumption of bituminous coal has increased slightly, despite greater efficency of combustion equipment, but the coal industry in Illinois has not benefitted thereby. Worse. It has slipped sadly.

In the last four years the volume of production of Illinois mines has slipped back to the pre-war basis.

Lower Labor Costs.

Mine owners in this state are not certain just how the blame for this situation should be portioned out. Part of the trouble, they agree, is due to the lower cost of labor in the east, which makes it possible for operators of the nonunion mines in West Virginia and eastern Kentucky to compete successfully for Chicago business despite the longer haul.

They also have something to say about freight rates, exhibiting figures to show that during the last twenty years the cost of shipping a dollar's worth of coal from southern Illinois to Chicago has just about doubled.

But the crux of the matter seems to lie more in the difference in the quality of the coal itself, for Illinois coal still can be delivered in Chicago at a cheaper price per ton than the eastern product in spite of the advantage that the easterners have in the matter of lower wages.

Can Be Made Smokeless.

Eastern coal generally produces less smoke than the Illinois product, but, contrary to general belief, it is not smokeless. Much depends upon the manner in which it is handled.

Illinois operators point out that their coal likewise can be burned without giving off smoke, provided the user has the right kind of equipment. Such equipment, they say, is a profitable investment because the saving in fuel costs would pay for the additional outlay within a short time.

SUBMIT PLAN FOR STORAGE SPACE IN ARGENTINA

[Copyright: 1931: By the New York Times.]

BUENOS AIRES, April 17.—[Special.]—A Canadian firm has submitted to the Argentine government a proposal for the construction of 600 grain elevators at railroad stations throughout the republic, and terminal elevators at Buenos Aires, Bahia Blanca, Rosario, La Plata, Santa Fé, Quequen, San Nicolas and Concepcion.

The project would be financed by the issuance of six per cent bonds maturing in thirty-three years and to be guaranteed by the Argentine government. The proponent guarantees to make no profit on the construction but would charge small fee on the grain handled.

Control of the elevator system and the handling of grain would be in the hands of a commission to be appointed by the national government and the entire system would become the property of the government upon maturity of the bonds.

On Feb. 14, the provisional government issued a decree accepting in principle the proposal made on behalf of the Canadian company and the present proposal is merely an amplification of the original project.

Argentine cereal producers lose millions of pesos every year because of the absence of elevators at railroad stations and the proposal for the construction of this vast system of elevators is receiving the careful attention of the minister of agriculture.

SPECULATES ON WHO SUCCEEDS JAMES A. FARRELL

New York, April 17.—(AP)—Wall street was speculating today as to who will succeed James A. Farrell, president of the United States Steel corporation, who, under the proposed pension plan to be voted on by stockholders Monday, would be retired in 1933 at the age of 70 years.

Among those prominently mentioned for the position was I. Lamont Hughes, president of Carnegie Steel company, a U. S. Steel subsidiary. If the new pension system goes into effect Mr. Hughes would not be compelled to retire until 1948.

Bankers Remain Silent on Spanish Credit's Status

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, April 17.—After dipping to 9.95 cents, a price equal to the lowest reached during the recent unsettlement, the Spanish peseta rallied today and closed unchanged at 10.12 cents. The action of the exchange was interpreted by bankers as indicating that the peseta is finding its natural level.

Bankers here continued to preserve silence with regard to the status of the $60,000,000 credit arranged with the Bank of Spain on March 26. Thus far, it is understood, no definite steps have been taken either by the bankers or the new régime in Spain to determine whether the credit has been invalidated by the overthrow of the monarchy.

World Supplies of Coffee Show Decrease in March

New York, April 17.—(AP)—The New York Coffee and Sugar Exchange reported today that its compilation of world supplies of coffee, including stocks in the interior of Brazil, showed a slight reduction during March. The total as of April 1 was placed at 28,710,341 bags, a drop of 216,417 since March 1. The total, however, was 1,255,178 bags higher than a year previously.

Peoples Gas Co. Income Rises in First Quarter

Although gross earnings of the Peoples Gas Light and Coke company were somewhat lower for the first three months of this year than for the same period in 1930, net earnings were slightly larger. Gross operating revenues were $9,524,943, compared with $10,738,216. Net income was $1,772,338, equivalent to $2.65 a share on 666,903 shares of capital stock, compared with 1,768,726, or $2.93 a share on 602,257 shares, in the first quarter of 1930. The company now has 9,400 stockholders, an increase of 32 per cent since December.

Money in U. S. Treasury Is Up $253,000,000 Overnight

Washington, D. C., April 17.—(AP)—Money in the treasury showed an overnight increase of more than $253,000,000 today, climbing from $375,611,234 to $628,646,668. It represented funds from the recent sale of $275,000,000 in short time treasury certificates, maturing in eight months and bearing the low interest rate of 1⅞ per cent. The issue was over subscribed several days ago, but since it was dated April 15, their banks turned the money into the treasury on that date.

BY FRED HARVEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, April 17.—Contrary winds swept the stock market again today and values were whipped 1 to 3 points lower all down the line. United States Steel established another new minimum for the last four years at 130½, and there were drastic declines among some of the more volatile specialties, Auburn Auto topping the list with a drop of 35 points.

Several more poor earnings statements made their reappearance during the course of the day and the authoritative trade reviews showing anew that business and industry are relaxing from their mild efforts at expansion in the first quarter had the effect of further undermining confidence. Naturally, too, six weeks of steadily falling prices have brought the speculative community to a state where it doesn't take much in the way of fresh development to start a new wave of liquidation. Polyanna prophecies get scant respect from whatever quarter they may emanate.

Pools Drop Holdings.

Pools were busy disposing of some of their burdensome holdings and this liquidation had an unsettling effect generally. Electric Auto Lite took a tumble of 6¼ points from just such treatment. Industrial Rayon dropped 9½ almost as abruptly, Minneapolis Honeywell went down 5, Coca Cola 4, Worthington Pump 4¾, and Ingersoll Rand 3½ points. Liquid Carbonic lost about 4 points but later recovered a fraction of its loss.

International Telephone and Telegraph was forced to yield sharply before the pressure of combined liquidation and speculative selling. The stock broke some 4 points to new low levels for the decline, though still ruling substantially above the year's bottom price. Naturally, the selling was ascribed as having been influenced chiefly by the disturbing news from Spain, where the company has large investments in communication properties.

It is also a very extensive factor in the communications industry in South America and as a result is perhaps feeling the disturbing effect of unsettled conditions in various parts of that continent. American Telephone was disposed to show sympathetic weakness in the late dealings, notwithstanding the favorable first quarter report published earlier in the week.

Chemicals Have Bad Day.

Chemicals had a bad day as a group. Du Pont being a bear favorite. The street heard that the company's earnings from operations during the first quarter are going to make a pretty sorry showing and that what nourishment they may afford can be attributed to the dividends received by the company from General Motors. The stock dropped 4 points to a new low for the year.

Public utilities were 1 to 2 points lower on the average and that was about the measure of the weakness in the rail division. Baltimore & Ohio, selling ex dividend, Southern Pacific and Illinois Central were among the carrier issues to distinguish themselves by bumping new 1931 bottoms.

Small declines were the rule in the oil group, the motors and motor accessories. Atlantic Refining had a sinking spell on publication of its report covering first quarter "earnings" with a loss of a couple of millions but braced up later and emerged showing a loss of less than a point.

Live stock prices were more erratic than usual on yesterday's session. Best hogs sold to slightly better advantage, while others finished 10@15c lower. Top wool lambs at $10.15 established a new top for the year and numerous sales were made at $10.00 in face of the 25@50c slump in shorn stock. Most cattle ruled steady to slightly higher, but the quality was lacking and most sales were made below $8.00.

The extreme top in the hog market was unchanged at $7.95, while the general average showed 5c advance at $7.45. Most droves of good grades of hogs of all weights were costing more than on the preceding session. Receipts at 20,000 were beyond expectations and largest for Friday in three weeks, due largely to the bigger number of truckloads received yesterday.

All buyers showed a marked preference for choice grades, larger houses paying close to the top price for some light butchers. Only 4,000 head were left at the close. Loins advanced to the highest level of the season late yesterday and were 1@3c per pound above eastern points.

June Hogs Bring $8.15.

June light weight hogs sold at $8.15 yesterday and September contracts brought $8.00. Bids for May light were made at $8.00, but $8.10 was the lowest offer, while May mediums that were offered at $8.00 carried bids of $7.75 at the close. September heavy were bid at $8.50 and offered at $8.75. Light weights for next Monday's delivery were bid $7.90. Mediums for the same day were bid $7.60 and heavy grades were bid $7.10.

The meager supply of 2,000 cattle cleared slowly at steady to strong prices and occasional sales were considered slightly higher. Most sales were made within a range of $6.75@7.85, the lowest bulk since the spring of 1922. Good 1,219@1,547 lb steers and a small lot of 798 lb yearlings topped the list at $8.25. Eight yearling heifers averaging 645 lbs sold at $8.50. Cows and heifers showed more activity at steady prices. Calves were scarce and strong to higher.

Top Shorn Lambs at $8.75.

Light weight shorn lambs tumbled to $8.75 on yesterday's 25@50c break, the bulk of 90@100 lb averages selling at $7.50@8.50. Wool lambs were in good demand at firm prices, yard traders paying up to $10.15, while $10.00 was a popular price to larger local packers and shippers. Good 95@97 lb averages sold at $9.25@9.50 and 100 lb lambs went at $9.00. Supplies were second smallest for Friday since Feb. 6. Aged sheep and yearlings were mostly steady. Feeding and shearing stock was unchanged.

Probable receipts of hogs at Chicago for next Monday are estimated from 37,000 to 50,000. R. B. Ellis marked 36,000, H. S. Turner 48,000, G. McClean 47,000, F. M. Sherwood 46,000, S. Lund and G. W. Chandler 45,000, H. Pattison and F. W. Young 44,000, E. S. Waterbury and J. L. De Vol 43,000, J. T. Brown 42,000, J. M. Waters 41,000, W. T. Reneker, A. G. Welhener and P. Allen 40,000, F. Knutzen 39,000, C. Southwick 38,000 and L. Vining 37,000.

News and Gossip of Stock Marts

No Word of Dividend.

General Outdoor Advertising class A stock, selling to yield more than 20 per cent on the old dividend rate, apparently is off a paying basis. The date for the regular meeting was April 15, but no word has come of dividend action. It is not infrequent that a board of directors takes this method of allowing a dividend to slip into oblivion.

Food Shares Slip.

Food company shares have been falling heavily in the last few days. Friends of these stocks say the reason is not any drop in earnings, but the fact that prices were too high for the remainder of the market.

Investment Trusts Sold.

Penn road Drops.

Penn road has slumped in more active dealings. This is due to no special situation, but to the unsatisfactory performance of the entire rail list.

Vacuum at New Low.

Vacuum Oil is the latest of the petroleum issues to decline to new low ground for the year. While there has not been a great deal of pressure against the stock in the last week, it finally reached a point where "stop" loss orders were uncovered. This probably accounted for the sudden development of weakness.

CORD, U. S. RADIO SHARES HIT BY CHICAGO SELLING

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

Successful drives were made against two speculative favorites on the Chicago exchange yesterday. Cord corporation and U. S. Radio were thrown for losses as the stocks were dumped on the market. The selling did not extend to all classes of stocks, however, and not a few shares improved in price.

One house which was reported to be a heavy seller of Cord stock earlier in the day was said to be repurchasing when the issue hit 11. By that time, however, offerings in the stock were coming from other sources brought on by the break in Auburn in New York and the issue closed at its low quotation for the session.

61,000 Shares Change Hands.

Trading in the stock became almost frantic in the final minutes. When the smoke cleared away more than 61,000 shares of Cord had changed hands. The turnover in this stock represented more than 25 per cent of the day's total transactions. The trade in U. S. Radio was comparatively small but the loss of 2½ points was slightly larger than the decline in Cord.

The market action of the Insull shares bore out the report that the liquidation in these issues which has been coming from an eastern investment trust has run its course. Both Insull utility and corporation securities, which bore the brunt of the selling in the last few weeks, were selling above their previous prices. Other stocks in the group were quoted at better prices.

It is understood that Merchants and Manufacturers Securities company is about to make a substantial loan to another industrial concern. The company recently extended a credit of $150,000 to the Associated Apparel Industries.

Yellow Cab Income.

The Yellow Cab company yesterday made public its report on first quarter earnings. The firm had net profits in the three months ended March 31 of $482,599, as compared with $526,-451 in the first quarter of 1930. Yellow Cab stock has been comparatively quiet in the market recently.

Permission to consolidate two of the companies in the Midland United company group is asked in a petition filed with the public service commission of Indiana. The two firms are the Indiana Electric corporation and the Public Service of Indiana. Public service buys a large amount of electrical energy from Indiana Electric and the transmission systems of the two companies are interconnected.
